France Urged To Call Off A-Bomb Test

French To Ignore Appeal, Will Make Test Next Spring

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The United Nations Friday asked France to call off its A-bomb test in the Sahara Desert.

The action by the 82-nation General Assembly was a stinging defeat to the French, who had declared previously they would ignore any U.N. appeal and go ahead with the test perhaps as early as next spring.

France was taken by surprise by the decision of the Assembly, where it had the support of the United States and Britain.

Watered-Down Resolution

By a 51-16 vote, with 15 abstentions, the Assembly approved a watered-down resolution expressing grave concern over the French intention to conduct nuclear tests, and asking President Charles de Gaulle's government to "refrain from such tests."

A resolution containing those words had been approved in the U. N. Political Committee last week but not by a sufficient margin to assure the two-thirds majority required.

The two-thirds majority was achieved by knocking out two paragraphs in the resolution that some delegates, particularly those from Latin America, felt were too harsh on the French.

Dangerous Conditions

The paragraphs referred to the creation of dangerous conditions in Africa by holding the test, and to the special responsibility of the U.N. for "dependent peoples of Africa threatened by such tests."

The Assembly also gave is unanimous approval to a U.S.-Soviet plan for tossing all disarmament proposals, including Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's total disarmament plan, to the 10-nation East-West committee that will meet in Geneva early next year.

Man's Complaint Backfires In Speeding Case

WAKEFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Motorcycle officer Thomas Campbell was assigned to Greenwood Avenue Friday after a resident of the area asked police to watch for speeding.

Campbell flagged down a speeding car after a chase through two intersections.

Snow And Sleet Prevail As Early Winter Lingers

By The Associated Press

Light snow and sleet put highway travel on slippery footing Friday as an early dose of winter lingered in sections of the North and East.

Heavy rains which washed away records along the southeast Florida coast Thursday drifted out to sea. But the Pacific Northwest was given a soaking for the fourth day in a row.

The worst of an arctic cold snap which swept out of Monatana early in the week appeared to be over after giving the Northeast its sharpest chill of the season. However, more ear-muff and mitten temperatures were on tap Friday night.

The Mercury dived to 7 above zero at Watertown, in Upstate New York, early Friday and fell as low as 18 in the Boston area.

Light snow dusted Upstate New York and Northern New England, where First Connecticut Lake, N.H., was dealt an early morning temperature of zero. The chill crept well into the Southeast to give Rome, Ga., a reading of 20 degrees and coat parts of northern Mississippi with freezing rain.

Sleet was mixed with light snow from the Northern Plains into the Great Lakes region.

Rainfall in Florida tapered off to a comparative trickle as Thursday's day-long gulley-washer crept over the keys area. Key West was given a one-inch downpour in six hours Friday, but it was only a drop in the rain gauge compared with the 11.13 inches which swamped Miami Thursday.

Officer's Whistle May Mean Either Ticket Or Praise

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — In about a week motorists here won't be able to tell if they've done something right or wrong when a policeman orders them to stop.

Police said Thursday they plan to also watch for motorists who do something commendable. When that happens they'll stop the car and hand over a card bearing the picture of a saluting policeman and the words:

"The Philadelphia police congratulate you."

Producer Faces Trial

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Charles Anson Bond, Hollywood writer-producer, faces trial Dec. 7 on a charge of cashing $2,000 in worthless checks to finance a honeymoon. Bond, 45, was arraigned on the charge Thursday in superior court and entered a plea of innocence. He was arrested Oct. 22 in Newport Beach, Calif., and told officers he had used the money to go on a honeymoon with his bride, Patricia, 24.

3 Die, 381 Hurt In Explosions

OPPAMA, Japan (UPI) — A series of powerful explosions rocked a nearby chemical plant Friday, causing heavy casualties in a deadly shower of flying glass and debris.

Police counted three dead and 381 injured, including 55 children who were in a school house near the plant when the force of the blasts sent the windows crashing in around them.

Passengers on buses and trains in the vicinity similarly were cut and scraped by splinters of glass sent flying by the blasts. Most of the injuries were minor, but twenty persons were still in hospitals Friday night with conditions described as serious.

Three separate explosions ripped the Toyo Chemical Co., at one time a key arsenal for American forces during the Korean War and now a manufacturer of explosives for industrial use.

False Alarm Said Not "Malicious"

CHICAGO (AP) — U.S. Atty. Robert Tieken said Friday he has concluded that the false air raid alarm in Chicago the night the White Sox won the pennant was no crime.

The wailing of the air raid sirens after the home team captured the American League baseball pennant in a night game with Cleveland Sept. 22, sent thousands of Chicagoans without baseball instinct scurrying into cellars or running around the streets with no thought of cheers.

Tieken said he just doesn't think the misuse of the federal warning system was done with "willful or malicious intent."

Discoverer On Its Way

Parcel Post Rates Increase Is Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Post Office Department got authority Friday to increase parcel post rates by about 88 million dollars a year. But there appears to be no likelihood the higher charges will fall on this year's Christmas mailing rush.

The increases, approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission, will average 17.1 per cent.

The Post Office Department said the question of effective date is under advisement, and probably will be announced sometime next week.

However, postal officials were reported to be thinking in terms of a 60-day notice to the public on the changes. That would throw them over into January at the earliest.

When the department got its last parcel post rate rise in June, 1953—averaging 36 per cent — Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield made them effective Oct. 1, more than three months later.

At that time, he said this much notice was necessary to permit users of the package service to adjust to the higher rate and also to permit distribution of new zone rate tables to post offices.

At ICC hearings, the rate rises were strenuously opposed by mail order houses, department stores and other large users of the package service.

The Railway Express Agency argued the increases should be even larger because of the competition offered by parcel post to Railway Express service.

$30,000,000 Catholic Church Is Dedicated As Shrine In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—A mighty church, the largest ever built in this country by Roman Catholics, was dedicated Friday as their national shrine.

Amid rites and pageantry rooted in antiquity, the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception was consecrated as a center of devotion for 36 million Americans of the Catholic faith.

The shrine takes its architectural style from the great Byzantine and Romanesque cathedrals of the Middle Ages.

Rising pale and lofty in northeast Washington, the shrine stands three miles north of the Capitol on the grounds of Catholic University. Starting Monday it will be open to the public from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. each day.

But this day was given over to ceremony.

Red-hatted cardinals in long-trained robes, archbishops and bishops in royal purple, priest in white and in black cassocks took part in a stately procession around the outside of the church. Lining the entire route were Knights of Columbus in white-plumed hats and gleaming capes, holding aloft swords that glinted in the sun.

A fanfare heralded arrival of the procession at the massive doors in the main entrance of the church. The swelling voices of a 200-man choir accompanied the slow movement down the block-long aisle.

Three thousand worshippers filled the pews in the huge, vaulted interior. Thousands more gathered outside to hear the ceremony over loudspeakers. In the 16,500 Catholic dioceses throughout the country others participated through special prayers.

Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York, ranking cardinal in the United States, presided over the Mass that preceded the act of consecration.

Khrushchev Thanks Writers Of Letters

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev Friday thanked Americans who wrote to him about his visit to the United States.

In a letter to Soviet newspapers, Khrushchev said: "Many friendly letters were sent by American citizens, workers, farmers, representatives of the intelligentsia and business circles.

Khrushchev promised that the Soviet government will do its utmost to imrpove relations between states and remove the threat of war from mankind.

Department Store Wins Tax Reduction

BALTIMORE (AP) — A major downtown department store, Julius Gutman and Co., Inc., Friday won a $125,000 reduction in its tax assessment for 1959.

Company officials said the reduction was requested because of "the deterioration that has taken place in the downtown Baltimore retail area."

The store won the reduction in its appeal to the Board of Municipal and Zoning Appeals against the original 1959 assessment of $958,140. The lower assessment will save the firm about $4,200 in real estate taxes this year.

Union Warns Steel Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Steelworkers Union, indicating little hope for avoiding a renewed steel strike in late January, told the government Friday it should begin stockpiling steel for defense.

Union counsel Arthur J. Goldberg gave this advice in a letter to Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller.

In doing so, Goldberg said the union wants to make it "perfectly plain that, should the strike resume, any peril to the national safety will not be chargeable to the United Steelworkers of America."

Mueller now is in Europe, and a spokesman at the Commerce Department said it was uncertain when there would be a reply to Goldberg's letter.

The Steelworkers struck the nation's steel plants for 116 days, until they were forced back to work under court order early this month. The 80-day injunction, issued under the Taft-Hartley law, is due to expire Jan. 26. Then the union will be free to walk out again, unless it has negotiated a contract with the industry by that time.

AF Captain Makes Record 76,400-Foot Chute Jump

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (UPI)—A veteran Air Force "spaceman" has made a record parachute drop from the fringes of space, successfully descending 76,400 feet, the Air Force announced Friday.

Capt. Joseph W. Kittinger, Jr., 31, of Tampa, Fla., who soared to a historic 96,000 feet in a sealed gondola two years ago, bailed out Monday from a balloon 14½ miles above the southern New Mexico desert.

He landed at a pre-determined spot on the expansive white sands missile range near here. He was pronounced in "perfect condition" after his descent, which was part of tests aimed at bringing men back safely from the stratosphere.

Kittinger had a free fall of 64,000 feet before his 28-foot parachute popped open automatically.

It took him three minutes to descend. He leaped from an altitude where the temperature was 104 degrees below zero and he stood a chance of freezing to death had the parachute opened too soon.

Kittinger, who returned to his home base at Wright Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio, after the experiment, went aloft in a plastic-like balloon, 300 feet in diameter and "tall as a skyscraper." It took 90 minutes to reach the altitude from which he jumped.

He was dressed in a partial-pressure suit to compensate for the rarified atmosphere at such an altitude. Over it he wore normal winter flying clothing with no special heating devices.

Kittinger won a distinguished Flying Cross for his 96,000 feet balloon flight in a Gondola on June 2, 1957. He is assigned to the aerospace medical laboratory at the Air Force's Wright Air Development Center at Wright AFB.

The highest previous parachute drop was believed to be a 55,000 feet jump, accomplished by two British Air Force officers from a disabled Canberra bomber.

De Gaulle Turns Down Rebel Bid

Deflates Hopes For Peace Talks With Five Prisoners

PARIS (AP) — The Algerian rebels Friday named five of their French-imprisoned leaders to talk peace. President Charles de Gaulle quickly rejected the bid.

Recalling his standing offer to receive rebel leaders for cease-fire talks and guarantee them a safe return from Paris, De Gaulle said in a speech at Colmar: "I am speaking of course of those who fight. I am not speaking of those who are out of the combat."

He thus deflated suddenly raised hopes for an end to the costly five-year Nationalist rebellion that has pinned down half a million French soldiers in Algeria.

Names Emissaries

The exile rebel government in Tunis announced in a communique that it was naming as its five emissaries: Mohammed Ben Bella, Mohammed Khider, Mohammed Boudiaf, Hussein Ait Ahmed and Rabah Bitat.

The first four were captured en route from Morocco to Tunis in 1956 when their French-operated airliner was ordered by French radio to land at Algiers. Bitat was arrested in Algeria in 1956 and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Ben Bella, who ordered the guerrilla uprising on Nov. 1, 1954, is charged with treason and would be subject to death on the guillotine if tried and convicted.

All five delegates were made members of the exile rebel government when it was proclaimed in Cairo in September 1958, despite the fact they were in jail.

Since De Gaulle had promised any emissaries "full liberty" if they came to treat with him, he would have been obligated to free the prisoners had he accepted the rebel delegation.

Loaded With Conditions

The nationalist offer was loaded with two other conditions that made it difficult for him to accept. The Algerians said they were ready to talk about "the conditions and guarantees of the applications of self-determination." After these questions were settled, they said they were willing to talk about a cease-fire.

De Gaulle promised Sept. 16 that Algeria's nine million Moslems could choose their future in a free vote four years after fighting has ended. He offered independence, home rule under French guardianship, or integration with France.

He ruled out discussing the political settlement with the rebel element now. Any discussion of self-determination would imply political talks.

Amnesty Brings Wave Of Crime

MONTREAL, (AP) — When Queen Elizabeth II was on tour here last summer she granted amnesty to 500 prisoners in Quebec jails. Now, says Provincial Police Director Hilaire Beauregard, there's a 100 per cent upturn in burglaries of cottages in the Laurentian, South Shore, Lachine and St. Anne de Bellevue areas. He thinks the amnesty may have had something to do with it.

Ike To Brief Leaders

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower will meet in Washington Nov. 30 with congressional leaders of both parties to brief them on his December tour to 11 nations in Europe, Asia and Africa.

RECORD LEAP — Air Force Capt. Joseph W. Kittinger, 31, made the longest parachute jump in aerial history, 76,400 feet, the AF announced yesterday. The 15-mile jump was made over White Sands Missile Range, New Mexico. He dropped to 12,000 feet before opening his chute. (See story bottom of page). (AP Photofax)

Lipstick Dye Ban Protested By Industries

WASHINGTON (AP) — The lipstick industry says it is virtually fighting for its life against a government ban of 17 coal-tar colors.

It may push its case as soon as the hubbub over cranberries ends.

The colors were listed as taboo last month by the Food and Drug Administration after test rats became ill or died when fed some of the red, yellow and orange dyes that go into lipsticks.

Most lipsticks on the American market would be affected, an industry spokesman said, adding: "Without some of these dyes no satisfactory lipstick could be manufactured."

The major lipstick makers contend the colors the government proposes to ban have been used in hundreds of millions of lipsticks for more than 35 years without any evidence of causing harm.

Their demands for a public hearing, filed with FDA, have the effect of delaying the ban originally set for Jan. 6, 1960. Any final order now will await the conclusion of public hearings.

Under the law, the government must ban the use of any coal-tar color that proves harmful when used in significant amounts in the diet of test animals, even though its use in smaller amounts would be safe.

The proposed ban was issued after 90-day feeding tests showed some of the colors harmed laboratory rats. Some of the animals died, others showed retarded growth, liver and kidney damage, enlarged spleens, anemia and other ailments. They were fed doses of from .25 to 2 per cent of the color dye in their diet.

No cancer developed, as it did in tests with the weed killer used on cranberries, but FDA scientists say cancer would not show up in such short-term tests. As a result of the disclosures so far, long-term tests have been started.

The major lipstick manufacturers take sharp issue with FDA's testing methods. They contend tremendous amounts of the colors were used in the rats' diets, while only an infinitseimal amount of color gets inot the human digestive system from lipstick.

Their protests include a demand that the present law be changed so that cosmetics, used externally, would not be treated the same as food and drugs that are taken directly into the system.

An FDA spokesman said there was some backing for this view within the agency itself.

Mother, 19, Kills Infant Trying To Escape Blaze

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (UPI)—How do you tell a pretty young mother she threw her baby to its death from the upper floor of a burning apartment house

Mrs. Margie Sweeten, 19, and her husband, Carl, were trying desperately to save their two children early Friday from flames that had already killed one man, L. A. Gray, 48, an oil field worker.

Most of the residents of the 32-apartment, white frame building had fled in their night clothes. They stood watching as Sweeten dropped his two-year-old son into the arms of a fireman.

Then Mrs. Sweeten appeared at the second-story window. Her flimsy nightgown was burning. She tried to throw the baby, wrapped in a blanket, after her older son.

But she stumbled. The infant, three-months-old Carl Jr., plunged to the ground and landed head-first on a concrete sidewalk. Mrs. Sweeten fell through the window too, and landed on her back. She screamed once—and woke up in the hospital.

"She was getting ready to toss the baby down," said fire marshal Ben Vanpelt. "They fell at the same time. The baby hit the sidewalk, and she hit the ground . . . hard."

Firemen put up a ladder for Sweeten. He climbed down to safety. It was his job to tell his wife in the hospital their baby was dead.

Some of the spectators at the fire thought Mrs. Sweeten had thrown down a doll.

It fell at the feet of Charles Harmon, 17, one of two persons who noticed the fire and spread the alarm, banging on doors to awaken slumbering residents.

The hospital said Mrs. Sweeten, burned and bruised from her fall, was in satisfactory condition.

U.S. To Try To Recover Its Capsule

Recovery Attempt Planned Saturday; Signals Are Heard

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The satellite Discoverer VIII rocketed into polar orbit Friday for a fifth try at a vital goal—ejecting a capsule so it can be recovered from space.

Recovery, of prime importance in America's man-in-space program, will be attempted Saturday by plucking the capsule from the sky if possible, from the sea as second choice.

The Air Force said signals from the 1,700-pound satellite were picked up by tracking stations in Alaska at approximately 1 p.m. as it completed its first circuit of the earth.

Information radioed back from the satellite indicates it is in a north-south orbit. At its closest point the satellite is 120 miles above the earth, and its farthest 1,000 miles.

Whirls Around Poles

The satellite is whirling around the earth's poles once every 103 minutes.

Five of the seven previous Discoverers have orbited. There have been four recovery tries, all failures.

The Air Force says it plans to continue the Discoverer program until a recovery is made.

"Capsule recovery," said one officer, "is a crisis point in our man-in-space program. Recovery from orbit has never been accomplished, by us or Russia. Until we can establish the technique we will never send a man into orbit because we have to be sure we can get him back."

The 78-foot Discoverer VIII, powered by a first-stage Thor IRBM, soared beautifully into a clear sky at 11:26 a.m.

17th Orbital Pass

Saturday afternoon, 26 hours after launch on its 17th orbital pass, plans call for it to eject a 300-pound instrument capsule — the same type that later is expected to carry animals and men into orbit.

A group of Hawaii-based C119 Flying Boxcars will try to snag its parachute with trapeze-like devices as it floats down. If they miss, boats will try to find it.

Just six minutes before Friday morning's launch, Discoverer VII passed by overhead on its 200th orbital pass. It was launched Nov. 17, and is expected to plunge into the atmosphere and burn soon. Planned life of a Discoverer is 10 to 20 days.

Navy Polaris Missile Fired

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy fired an advanced test version of the Polaris ballistic missile Friday and reported it was highly successful.

The missile, of the type scheduled to be carried by atomic-powered submarines next year, was launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., shortly after noon. It flew farther than 900 miles and landed near the predicted point in the Atlantic, the Navy said.

All other major test objectives were achieved, the Navy reported.

This was the third firing of a test Polaris designed to travel at least 900 miles. The first launching of the new missile series succeeded. The second fell short of the distance mark although the Navy said that it accomplished several of the jobs the experiment was designed to demonstrate.

The new ballistic missile submarine George Washington, that has successfully completed its first sea trials, is to carry Polaris missiles with an operating range of from 1,000 to 1,200 miles. Later Polaris missiles are expected to range up to 1,500 miles.

Jeans, Dolly Skirts Banned At School

VIENNA (AP) — Jeans and knee-length dolly skirts were banned for teen-agers at a high school in Vienna's swank diplomatic corps residential district as "tasteless imitation of movie stars." When a student rebellion threatened, the school board relented slightly: "Decent attire" must be worn in classrooms. So the kids wear jeans and dollies to school and change to "decents" in cloakrooms.

In a letter to Soviet newspapers, Khrushchev said: "Many friendly letters were sent by American citizens, workers, farmers, representatives of the intelligentsia and business circles.

Khrushchev promised that the Soviet government will do its utmost to imrpove relations between states and remove the threat of war from mankind.

Department Store Wins Tax Reduction

BALTIMORE (AP) — A major downtown department store, Julius Gutman and Co., Inc., Friday won a $125,000 reduction in its tax assessment for 1959.

Company officials said the reduction was requested because of "the deterioration that has taken place in the downtown Baltimore retail area."

The store won the reduction in its appeal to the Board of Municipal and Zoning Appeals against the original 1959 assessment of $958,140. The lower assessment will save the firm about $4,200 in real estate taxes this year.

Union Warns Steel Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Steelworkers Union, indicating little hope for avoiding a renewed steel strike in late January, told the government Friday it should begin stockpiling steel for defense.

Union counsel Arthur J. Goldberg gave this advice in a letter to Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller.

In doing so, Goldberg said the union wants to make it "perfectly plain that, should the strike resume, any peril to the national safety will not be chargeable to the United Steelworkers of America."

Mueller now is in Europe, and a spokesman at the Commerce Department said it was uncertain when there would be a reply to Goldberg's letter.

The Steelworkers struck the nation's steel plants for 116 days, until they were forced back to work under court order early this month. The 80-day injunction, issued under the Taft-Hartley law, is due to expire Jan. 26. Then the union will be free to walk out again, unless it has negotiated a contract with the industry by that time.

AF Captain Makes Record 76,400-Foot Chute Jump

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (UPI)—A veteran Air Force "spaceman" has made a record parachute drop from the fringes of space, successfully descending 76,400 feet, the Air Force announced Friday.

Capt. Joseph W. Kittinger, Jr., 31, of Tampa, Fla., who soared to a historic 96,000 feet in a sealed gondola two years ago, bailed out Monday from a balloon 14½ miles above the southern New Mexico desert.

He landed at a pre-determined spot on the expansive white sands missile range near here. He was pronounced in "perfect condition" after his descent, which was part of tests aimed at bringing men back safely from the stratosphere.

Kittinger had a free fall of 64,000 feet before his 28-foot parachute popped open automatically.

It took him three minutes to descend. He leaped from an altitude where the temperature was 104 degrees below zero and he stood a chance of freezing to death had the parachute opened too soon.

Kittinger, who returned to his home base at Wright Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio, after the experiment, went aloft in a plastic-like balloon, 300 feet in diameter and "tall as a skyscraper." It took 90 minutes to reach the altitude from which he jumped.

He was dressed in a partial-pressure suit to compensate for the rarified atmosphere at such an altitude. Over it he wore normal winter flying clothing with no special heating devices.

Kittinger won a distinguished Flying Cross for his 96,000 feet balloon flight in a Gondola on June 2, 1957. He is assigned to the aerospace medical laboratory at the Air Force's Wright Air Development Center at Wright AFB.

The highest previous parachute drop was believed to be a 55,000 feet jump, accomplished by two British Air Force officers from a disabled Canberra bomber.

De Gaulle Turns Down Rebel Bid

Deflates Hopes For Peace Talks With Five Prisoners

PARIS (AP) — The Algerian rebels Friday named five of their French-imprisoned leaders to talk peace. President Charles de Gaulle quickly rejected the bid.

Recalling his standing offer to receive rebel leaders for cease-fire talks and guarantee them a safe return from Paris, De Gaulle said in a speech at Colmar: "I am speaking of course of those who fight. I am not speaking of those who are out of the combat."

He thus deflated suddenly raised hopes for an end to the costly five-year Nationalist rebellion that has pinned down half a million French soldiers in Algeria.

Names Emissaries

The exile rebel government in Tunis announced in a communique that it was naming as its five emissaries: Mohammed Ben Bella, Mohammed Khider, Mohammed Boudiaf, Hussei n Ait Ahmed and Rabah Bitat.

The first four were captured en route from Morocco to Tunis in 1956 when their French-operated airliner was ordered by French radio to land at Algiers. Bitat was arrested in Algeria in 1956 and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Ben Bella, who ordered the guerrilla uprising on Nov. 1, 1954, is charged with treason and would be subject to death on the guillotine if tried and convicted.

All five delegates were made members of the exile rebel government when it was proclaimed in Cairo in September 1958, despite the fact they were in jail.

Since De Gaulle had promised any emissaries "full liberty" if they came to treat with him, he would have been obligated to free the prisoners had he accepted the rebel delegation.

Loaded With Conditions

The nationalist offer was loaded with two other conditions that made it difficult for him to accept. The Algerians said they were ready to talk about "the conditions and guarantees of the applications of self-determination." After these questions were settled, they said they were willing to talk about a cease-fire.

De Gaulle promised Sept. 16 that Algeria's nine million Moslems could choose their future in a free vote four years after fighting has ended. He offered independence, home rule under French guardianship, or integration with France.

He ruled out discussing the political settlement with the rebel element now. Any discussion of self-determination would imply political talks.

Amnesty Brings Wave Of Crime

MONTREAL, (AP) — When Queen Elizabeth II was on tour here last summer she granted amnesty to 500 prisoners in Quebec jails. Now, says Provincial Police Director Hilaire Beauregard, there's a 100 per cent upturn in burglaries of cottages in the Laurentian, South Shore, Lachine and St. Anne de Bellevue areas. He thinks the amnesty may have had something to do with it.

Lipstick Dye Ban Protested By Industries

WASHINGTON (AP) — The lipstick industry says it is virtually fighting for its life against a government ban of 17 coal-tar colors.

It may push its case as soon as the hubbub over cranberries ends.

The colors were listed as taboo last month by the Food and Drug Administration after test rats became ill or died when fed some of the red, yellow and orange dyes that go into lipsticks.

Most lipsticks on the American market would be affected, an industry spokesman said, adding: "Without some of these dyes no satisfactory lipstick could be manufactured."

The major lipstick makers contend the colors the government proposes to ban have been used in hundreds of millions of lipsticks for more than 35 years without any evidence of causing harm.

Their demands for a public hearing, filed with FDA, have the effect of delaying the ban originally set for Jan. 6, 1960. Any final order now will await the conclusion of public hearings.

Under the law, the government must ban the use of any coal-tar color that proves harmful when used in significant amounts in the diet of test animals, even though its use in smaller amounts would be safe.

The proposed ban was issued after 90-day feeding tests showed some of the colors harmed laboratory rats. Some of the animals died, others showed retarded growth, liver and kidney damage, enlarged spleens, anemia and other ailments. They were fed doses of from .25 to 2 per cent of the color dye in their diet.

No cancer developed, as it did in tests with the weed killer used on cranberries, but FDA scientists say cancer would not show up in such short-term tests. As a result of the disclosures so far, long-term tests have been started.

The major lipstick manufacturers take sharp issue with FDA's testing methods. They contend tremendous amounts of the colors were used in the rats' diets, while only an infinitseimal amount of color gets inot the human digestive system from lipstick.

Their protests include a demand that the present law be changed so that cosmetics, used externally, would not be treated the same as food and drugs that are taken directly into the system.

An FDA spokesman said there was some backing for this view within the agency itself.

Mother, 19, Kills Infant Trying To Escape Blaze

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (UPI)—How do you tell a pretty young mother she threw her baby to its death from the upper floor of a burning apartment house

Mrs. Margie Sweeten, 19, and her husband, Carl, were trying desperately to save their two children early Friday from flames that had already killed one man, L. A. Gray, 48, an oil field worker.

Most of the residents of the 32-apartment, white frame building had fled in their night clothes. They stood watching as Sweeten dropped his two-year-old son into the arms of a fireman.

Then Mrs. Sweeten appeared at the second-story window. Her flimsy nightgown was burning. She tried to throw the baby, wrapped in a blanket, after her older son.

But she stumbled. The infant, three-months-old Carl Jr., plunged to the ground and landed head-first on a concrete sidewalk. Mrs. Sweeten fell through the window too, and landed on her back. She screamed once—and woke up in the hospital.

"She was getting ready to toss the baby down," said fire marshal Ben Vanpelt. "They fell at the same time. The baby hit the sidewalk, and she hit the ground . . .hard."

Firemen put up a ladder for Sweeten. He climbed down to safety. It was his job to tell his wife in the hospital their baby was dead.

Some of the spectators at the fire thought Mrs. Sweeten had thrown down a doll.

It fell at the feet of Charles Harmon, 17, one of two persons who noticed the fire and spread the alarm, banging on doors to awaken slumbering residents.

The hospital said Mrs. Sweeten, burned and bruised from her fall, was in satisfactory condition.

U.S. To Try To Recover Its Capsule

Recovery Attempt Planned Saturday; Signals Are Heard

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The satellite Discoverer VIII rocketed into polar orbit Friday for a fifth try at a vital goal—ejecting a capsule so it can be recovered from space.

Recovery, of prime importance in America's man-in-space program, will be attempted Saturday by plucking the capsule from the sky if possible, from the sea as second choice.

The Air Force said signals from the 1,700-pound satellite were picked up by tracking stations in Alaska at approximately 1 p.m. as it completed its first circuit of the earth.

Information radioed back from the satellite indicates it is in a north-south orbit. At its closest point the satellite is 120 miles above the earth, and its farthest 1,000 miles.

Whirls Around Poles

The satellite is whirling around the earth's poles once every 103 minutes.

Five of the seven previous Discoverers have orbited. There have been four recovery tries, all failures.

The Air Force says it plans to continue the Discoverer program until a recovery is made.

"Capsule recovery," said one officer, "is a crisis point in our man-in-space program. Recovery from orbit has never been accomplished, by us or Russia. Until we can establish the technique we will never send a man into orbit because we have to be sure we can get him back."

The 78-foot Discoverer VIII, powered by a first-stage Thor IRBM, soared beautifully into a clear sky at 11:26 a.m.

17th Orbital Pass

Saturday afternoon, 26 hours after launch on its 17th orbital pass, plans call for it to eject a 300-pound instrument capsule — the same type that later is expected to carry animals and men into orbit.

A group of Hawaii-based C119 Flying Boxcars will try to snag its parachute with trapeze-like devices as it floats down. If they miss, boats will try to find it.

Just six minutes before Friday morning's launch, Discoverer VII passed by overhead on its 200th orbital pass. It was launched Nov. 17, and is expected to plunge into the atmosphere and burn soon. Planned life of a Discoverer is 10 to 20 days.

Navy Polaris Missile Fired

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy fired an advanced test version of the Polaris ballistic missile Friday and reported it was highly successful.

The missile, of the type scheduled to be carried by atomic-powered submarines next year, was launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., shortly after noon. It flew farther than 900 miles and landed near the predicted point in the Atlantic, the Navy said.

All other major test objectives were achieved, the Navy reported.

This was the third firing of a test Polaris designed to travel at least 900 miles. The first launching of the new missile series succeeded. The second fell short of the distance mark although the Navy said that it accomplished several of the jobs the experiment was designed to demonstrate.

The new ballistic missile submarine George Washington, that has successfully completed its first sea trials, is to carry Polaris missiles with an operating range of from 1,000 to 1,200 miles. Later Polaris missiles are expected to range up to 1,500 miles.

Jeans, Dolly Skirts Banned At School

VIENNA (AP) — Jeans and knee-length dolly skirts were banned for teen-agers at a high school in Vienna's swank diplomatic corps residential district as "tasteless imitation of movie stars." When a student rebellion threatened, the school board relented slightly: "Decent attire" must be worn in classrooms. So the kids wear jeans and dollies to school and change to "decents" in cloakrooms.

Nikirk Given Prison Term, Fined $7,500

BALTIMORE (AP) — A client's remark that Frederick County State's Atty. Edwin F. Nikirk gave him an incorrect receipt for payment of a legal fee resulted Friday in a prison term and stiff fine for the prosecutor.

The 43-year-old Nikirk was sentenced in Federal District Court to one year in a federal penitentiary and fined a total of $7,500 for evasion of $10,423 in income taxes over a three year period.

Nikirk, thrice-elected prosecutor and described by character witnesses as an able trial lawyer, said nothing when sentence was pronounced' by Judge H. Dorsey Watkins.

Judge Watkins and Judge Roszel C. Thomsen jointly imposed the penalty after deliberating about a half hour. Nikirk originally pleaded innocent Sept. 18 and Friday changed this to a plea of no contest.

The Frederick County official, indicted one day after he was sworn in for the third time as states attorney last Jan. 5, was released in the custody of his attorneys without bond until Dec. 28. Then, he will be taken to an undisclosed federal penitentiary.

His attorneys had implied that the tax charge had the earmarks of "political persecution."

U.S. Atty. Leon H. A. Pierson denied this. He told the court the tax probe was started around Thanksgiving Day in 1955 after an Internal Revenue agent, examining the records of an unidentified person, was informed of the incorrect receipt.

The client of Nikirk in a civil action said he was given a receipt for $100, instead of $1,000, after the lawyer-prosecutor remarked "the income tax boys are breathing down my back."

"The wilful evasion of income taxes is a serious offense," Judge Watkins said in passing sentence.

"When it is committed by a lawyer or a business man or any other person holding and enjoying a responsible and respected position in his community, this court ordinarily imposes a prison sentence unless ther are special and unusual mitigating circumstances. . .

"His offense was wilful, and we find no mitigating circumstances for the offense."

Defense Atty. Cornelius P. Mundy of Baltimore pleaded with the court for leniency. He told the judges Nikirk had made restitution after the tax errors were pointed out to him, and in fact had overpaid between $4,500 and $7,000.

Nikirk sold about $10,000 worth of government bonds, a farm for $8,619 and borrowed $10,000 from a bank in an effort to satisfy the Internal Revenue Service claim. This, Mundy declared, had depleted his financial resources.

Nikirk, in a brief statement, insisted his income understatements were not wilful and "had I any intention to deceive I would not have allowed the agents to examine my personal files." He said those files would show that he had been paid a $1,000 fee by the client whose statement triggered the trouble.

Another defense counsel, Benjamin B. Rosenstock of Frederick, argued that Nikirk made his last payment on the overdue taxes before criminal prosecution was launched.

Boy 'Arrests' Youth Riding Stolen Bike

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Danny Carnes, 14-year-old carrier boy for the Hagerstown Daily Mail, had his bicycle stolen. He reported it to police.

But he didn't stop there. He went looking for it himself.

Friday morning he saw another 14-year-old boy riding his bike. He stopped the youngster and — as Danny put it — "arrested" him and took him to police headquarters.

There the boy said he had bought the bike from another boy for $1. He said he did not know it was stolen.

The police turned the entire report over to juvenile authorities.

College Keeps Loan Program

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — The University of Maryland will continue to take part in the federal student loan program, which requires a loyalty oath from the recipient.

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, president of the university, said Friday, "The provisions of the act were enacted by Congress and the University of Maryland will operate according to those provisions."

There has been criticism that the oath requirements abridge a student's constitutional rights, and 14 colleges and universities have witdrawn from the program. They include St. John's and Goucher in Maryland.

Dr. Elkins said University of Maryland students are eligible for grants-in-aid totaling more than $269,000.

The university also announced Friday that students would have until Dec. 1 to file student loan applications for the second semester.

3 Dead, 5 Injured

Youths Fleeing Police Car Crash Into Station Wagon

Editor's Note: Six mothers in one car returning from a church meeting, two youths in another fleeing police, and a crash in the night. Here is a story that could happen to you.

MOUNT KISCO, N.Y. (UPI) — They met in the midnight hour on a hairpin curve, six mothers in a station wagon returning home from a church meeting and two youths fleeing police at 90 miles an hour.

Two of the mothers and one of the boys were killed, the others injured critically.

At the wheel of the station wagon was Mrs. Kathleen F. Greenwood, mother of five children. The 1957 Ford that careened around the curve from the opposite direction was driven by Derrick Worcester, 20, who had been convicted before of reckless driving. Mrs. Greenwood died in the crash; Worcester walked away from the wreckage.

The events that brought the cars to the death scene were these. At 12:15 a.m. the radios of police cars in Mount Kisco and nearby Bedford town chattered orders for the interception of a speeding 1957 Ford car.

Chase Roars South

Worcester was in the Ford, his foot jammed hard on the gas pedal.

His companion, Richard Belafato, 19, hung on as the car skidded around curves. Two police cars, sirens screaming, were close behind. The chase roared south on route 117 toward Mount Kisco.

At this hour the mothers were going north on 117, chatting about their children, 20 in all. They passed the Northern Westchester Hospital on the outskirts of Mount Kisco.

Mrs. Greenwood saw the sharp curve less than two blocks ahead and slowed down.

By then it was 12:25 a.m. and Worcester was approaching the curve from the opposite direction. He barreled into it at full speed. The car lurched out of control and zig-zagged across the two-lane paved road. Worcester fought the spinning steering wheel.

Doesn't Apply Brakes

Without the brakes once having been applied, the car smashed headon into the station wagon like a bomb, hurling it into the air and driving the engine back on the mothers. The car carromed off the station wagon and spun into a four-foot cobblestone wall.

As the police cars skidded to a halt, Worcester climbed slowly from the mangled car. He walked a few feet in a daze, leaned against the wall and then collapsed. The crumpled body of his companion, thrown clear, was sprawled on the ground.

Mrs. Greenwood and Mrs. Dorothy Kirsch, mother of two, were killed instantly. The others screamed and moaned in the wreckage.

Police put in emergency calls for crowbars and acetylene torches to get the mothers from the station wagon which was squeezed together like an accordion. One mother appeared to be strangling in her own blood. A policeman propped her head up so she could breathe.

Worcester Charged Again

Police said Worcester, son of a Mount Kisco widow, was once convicted of reckless driving and had his drivers license suspended. He since had got it restored, however. Friday he was charged with reckless driving again.

The chase had begun when Bedford town Patrolman Andrew Anderson, cruising in a squad car, spotted Worcester spinning the wheels and rocking the car back and forth in a parking lot. When Anderson approached, Worcester roared off.

Police said the car was owned by Jack R. Millgyer, a sailor on leave from Quonset, R. I. They were trying to locate him to find out if he had given permission for Worcester to drive his car. Belafato, killed in the crash, also was a sailor on leave.

Mrs. Greenwood, Mrs. Kirsch and the other mothers—Mrs. Jean McCabe, Mrs. Vitina DAndrea, Mrs. Eileen Macupa, and Mrs. Eileen Miles—had left their homes about 8 p.m. Thursday to attend a meeting of the Mothers' Guild at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Katonah, about three miles away.

Mystery Poison Strikes Family In California

COVINA, Calif. (AP) — A family of five reports it is suffering from arsenic poisoning from an unknown source.

It began last May when Mary Holt, 27, began suffering pains in her stomach and legs. She had surgery but it brought no relief.

Mrs. Holt told a reporter that she then went to White Memorial Hospital in Los Angeles and it was decided at a staff consultation that she had arsenic poisoning.

She was treated and sent home, but a month later the old symptoms returned.

The father, Ben Holt, 31, a baker, the only one in the family to escape the illness, said that soon their four children began to have stomach cramps and temperatures.

He said doctors told them the children, Ben Jr., 10; Mary Darlene, 7; Cynthia, 5, and Constance, 4, also were suffering from arsenic poisoning. But the source of the poisoning is a mystery.

Woman Held In Hit-And-Run

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Two boys pedaling their bikes to school Friday morning were struck by a hit-run car and police later charged a 26-year-old woman in the case.

In Anne Arundel General Hospital here with multiple injuries were Robert Hill, 8, and his brother Stephen, 10, of Gambrills.

Charged by Anne Arundel County police with hit-run driving, reckless driving and driving without an operator's license was Dolores Henson, Negro of Earleigh Heights.

Benson Critical Of Handling In Berries Furore

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson said Friday it is "entirely possible" Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming could have protected the public from tainted cranberries without a general warning that throttled practically all sales.

Reporters drew this comment from Benson in response to several questions as to whether he thought Flemming handled the problem skillfully or bungled it. Flemming's defenders have argued he was obliged under the law to act as he did.

Benson refused either to defend or criticize his fellow Cabinet officer's methods, saying he was not in a position to judge.

The Welfare Department had the facts concerning the contaminated berries, Benson said, and "they may have been justified."

But Benson remarked that the timing of Flemming's public warning coming as it did only a short time ahead of Thanksgiving, seemed difficult to the industry.

Benson—who called the news conference to announce a drive to help the embattled cranberry industry—showed little sympathy for growers whose berries became contaminated by a weed killer found to produce cancer in rats.

Under questioning, Benson said it appears these growers are to blame because they apparently did not follow directions for using the chemical weed killer.

It was 12 days ago that Flemming announced some cranberries raised in the Northwest had been found tainted by the weed killer, called aminotriazole. He cautioned against using any cranberries until they had been tested and declared safe.

The chief purpose of Benson's news conference was to announce a big campaign "toward restoring public confidence in this traditional Thanksgiving holiday food."

"The Benson family will be using them and I hope all will," he said in asking that Americans start eating cranberries again as soon as cleared batches reach grocery stores.

As part of the campaign to help cranberry growers, Benson said he had wired food and industry leaders during an all-out merchandising effort now that Flemming's department has approved a plan for stepped-up testing of the berries and labeling the safe ones for the housewive's guidance.

Benson told newsmen he had ordered his department to start a cranberry promotion drive. And he said he would consider buying some of the surplus cleared berries for the school lunch program.

Missing House Leads To Jail Term For Man

WASHINGTON (AP) — A missing five-room house has led to a jail sentence for William Fuqua.

Elsie Madden of Washington said in Municipal Court Thursday that on July 29 she gave Fuqua $1751 to dismantle her five-room house and move it to Port Tobacco, Md.

But the house never showed up, she said.

And Detective Lennine M. Daniels said he hasn't found the house. But the detective is still looking. He said Fuqua told him the material from the structure is on a lot "somewhere in Washington."

Fuqua's charge was larceny after trust. He was sentenced to 180 days. He got another 180 days on a bad-check charge in an unrelated case.

Actress Files For Separation

ROME (UPI) — British actress Dawn Addams accused her Italian nobleman husband Friday of beating her in public four times, once while holding a revolver. He in turn charged that she lived with another man.

The charges and countercharges were filed in a Rome court in a legal separation suit that was expected to bring forth such witnesses as Gina Lollobrigida. At stake was custody of the couple's 4-year-old son, Stephen, now staying with his father.

Miss Addams, married for five years to Prince Vittorio Massimo, charged that on four occasions, he slapped and punched her in public.

She said he beat her "in the presence of many persons" April 9, 1955, and that a "common friend" knocked a revolver from his hand as she fled to safety in a bathroom.

Milk Producers To Vote Upon Marketing Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department announced Friday that milk producers supplying Maryland's upper Chesapeake Bay area will be asked to vote on a proposed federal marketing order to regulate handling of milk.

Time and place for voting will be announced on a later date.

The proposed order would establish minimum prices to be paid by handlers to producers who supply milk distributed in the marketing area.

This area would include the city of Baltimore and the counties of Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Caroline, Carroll, Cecil, Dorchester, Harford, Howard, Kent, Somerset, Queen Annes, Talbot, Wicomico and Worcester; the town of Laurel in Prince Georges County; and that portion of Calvert County not now included in the Washington milk marketing area.

Under other provisions of the proposed order:

1. Handlers would be charged for milk according to the use they made of it. In general, class I would be all milk distributed in fluid form and class II would be milk used for manufactured milk products.

2. Prices for both classes would be the same as those under the Washington order, with a 12-cent location differential for class I milk received at plants within a 75-mile radius of Baltimore or Salisbury and an additional 1½ cents for each additional 10 miles, or fraction thereof, beyond that radius.

Nikirk Given Prison Term, Fined $7,500

BALTIMORE (AP) — A client's remark that Frederick County State's Atty. Edwin F. Nikirk gave him an incorrect receipt for payment of a legal fee resulted Friday in a prison term and stiff fine for the prosecutor.

The 43-year-old Nikirk was sentenced in Federal District Court to one year in a federal penitentiary and fined a total of $7,500 for evasion of $10,423 in income taxes over a three year period.

Nikirk, thrice-elected prosecutor and described by character witnesses as an able trial lawyer, said nothing when sentence was pronounced' by Judge H. Dorsey Watkins.

Judge Watkins and Judge Roszel C. Thomsen jointly imposed the penalty after deliberating about a half hour. Nikirk originally pleaded innocent Sept. 18 and Friday changed this to a plea of no contest.

The Frederick County official, indicted one day after he was sworn in for the third time as states attorney last Jan. 5, was released in the custody of his attorneys without bond until Dec. 28. Then, he will be taken to an undisclosed federal penitentiary.

His attorneys had implied that the tax charge had the earmarks of "political persecution."

U.S. Atty. Leon H. A. Pierson denied this. He told the court the tax probe was started around Thanksgiving Day in 1955 after an Internal Revenue agent, examining the records of an unidentified person, was informed of the incorrect receipt.

The client of Nikirk in a civil action said he was given a receipt for $100, instead of $1,000, after the lawyer-prosecutor remarked' "the income tax boys are breathing down my back."

"The wilful evasion of income taxes is a serious offense," Judge Watkins said in passing sentence.

"When it is committed by a lawyer or a business man or any other person holding and enjoying a responsible and respected position in his community, this court ordinarily imposes a prison sentence unless ther are special and unusual mitigating circumstances. . .

"His offense was wilful, and we find no mitigating circumstances for the offense."

Defense Atty. Cornelius P. Mundy of Baltimore pleaded with the court for leniency. He told the judges Nikirk had made restitution after the tax errors were pointed out to him, and in fact had overpaid between $4,500 and $7,000.

Nikirk sold about $10,000 worth of government bonds, a farm for $8,619 and borrowed $10,000 from a bank in an effort to satisfy the Internal Revenue Service claim. This, Mundy declared, had depleted his financial resources.

Nikirk, in a brief statement, insisted his income understatements were not wilful and "had I any intention to deceive I would not have allowed the agents to examine my personal files." He said those files would show that he had been paid a $1,000 fee by the client whose statement triggered the trouble.

Another defense counsel, Benjamin B. Rosenstock of Frederick, argued that Nikirk made his last payment on the overdue taxes before criminal prosecution was launched.

Boy 'Arrests' Youth Riding Stolen Bike

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Danny Carnes, 14-year-old carrier boy for the Hagerstown Daily Mail, had his bicycle stolen. He reported it to police.

But he didn't stop there. He went looking for it himself.

Friday morning he saw another 14-year-old boy riding his bike. He stopped the youngster and — as Danny put it — "arrested" him and took him to police headquarters.

There the boy said he had bought the bike from another boy for $1. He said he did not know it was stolen.

The police turned the entire report over to juvenile authorities.

College Keeps Loan Program

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — The University of Maryland will continue to take part in the federal student loan program, which requires a loyalty oath from the recipient.

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, president of the university, said Friday, "The provisions of the act were enacted by Congress and the University of Maryland will operate according to those provisions."

There has been criticism that the oath requirements abridge a student's constitutional rights, and 14 colleges and universities have witdrawn from the program. They include St. John's and Goucher in Maryland.

Dr. Elkins said University of Maryland students are eligible for grants-in-aid totaling more than $269,000.

The university also announced Friday that students would have until Dec. 1 to file student loan applications for the second semester.

Youths Fleeing Police Car Crash Into Station Wagon

Editor's Note: Six mothers in one car returning from a church meeting, two youths in another fleeing police, and a crash in the night. Here is a story that could happen to you.

MOUNT KISCO, N.Y. (UPI) — They met in the midnight hour on a hairpin curve, six mothers in a station wagon returning home from a church meeting and two youths fleeing police at 90 miles an hour.

Two of the mothers and one of the boys were killed, the others injured critically.

At the wheel of the station wagon was Mrs. Kathleen F. Greenwood, mother of five children. The 1957 Ford that careened around the curve from the opposite direction was driven by Derrick Worcester, 20, who had been convicted before of reckless driving. Mrs. Greenwood died in the crash; Worcester walked away from the wreckage.

The events that brought the cars to the death scene were these. At 12:15 a.m. the radios of police cars in Mount Kisco and nearby Bedford town chattered orders for the interception of a speeding 1957 Ford car.

Chase Roars South

Worcester was in the Ford, his foot jammed hard on the gas pedal.

His companion, Richard Belafato, 19, hung on as the car skidded around curves. Two police cars, sirens screaming, were close behind. The chase roared south on route 117 toward Mount Kisco.

At this hour the mothers were going north on 117, chatting about their children, 20 in all. They passed the Northern Westchester Hospital on the outskirts of Mount Kisco.

Mrs. Greenwood saw the sharp curve less than two blocks ahead and slowed down.

By then it was 12:25 a.m. and Worcester was approaching the curve from the opposite direction. He barreled into it at full speed. The car lurched out of control and zig-zagged across the two-lane paved road. Worcester fought the spinning steering wheel.

Doesn't Apply Brakes

Without the brakes once having been applied, the car smashed headon into the station wagon like a bomb, hurling it into the air and driving the engine back on the mothers. The car carromed off the station wagon and spun into a four-foot cobblestone wall.

As the police cars skidded to a halt, Worcester climbed slowly from the mangled car. He walked a few feet in a daze, leaned against the wall and then collapsed. The crumpled body of his companion, thrown clear, was sprawled on the ground.

Mrs. Greenwood and Mrs. Dorothy Kirsch, mother of two, were killed instantly. The others screamed and moaned in the wreckage.

Police put in emergency calls for crowbars and acetylene torches to get the mothers from the station wagon which was squeezed together like an accordion. One mother appeared to be strangling in her own blood. A policeman propped her head up so she could breathe.

Worcester Charged Again

Police said Worcester, son of a Mount Kisco widow, was once convicted of reckless driving and had his drivers license suspended. He since had got it restored, however. Friday he was charged with reckless driving again.

The chase had begun when Bedford town Patrolman Andrew Anderson, cruising in a squad car, spotted Worcester spinning the wheels and rocking the car back and forth in a parking lot. When Anderson approached, Worcester roared off.

Police said the car was owned by Jack R. Millgyer, a sailor on leave from Quonset, R. I. They were trying to locate him to find out if he had given permission for Worcester to drive his car. Belafato, killed in the crash, also was a sailor on leave.

Mrs. Greenwood, Mrs. Kirsch and the other mothers—Mrs. Jean McCabe, Mrs. Vitina DAndrea, Mrs. Eileen Macupa, and Mrs. Eileen Miles—had left their homes about 8 p.m. Thursday to attend a meeting of the Mothers' Guild at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Katonah, about three miles away.

Mystery Poison Strikes Family In California

COVINA, Calif. (AP) — A family of five reports it is suffering from arsenic poisoning from an unknown source.

It began last May when Mary Holt, 27, began suffering pains in her stomach and legs. She had surgery but it brought no relief.

Mrs. Holt told a reporter that she then went to White Memorial Hospital in Los Angeles and it was decided at a staff consultation that she had arsenic poisoning.

She was treated and sent home, but a month later the old symptoms returned.

The father, Ben Holt, 31, a baker, the only one in the family to escape the illness, said that soon their four children began to have stomach cramps and temperatures.

He said doctors told them the children, Ben Jr., 10; Mary Darlene, 7; Cynthia, 5, and Constance, 4, also were suffering from arsenic poisoning. But the source of the poisoning is a mystery.

Woman Held In Hit-And-Run

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Two boys pedaling their bikes to school Friday morning were struck by a hit-run car and police later charged a 26-year-old woman in the case.

In Anne Arundel General Hospital here with multiple injuries were Robert Hill, 8, and his brother Stephen, 10, of Gambrills.

Charged by Anne Arundel County police with hit-run driving, reckless driving and driving without an operator's license was Dolores Henson, Negro of Earleigh Heights.

Early English ships sailing to and from the East Indies used casks of sweet wine as ballast. The rolling motion "cured" the wine.

Benson Critical Of Handling In Berries Furore

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson said Friday it is "entirely possible" Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming could have protected the public from tainted cranberries without a general warning that throttled practically all sales.

Reporters drew this comment from Benson in response to several questions as to whether he thought Flemming handled the problem skillfully or bungled it. Flemming's defenders have argued he was obliged under the law to act as he did.

Benson refused either to defend or criticize his fellow Cabinet officer's methods, saying he was not in a position to judge.

The Welfare Department had the facts concerning the contaminated berries, Benson said, and "they may have been justified."

But Benson remarked that the timing of Flemming's public warning coming as it did only a short time ahead of Thanksgiving, seemed difficult to the industry.

Benson—who called the news conference to announce a drive to help the embattled cranberry industry—showed little sympathy for growers whose berries became contaminated by a weed killer found to produce cancer in rats.

Under questioning, Benson said it appears these growers are to blame because they apparently did not follow directions for using the chemical weed killer.

It was 12 days ago that Flemming announced some cranberries raised in the Northwest had been found tainted by the weed killer, called aminotriazole. He cautioned against using any cranberries until they had been tested and declared safe.

The chief purpose of Benson's news conference was to announce a big campaign "toward restoring public confidence in this traditional Thanksgiving holiday food."

"The Benson family will be using them and I hope all will," he said in asking that Americans start eating cranberries again as soon as cleared batches reach grocery stores.

As part of the campaign to help cranberry growers, Benson said he had wired food and industry leaders during an all-out merchandising effort now that Flemming's department has approved a plan for stepped-up testing of the berries and labeling the safe ones for the housewive's guidance.

Benson told newsmen he had ordered his department to start a cranberry promotion drive. And he said he would consider buying some of the surplus cleared berries for the school lunch program.

Missing House Leads To Jail Term For Man

WASHINGTON (AP) — A missing five-room house has led to a jail sentence for William Fuqua.

Elsie Madden of Washington said in Municipal Court Thursday that on July 29 she gave Fuqua $1751 to dismantle her five-room house and move it to Port Tobacco, Md.

But the house never showed up, she said.

And Detective Lennine M. Daniels said he hasn't found the house. But the detective is still looking. He said Fuqua told him the material from the structure is on a lot "somewhere in Washington."

Fuqua's charge was larceny after trust. He was sentenced to 180 days. He got another 180 days on a bad-check charge in an unrelated case.

Actress Files For Separation

ROME (UPI) — British actress Dawn Addams accused her Italian nobleman husband Friday of beating her in public four times, once while holding a revolver. He in turn charged that she lived with another man.

The charges and countercharges were filed in a Rome court in a legal separation suit that was expected to bring forth such witnesses as Gina Lollobrigida. At stake was custody of the couple's 4-year-old son, Stephen, now staying with his father.

Miss Addams, married for five years to Prince Vittorio Massimo, charged that on four occasions, he slapped and punched her in public.

She said he beat her "in the presence of many persons" April 9, 1955, and that a "common friend" knocked a revolver from his hand as she fled to safety in a bathroom.

Japan Recalls Minister

TOKYO (UPI) — Takezo Shimoda, Japanese minister to Washington, is being recalled, the Foreign Office said Friday. Observers said Shimoda was being reassigned to a new post.

Milk Producers To Vote Upon Marketing Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department announced Friday that milk producers supplying Maryland's upper Chesapeake Bay area will be asked to vote on a proposed federal marketing order to regulate handling of milk.

Time and place for voting will be announced on a later date.

The proposed order would establish minimum prices to be paid by handlers to producers who supply milk distributed in the marketing area.

This area would include the city of Baltimore and the counties of Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Caroline, Carroll, Cecil, Dorchester, Harford, Howard, Kent, Somerset, Queen Annes, Talbot, Wicomico and Worcester; the town of Laurel in Prince Georges County; and that portion of Calvert County not now included in the Washington milk marketing area.

Under other provisions of the proposed order:

1. Handlers would be charged for milk according to the use they made of it. In general, class I would be all milk distributed in fluid form and class II would be milk used for manufactured milk products.

2. Prices for both classes would be the same as those under the Washington order, with a 12-cent location differential for class I milk received at plants within a 75-mile radius of Baltimore or Salisbury and an additional 1½ cents for each additional 10 miles, or fraction thereof, beyond that radius.

Horn of PLENTY

This great land of ours has been blessed with the riches of the earth and with the freedoms, the rights, to enjoy them. But does the mere ownership of these goods guarantee our happiness?

All of us have experienced a disappointment at finally possessing some much-desired article. After weeks and sometimes years of looking forward to it, we find that the actual ownership brings little pleasure.

Could the fault lie with the gift itself? No, apparently it is within ourselves. Our own attitudes, our own relationships, our own understanding have certainly much more to do with our final satisfaction.

How then are we to derive the greatest blessings from the goods which have been put at our disposal? The best place to begin is in the Church. Here, in a personal search for God and our own understanding of Him, we may achieve a spiritual harmony, which will bless our lives and those of our fellow men.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Horn of PLENTY

This great land of ours has been blessed with the riches of the earth and with the freedoms, the rights, to enjoy them. But does the mere ownership of these goods guarantee our happiness?

All of us have experienced a disappointment at finally possessing some much-desired article. After weeks and sometimes years of looking forward to it, we find that the actual ownership brings little pleasure.

Could the fault lie with the gift itself? No, apparently it is within ourselves. Our own attitudes, our own relationships, our own understanding have certainly much more to do with our final satisfaction.

How then are we to derive the greatest blessings from the goods which have been put at our disposal? The best place to begin is in the Church. Here, in a personal search for God and our own understanding of Him, we may achieve a spiritual harmony, which will bless our lives and those of our fellow men.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

White Rats Will Show Students

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va. (UPI)—They're going to try to show Berkeley Springs High School students how much healthier it is to eat a well-rounded lunch instead of a fare of ice cream, potato chips, candy etc.

A couple of white rats will provide the proof.

The rats will be kept in cages in the main corrider of the school for several weeks. One will be fed from the daily menu in the school cafeteria. The other will be given candy, cakes, potato chips, doughnuts, ice cream, bologna sandwiches and soft drinks.

The school's home economics staff pointed out that a rat will respond to the effects of a diet 30 times faster than the human body. And they believe that when the students start noticing the difference in the two rats, bad lunch-eating habits might change.

Tawes, Solons Discuss Pay For Teachers

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. Tawes met with legislative and fiscal leaders Friday to discuss a Legislative Council committee report which opposed across-the-board pay increases for school teachers and state employes.

"No decisions or conclusions were reached on the recommendations," Tawes said at the end of the two-hour discussion.

The governor said he would have no further comment on the report of the Committee on Taxation and Fiscal Matters until the matter is reviewed and acted upon by the Legislative Council as a whole.

The formal report will be presented to the council next Tuesday, when the lawmakers also will hear from representatives of the teachers and state employes.

Spokesmen for both groups already have criticized recommendations made by the committee, headed by Sen. William S. James (D-Harford).

A preliminary report issued by the committee last month suggested about $7,400,000 in pay raises, intended primarily to reward career employes. The teachers and state employes had asked for a total of about 20 million dollars in general pay hikes.

The committee also made a pitch on behalf of the taxpayers, in light of these and other salary demands, and of proposed increased welfare payments.

"This committee believes that there is a limit to the taxpayer's ability to meet all of these demands and that responsible government must weigh further demands with great care," the report said.

Tawes refused Friday to take a stand on the committee report, saying only that he thought the committee had "made an honest effort to present what they believe is a good answer to the problem."

A 38-year-old Louisville, Ky., tractor trailer driver was critically injured early yesterday when the truck he was operating crashed into the rear of another tractor-trailer about 15 miles west of Bedford.

Brasel sustained injuries of the legs, arms, chest and head. He was taken to Bedford County Memorial Hospital where his condition was reported as "critical" at noon yesterday. Walker was uninjured.

Comptroller Confers With Boden On Court Records

State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein visited the Allegany County Court House yesterday to discuss financial matters and to go over some projects for restoration of old court records.

Goldstein conferred with Joseph E Boden, clerk of Circuit Court, on the installation of the new equipment in the records office and also inspected the old records, some dating back to the early days of the community.

Goldstein said he is interested in the preservation of these old records as they are the basis of the early history of each county and are priceless for research purposes.

The comptroller said he would meet with the state archivist on the local court records and see if some plan can be worked out for the restoration of the books.

After his session with Boden the comptroller visited the Allegany County Board of Commissioners in their meeting room. He discussed various funds which the state allocates to the county.

Goldstein showed much interest in the county commissioners' program of investing tax monies in U. S. Treasury notes to obtain interest pending the need of the funds for county expenses. The county has invested almost $2,000,000 in the government securities on a short term basis.

The investment plan is expected to bring in more than $30,000 for the county's coffers. Commissioner John J. Rowan also showed Goldstein the new requisition forms which the county placed in effect some months ago as a control plan on county expenditures.

The investment program is being handled by Commissioner John T. Mason. Comptroller Goldstein was here Thursday to attend the community testimonial dinner for Edmund S. Burke, retiring chairman of the board of directors of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Brook Bodkin, senior forest supervisor, will show films and give a talk on fighting forest fires at a meeting of the "Sparkies" tomorrow at 3 p.m. at LaVale fire hall.

The members will also be presented Smokey Bear badges and educational literature by Mr. Bodkin.

the proposal on the local level.

Pullen said the plan would enable taxpayers and legislators to view the cost of education per pupil on an overall basis and "relieve the battles over little things."

He mentioned specifically the almost annual "knock-down, drag-out" fights over teacher salaries.

Schmidt contended the plan would give the state a long-range approach which would replace educators descending on Annapolis every year for "hit and miss" aid.

Bishop Gets State Heart Group Post

James W. Bishop, this city, president of the Allegany-Garrett Heart Association, was installed as vice president of the Heart Association of Maryland Thursday in Baltimore.

Dr. Sidney Scherlis of Baltimore, was installed as president.

More than 500 doctors, volunteers and staff workers from nine Maryland chapters attended the 12th annual meeting. Leaders recalled that 19 workers attended the first meeting in 1947.

Lloyd L. Mallonee Jr., Hagerstown, and Paul E. Welsh, Baltimore, were chairmen of a two-part discussion of Heart Fund campaign procedures during the all-day session.

Canary birds were named for the Canary Islands.

Rig Operator, Hurt In Crash, Still Critical

A 38-year-old Louisville, Ky., tractor trailer driver was critically injured early yesterday when the truck he was operating crashed into the rear of another tractor-trailer about 15 miles west of Bedford.

William Raymond Brasel, driving for the Johnson Trucking Company of Indianapolis, apparently fell asleep at the wheel, according to Pennsylvania State Police at Everett, who said he ran under a tractor-trailer driven by Robert Walker, 30, of Zanesville, Ohio.

Brasel sustained injuries of the legs, arms, chest and head. He was taken to Bedford County Memorial Hospital where his condition was reported as "critical" at noon yesterday. Walker was uninjured.

The tractor-trailer driven by Brasel was completely demolished, the loss estimated at $10,000. Damage to Walker's rig was estimated at $400.

The accident occurred about 4:10 a.m., police said.

The injured man was pinned in his truck about 1½ hours before he could be extricated from the wreckage, police added.

Twiggtown 4-H Club Formed

The Twiggtown 4-H Club was organized at a recent meeting at the home of Sally and Robert Rinker, Williams Road. Officers elected at the initial meeting were:

Deanna Davies, president; Beverly Robinette, vice president; Joanne Barger, secretary; Donna Baker, assistant secretary; Mary Ann Davies, treasurer; Ronald Myers, assistant treasurer; Dennis Nelson and Robert Rinker, game leaders; Ronald Myers, song leader, and Donna Blake, reporter.

Project books were distributed, dues established, and the time and length of meetings set. A talk on "Adolescence" was given by Nancy Marsteller. Refreshments were served.

The December meeting will be held at the Davis residence.

Teachers Elect Fund Trustees

School teachers of Allegany County elected trustees to administer the relief fund maintained by their contributions.

They are Earl F. Brain, Beall Elementary School, principal; Miss Lula N. Blonskey, Pennsylvania Avenue School, secretary-treasurer, and Alice A. McCormick, associate.

Ex-officio trustees are J. Goodloe Jackson, president of the Allegany County Board of Education, and Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools.

Comptroller Confers With Boden On Court Records

State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein visited the Allegany County Court House yesterday to discuss financial matters and to go over some projects for restoration of old court records.

Goldstein conferred with Joseph E Boden, clerk of Circuit Court, on the installation of the new equipment in the records office and also inspected the old records, some dating back to the early days of the community.

Goldstein said he is interested in the preservation of these old records as they are the basis of the early history of each county and are priceless for research purposes.

The comptroller said he would meet with the state archivist on the local court records and see if some plan can be worked out for the restoration of the books.

After his session with Boden the comptroller visited the Allegany County Board of Commissioners in their meeting room. He discussed various funds which the state allocates to the county.

Goldstein showed much interest in the county commissioners' program of investing tax monies in U. S. Treasury notes to obtain interest pending the need of the funds for county expenses. The county has invested almost $2,000,000 in the government securities on a short term basis.

The investment plan is expected to bring in more than $30,000 for the county's coffers. Commissioner John J. Rowan also showed Goldstein the new requisition forms which the county placed in effect some months ago as a control plan on county expenditures.

The investment program is being handled by Commissioner John T. Mason. Comptroller Goldstein was here Thursday to attend the community testimonial dinner for Edmund S. Burke, retiring chairman of the board of directors of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Only about one-tenth of the population of the Hawaiian Islands are Hawaiian.

to live by...

It's quiet inside. Quiet with the peace of centuries, for this is God's House.

Within these walls, the worries which loomed so large outside become less fearsome... for the first time perhaps you see them in their true perspective. If this alone were the reward of Faith, it would be enough. But there is more.

Faith is a source of strength, a reservoir of power that helps you meet the needs of every day. By worshiping with your family each week at your Church or Synagogue, you're giving them a measure of security no amount of money could buy. The Faith to hope... to grow... to live by.

Find the strength for your life...

Presidential 'Folk Dance'

A Presidential election is America's greatest and gaudiest drama and it takes a long time to put it on the road.

The cast of principal characters, for instance, will not be selected until next summer, but most of the potential candidates are already moving restlessly about, hoping to impress the public and the politicians with their qualifications.

Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York has just completed a tour of the West Coast in which he gave the politicos of California, Oregon and some other states a chance to feel the force of his personality. Many of them were wearing Nixon buttons when they met New York's governor, and they still are.

Of course Mr. Nixon's friends have not been idle. They have formed a "New Yorkers for Nixon" group to show that the Vice President has important friends in Mr. Rockefeller's home state.

Among the Democrats the same sort of curious folk dance is going on among the various Presidential hopefuls. Four—Kennedy, Symington, Brown and Williams—met at a Democratic jamboree at Oklahoma City before resuming their restless pre-convention wanderings through the hinterlands. Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas took to the air to reiterate that while he isn't a candidate he will not refuse the nomination if it is proffered to him.

And Adlai Stevenson, still a strong possibility although twice defeated, remains seated in the wings but his friends are up and about organizing in his favor.

Readers' Guides

Some time ago, seeking information, I turned to "Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature" for an index and noted that certain publications were omitted. Those left out happened to be favorites of mine and they were on what I would consider my side of the fence. To me that meant that if a high school or college student were seeking the conservative side of an argument, to write an essay or prepare a debate, he would have no index to it. I selected the "National Review" as an instance and searched for a mention of it and found none.

The "National Review" is a substantial publication, continuously issued and contains adequate articles on the conservative side of current questions. By any standard, it should be in an index to current periodical literature. It is, in fact, the only conservative publication which has appeared regularly for enough years to accept its permanence.

So I wrote to the publishers of the index, the H. W. Wilson Company, and have received from Edwin B. Colburn, the following explanation:

"All of the periodicals indexed in the READERS' GUIDE are selected by vote of the subscribers to that index; none by us. Most of the subscribers, of course, are libraries—public, college, and school. We are currently having the assistance of a Committee of the American Library Association who are making a series of studies of all of our periodical indexes and their coverage. You will find a list of these indexes and related services to libraries at the bottom of this letterhead. This Committee invites suggestions from the subscribers and from other sources concerning titles which should be considered for the index being studied. From these a voting list is prepared and sent to all subscribers. Their votes determine which periodicals are to be indexed. These studies and polls are conducted at intervals of several years."

Presumably every organization has to establish some system to do its work. On the other hand, an index, to be of value, must be complete. It must cover the field fully. In this instance, the particular index in question is widely used by students in the preparation of themes, essays, debates, etc.

It is also used by persons engaged in such professions as mine who search for the printed word. The assumption must be that it is accurate and complete. For generations the "Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature" has been regarded as accurate, complete and as sure as the 11th edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, which came pretty close to perfection. To be complete, it may not omit any periodical published in this country of any durability.

Probably the cost of paper and printing or the pressures of the times led the publishers to set up this complicated system of determining which magazine deserves mention, but it may be that what one seeks is in a publication which this Committee either ignores or dislikes or is ignorant of. Does anyone read every periodical published in the United States? Yet the most valuable articles may be published in obscure ones.

Librarians are bound to know the outsides of books and magazines. When it comes to the insides, they, like so many other humans, limit themselves to reading reviews. For some years, while at high school, I worked as a stock-boy in a branch of the New York Public Library. It was back in those dark days when young folks could work their way through high school as well as college. The job was pleasant and the salary came to $2.50 a week which was good money then for this kind of work although today, it would hardly pay for anything, the dollar having shrunk in value.

On this job, I learned much about books and periodicals from a practical standpoint. All kinds passed through my hands, as they did through a librarian's hands. Somehow, one knew what was inside the book because of the classification according to the Dewey decimal system, even without reading it. When it came to the insides, there were, of course, librarians who read and librarians who did not read. And I should imagine the same is true today, men and women being what they are. In fact, reading on this job was a kind of featherbedding; when a stock-boy was too tired, he seized a book and read it among the shelves.

Surely the conservative side of current questions requires as much attention as the radical or liberal sides or as those publications which take no side at all but publish sundry articles by inexpert persons about nothing particularly significant and which women read while the sleeping pill takes effect. On similar occasions men prefer murder.

Rebuilt West Virginia School Is Termed Triumph For Democracy

By Drew Pearson

OSAGE, W. Va.—One year ago this week I stood before a gaping hole in the concrete floor of a schoolhouse in West Virginia. A bulge was punched into the ceiling above. Twisted school lockers, torn textbooks, broken plaster, splintered glass, desks and chairs were piled topsy-turvy.

A hate-monger had stolen into the school on a Sunday night, carefully placed a case of dynamite in the hall, meticulously run a wire through the gymnasium, over the transome of the gym door to a car outside. From its safety he had blown up the school.

In the months that passed, the man who wreaked vengeance on children was not caught. But in these months the people of Osage in Monongalia County have not been idle. From the rubble and ashes they have rebuilt the school. It had looked as if it could never be rebuilt, but they rebuilt it.

And last week, the boys and girls of the Osage school band, decked out in spic and span green and white uniforms, sat in that same gymnasium, once littered with broken glass and broken plaster, to play the Star-Spangled Banner during a ceremony rededicating the school.

History Is Made

Osage is not exactly a metropolis. It has a population of one thousand, most of them coal miners, and most of them out of work. It has seen tragedy before. It saw 57 bodies, wrapped in gunny sacks, carried out of the Christopher mine in 1942. And it has seen historic events. It saw John L. Lewis stand under a tree in 1922, long before the United Mine Workers were a power in the coal fields, and proclaim that labor had as much right to organize as banks and business had to join together to promote industry. Walter Hart, a young reporter, now editor of the Morgantown Dominion-News, had his notes seized by the district attorney when he reported that speech. The D. A. seriously considered whether John L. Lewis should be prosecuted for treason.

Tragedy and poverty are why the people of Osage long ago learned to live with each other. They learned, working underground that white coal miner has to rely on black, and vice versa, in a rescue operation. There is no color line underground. They learned also to govern their town by electing three Negro city councilmen and three white councilmen.

So when the Supreme Court ruled that Negro children had a right to study with white children, Osage, W. Va., had one of the first schools to integrate. There were 80 Negro children enrolled when the school was blown up one year ago.

American Defeats

Sitting in the gymnasium, as I did last week, listening to the very simple ceremony of rededicating the school, it seemed to me this was a historic occasion. It punctuated a period in American history when we suffered great setbacks, both at home and abroad. It was October 4, 1957, while U. S. troops were occupying Central High School in Little Rock, that Russia first occupied outer space. It was one year later, October 5, 1958, that the school house in Clinton, Tenn., was blown up. Four weeks later, the Osage school was shattered.

During this two-year period, 84 schools, churches, synagogues, or homes were dynamited in a war of hate. The Committee of Americans against Bombs of Bigotry, headed by Gov. Pat Brown of California and Charley Taft of Ohio began mobilizing public opinion against the outrages, tried to raise money to repair the damage. It was not easy. National organizations usually outgiving in generosity, shied away. Too much political bitterness was involved.

Meanwhile, in the race with Russia, we also fell behind. There was little cohesion in Washington, more concentration on budget-cutting than on progress-making. Instead of catching up in the conquest of outer space, we suffered defeat after defeat.

But in the little town of Osage there has been a historic victory. Thanks to the goading of editor Hart, the energy of school superintendent Charles Stevenson, and the vision of the county school board, the shattered school was rebuilt.

This week, after the rededication ceremony, a reception was given in the home economics room. One year ago, its electric ranges had been blown into chaos. But in the middle of the room, untouched by the dynamite's blast, was a plate of biscuits. A little girl had baked them on Friday before the hate-monger had come in to wreck the building, and they sat there, surrounded by wrecked china closets, fallen chandeliers, and shattered glass.

This week, instead of the biscuits, Mrs. Merle Miller presented me with a cake.

Last year I had picked up a book: "Our environment: How we use and control it," by Wood and Carpenter. The people of Osage had been trying to control their environment, and had made progress. But they had not been able to control hate.

On the wall, a year ago, hung a picture of Abraham Lincoln who once proclaimed a nation "dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal." He looked down from that picture on broken plaster, the twisted cinder block of a school where children had been studying as equals, but had been forced to disrupt that study by one who disagreed with Lincoln.

This week, Lincoln looked down on a different scene—a brightly painted, freshly repaired school, completed by citizens determined to carry out his declaration regardless of those who stalk in the night carrying dynamite and nursing hate.

Chinese Reds' Life Is Worse Than Chain Gang

By Joseph Alsop

MACAO

At barely twenty years of age, Ng Tim is already work worn. For the last month, she has been earning her living for herself and a baby as an earth carrier on a local construction project, where she is paid the equivalent of about ten American dollars a month.

She owes this great improvement in her lot to an imprudence committed by one of the Communist cadres of her former people's commune, which is not far from this city of refuge. The cadre gave a senior farmer a communal sampan, with orders to go up the river for a load of some sort of supplies. Ng Tim and two younger farmers were sent along to help.

The five of them—for Ng Tim had taken her baby into the fields with her—were hardly in the sampan and out of the cadre's sight, when they decided to seize the chance to "run away from starvation," as Ng Tim put it. They slipped down river, paddling desperately all night. They barely eluded the Chinese Communist patrol boat, and they reached safety in Macao.

As they described their former existence in the commune, one could understand why they had risked their lives, left their families behind without a word, and abandoned the homes they were born in, for nothing better than the poorest coolie wages in this city. No Southern chain gang ever worked twelve to sixteen hours a day, seven days a week. No Southern chain gang's convicts were ever forced to do their work on a few daily bowls of starchy mush, without so much as a little additional fatback and greens. But just this had been the situation of Ng Tim and the others until they escaped.

The story of Ng Tim is not exceptional, either. With some variations in the quantity of poor rice and bad sweet potatoes in the diet, the worse-than-chain-gang life is the standard life of the people's communes, as described by the refugees and escapees here and in Hong Kong. But this raises a major question, which is symbolized by the flat contradiction of poor Ng Tim, a humble, work-worn young Chinese peasant woman, by the famous female leader of French intellectual life, Simone de Beauvoir.

If you read Mme. de Beauvoir's glowing account of her Chinese journey, "The Long March," you cannot even believe in the existence of Ng Tim. Indeed, you can hardly believe in the existence of Ng Tim if you read the many other reports on China, which are not marked by Mme. de Beauvoir's exceptional combination of fatuous self-satisfaction, gross credulity, and complacent ignorance of China and the Chinese past. Where, then, does the truth lie?

All the scores of refugees I have talked to, and the great majority of the tens upon tens of thousands of refugees and escapees in this city of Hong Kong, come from only two Chinese provinces, Kwanktung and Fukien. Being just opposite Taiwan across the Formosa Strait, Fukien has to feed a very heavy concentration of the Chinese Communist Army. Kwangtung has to provide a larger part of Hong Kong's food, which is Communist China's biggest single hard currency port. Thus there is a case for the view that food requisitions in these two provinces are especially cruel. The fact must be noted, because this case is argued by intelligent observers.

Yet the case does not really stand up, so far as one can learn. On the one hand I should not have dared to present the evidence of the few scores of escapees I have interrogated myself, without checking to make sure that their evidence was broadly representative. It was possible to check, because machinery exists for systematic, continuous refugee interrogation on a big scale. I have been assured that my own results do not differ from the results obtained by this machinery.

On the other hand, while most of the refugees processed by this machinery come from Fukien and Kwangtung, some regularly come from other Chinese provinces, including even the northern provinces, though much less numerous, are significantly similar to the massive data from Fukien and Kwanktung. In short, where you would naturally look for evidence that the Kwangtung-Fukien conditions are exceptional, you find instead evidence that these conditions are general. In the circumstances, one must therefore conclude that the picture painted by these unhappy people here in Macao and Hong Kong, is the true picture of the present situation for all the hundreds of millions of people in rural China.

As to the contraction between this fearful picture and the picture painted by Mme. de Beauvoir, it should not trouble those who remember the recent past. The late Beatrice Webb, another intelligent female goose rather better equipped than Mme. de Beauvoir, made Stalin's Russia sound like a people's paradise at the very moment when Stalin was murdering 15,000,000 of his own people in cold blood. The Russian experience established the rule, "Believe only those who have gone through the wringer and got away to tell about it." It seems to me that this rule applies to China today.

Inside Washington

MURPHY — Veteran career diplomat Robert D. Murphy's decision to resign from the State Department in order to enter private business has tongues wagging in the capital.

Murphy refused to accept the United States ambassadorship to West Germany, and, in a talk with President Eisenhower, decided to leave diplomacy after serving in the government for 39 years.

At the time he quit he was the number three man in the department, ranked only by Secretary of State Christian Herter and Undersecretary Douglas Dillon. He had a most distinguished diplomatic record and served as a top troubleshooter during World War II and in the succeeding years.

There is no way to confirm this, but there is much speculation that Murphy decided to call it quits because he felt he was being eased out of his top policy-making position. His decision to leave is linked in this speculation with the return of Charles E. Bohlen to a position of policy making power in the department.

While not holding the title, Bohlen is slated to play an important role in the very work Murphy has been doing. The job he resigned from was Undersecretary of State for Political Affairs.

Divided Europe

By Leslie Gould

The Swiss are concerned about the break-down, or more correctly, the division of Europe into three economic blocs:

The common market of six nations, the "outside" six industrial nations and the six less developed countries.

The common market — comprising West Germany, France, Holland, Belgium, Italy and Luxembourg — has 168 million population — roughly comparable to the U. S.

The "outside six industrial nations — Great Britain, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Austria and Switzerland—have 79 million.

The less developed six—Eire, Greece, Iceland, Portugal, Spain and Turkey — which becomes eight if Yugoslavia and Finland are included—have 76 million people.

All of the countries in the three economic groupings — except Spain, Finland and Yugoslavia— are members of the Organization for European Co-operation—the O. E. E. C.—which came into being in 1948. Spain has participated on an equal footing in the agricultural parts of the O.E.E.C. and Yugoslavia has had an observer at the meetings.

The greatest concern of the Swiss is the development of the Common Market, which hopes to expand from six countries to eight by the inclusion of Turkey and Spain.

As the Swiss see it—and this from a current study by one of their biggest and best banking concerns—Swiss Bank Corporation—the big obstacle to including other of the 18 O. E. E. C. nations into the common market is that:

The Common Market is not merely a customs union, but a political merger in process of formation.

Those countries that join, as the Swiss see it, will have to sacrifice a substantial part of their sovereignty. Ultimately, the whole area is to have a harmonized economic, fiscal, monetary, transport, social system and a common foreign policy.

The Swiss, however, see this an "undeniably" meaning "immensely greater political strength."

They add this significant observation:

"Encroachment from the East (the Communist world) could then be effectually barred."

The Swiss see the difficulty in this because "Both Switzerland and Austria believe themselves committed to a status of neutrality." Also that "other countries like Great Britain are indisposed to curtail their political independence."

The Swiss are missing two points:

1—In the next war, no country is going to be able to stay neutral as the Swiss and the Swedes did in the last two. If the next war comes it will be between two diametrically opposed systems—slavery of people and freedom for the people.

2—The Common Market can develop the present six countries into a trading area with an increasingly higher purchasing power, as has been developed by the U. S. The U. S. is the world's greatest consuming market.

If the Communist threat — military as well as economic—is to be met, the free world must unite and stay that way. India is now learning neutrality is no assurance of immunity from the Communists.

Follow-Up Care Needed In Rheumatic Fever

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

When John develops measles, he is rewarded with an everlasting immunity to the disease. But should he develop rheumatic fever, he becomes more susceptible to future attacks. This is serious because the disease affects the heart and each succeeding bout leaves its mark on the old ticker and reduces life expectancy.

We know how to prevent recurrences but many former rheumatic fever patients are not receiving the benefit of the program. It is a simple method in which the individual takes a penicillin tablet once or twice a day or a shot of penicillin once each month. A sulfonamide or another antibiotic may be substituted for penicillin.

What could be easier and why does it fail? Human frailty is the answer. Someone must be responsible for seeing that the medicine is taken regularly. Since most rheumatic fever patients are children, it becomes the responsibility of the parents. Here is the bottleneck, according to Dr. Benjamin B. Berman of Granite City, Ill.

He made a comparative study on a group of children who were on several of these prophylactic programs. There was a marked reduction in the recurrence rate of rheumatic fever among youngsters who received a monthly penicillin shot from the physician. This was not true of those who received the daily tablet of penicillin or one of the other antibiotics.

In some instances the parents forgot to give the tablet; others refused to follow directions because they failed to understand the necessity. Expense enters the picture for some although a daily sulfonamide or penicillin tablet is not expensive and costs less than the parents spend for cigarets or desserts. Families that cannot afford the drugs may obtain them free in most states.

The diagnosis of rheumatic fever should not be taken lightly, even though a youngster gets well quickly. A mild attack may be as serious as a marked attack because the heart is likely to be damaged in both instances. Prophylaxis is not necessary in adults because the chances of recurrences lessen with each succeeding year.

THE KING'S EVIL

M. L. D. writes: My 7 year old has tuberculosis of the neck glands. Is this a new form of tuberculosis?

REPLY

No. Scrofula goes back to medieval times and once was known as the king's evil The condition is not common today because we drink pasteurized milk and have eliminated tubercular cattle. The surgical treatment of this type of tuberculosis was popular years ago and many older persons have unsightly scars on the neck at the site where the infected glands were removed. The results now with isoniazid and PAS are so good, surgery is unnecessary.

ABDOMINAL PAIN

G. H. writes: How can lumbago in the abdomen be cured?

REPLY

Lumbago refers to pain in the back muscles. Abdominal pain has many origins, varying from so-called nervous stomach to appendicitis. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on abdominal pain.

HARDENED EYE ARTERIES

D. L. writes: Can anything be done for hardening of the arteries of the eyes?

REPLY

There is no cure but it may be possible to relieve symptoms. Hardening of the retinal arteries is common but only a small percentage of persons is bothered.

WANTS BIGGER DIMPLE

J. B. writes: I have a slight dimple in my chin. Can it be made larger through plastic surgery?

REPLY

Yes, but it won't be worth it, especially when you shave. Some people are never satisfied.

PARTITION OPENING

Mrs. G. T. writes: Do blue babies have a hole in the heart?

REPLY

Many have an opening in the partition between the ventricles, rather than in the wall of the heart.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

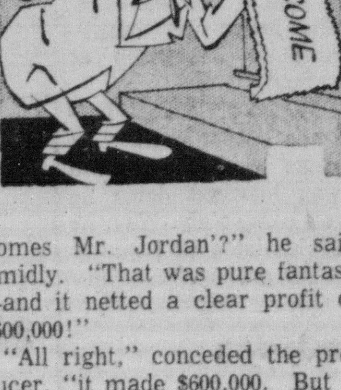
Mark Twain, vacationing upstate, decided to take a drive one evening, but told the stable boy he did not have to wait up for him. "Just lock up," ordered Twain, "and put the key under this mat by the front door."

When the humorist returned home, however, there was no sign of the key. Exasperated, he woke up the stable boy who speedily reassured him, "Don't go losing your temper, Mr. Mark. I found a much better place to hide the key!"



A famous, egomaniacal film producer was holding forth on the futility of producing fantasies under prevailing market conditions. "The public won't go for that kind of stuff," he announced categorically. One intrepid listener demurred. "How about 'Here Comes Mr. Jordan'?" he said timidly. "That was pure fantasy —and it netted a clear profit of $600,000!"

"All right," conceded the producer, "it made $600,000. But if it hadn't been a fantasy it would have made six million!"

Presidential 'Folk Dance'

A Presidential election is America's greatest and gaudiest drama and it takes a long time to put it on the road.

The cast of principal characters, for instance, will not be selected until next summer, but most of the potential candidates are already moving restlessly about, hoping to impress the public and the politicians with their qualifications.

Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York has just completed a tour of the West Coast in which he gave the politicos of California, Oregon and some other states a chance to feel the force of his personality. Many of them were wearing Nixon buttons when they met New York's governor, and they still are.

Of course Mr. Nixon's friends have not been idle. They have formed a "New Yorkers for Nixon" group to show that the Vice President has important friends in Mr. Rockefeller's home state.

Among the Democrats the same sort of curious folk dance is going on among the various Presidential hopefuls. Four—Kennedy, Symington, Brown and Williams—met at a Democratic jamboree at Oklahoma City before resuming their restless pre-convention wanderings through the hinterlands. Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas took to the air to reiterate that while he isn't a candidate he will not refuse the nomination if it is proffered to him.

And Adlai Stevenson, still a strong possibility although twice defeated, remains seated in the wings but his friends are up and about organizing in his favor.

Readers' Guides

Some time ago, seeking information, I turned to "Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature" for an index and noted that certain publications were omitted. Those left out happened to be favorites of mine and they were on what I would consider my side of the fence. To me that meant that if a high school or college student were seeking the conservative side of an argument, to write an essay or prepare a debate, he would have no index to it. I selected the "National Review" as an instance and searched for a mention of it and found none.

The "National Review" is a substantial publication, continuously issued and contains adequate articles on the conservative side of current questions. By any standard, it should be in an index to current periodical literature. It is, in fact, the only conservative publication which has appeared regularly for enough years to accept its permanence.

So I wrote to the publishers of the index, the H. W. Wilson Company, and have received from Edwin B. Colburn, the following explanation:

"All of the periodicals indexed in the READERS' GUIDE are selected by vote of the subscribers to that index; none by us. Most of the subscribers, of course, are libraries—public, college, and school. We are currently having the assistance of a Committee of the American Library Association who are making a series of studies of all of our periodical indexes and their coverage. You will find a list of these indexes and related services to libraries at the bottom of this letterhead. This Committee invites suggestions from the subscribers and from other sources concerning titles which should be considered for the index being studied. From these a voting list is prepared and sent to all subscribers. Their votes determine which periodicals are to be indexed. These studies and polls are conducted at intervals of several years."

Presumably every organization has to establish some system to do its work. On the other hand, an index, to be of value, must be complete. It must cover the field fully. In this instance, the particular index in question is widely used by students in the preparation of themes, essays, debates, etc.

It is also used by persons engaged in such professions as mine who search for the printed word. The assumption must be that it is accurate and complete. For generations the "Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature" has been regarded as accurate, complete and as sure as the 11th edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, which came pretty close to perfection. To be complete, it may not omit any periodical published in this country of any durability.

Probably the cost of paper and printing or the pressures of the times led the publishers to set up this complicated system of determining which magazine deserves mention, but it may be that what one seeks is in a publication which this Committee either ignores or dislikes or is ignorant of. Does anyone read every periodical published in the United States? Yet the most valuable articles may be published in obscure ones.

Librarians are bound to know the outsides of books and magazines. When it comes to the insides, they, like so many other humans, limit themselves to reading reviews. For some years, while at high school, I worked as a stock-boy in a branch of the New York Public Library. It was back in those dark days when young folks could work their way through high school as well as college. The job was pleasant and the salary came to $2.50 a week which was good money then for this kind of work although today, it would hardly pay for anything, the dollar having shrunk in value.

On this job, I learned much about books and periodicals from a practical standpoint. All kinds passed through my hands, as they did through a librarian's hands. Somehow, one knew what was inside the book because of the classification according to the Dewey decimal system, even without reading it. When it came to the insides, there were, of course, librarians who read and librarians who did not read. And I should imagine the same is true today, men and women being what they are. In fact, reading on this job was a kind of featherbedding; when a stock-boy was too tired, he seized a book and read it among the shelves.

Surely the conservative side of current questions requires as much attention as the radical or liberal sides or as those publications which take no side at all but publish sundry articles by inexpert persons about nothing particularly significant and which women read while the sleeping pill takes effect. On similar occasions men prefer murder.

Chinese Reds' Life Is Worse Than Chain Gang

By Joseph Alsop

MACAO

At barely twenty years of age, Ng Tim is already work worn. For the last month, she has been earning her living for herself and a baby as an earth carrier on a local construction project, where she is paid the equivalent of about ten American dollars a month.

She owes this great improvement in her lot to an imprudence committed by one of the Communist cadres of her former people's commune, which is not far from this city of refuge. The cadre gave a senior farmer a communal sampan, with orders to go up the river for a load of some sort of supplies. Ng Tim and two younger farmers were sent along to help.

The five of them—for Ng Tim had taken her baby into the fields with her—were hardly in the sampan and out of the cadre's sight, when they decided to seize the chance to "run away from starvation," as Ng Tim put it. They slipped down river, paddling desperately all night. They barely eluded the Chinese Communist patrol boat, and they reached safety in Macao.

As they described their former existence in the commune, one could understand why they had risked their lives, left their families behind without a word, and abandoned the homes they were born in, for nothing better than the poorest coolie wages in this city. No Southern chain gang ever worked twelve to sixteen hours a day, seven days a week. No Southern chain gang's convicts were ever forced to do their work on a few daily bowls of starchy mush, without so much as a little additional fatback and greens. But just this had been the situation of Ng Tim and the others until they escaped.

The story of Ng Tim is not exceptional, either. With some variations in the quantity of poor rice and bad sweet potatoes in the diet, the worse-than-chain-gang life is the standard life of the people's communes, as described by the refugees and escapees here and in Hong Kong. But this raises a major question, which is symbolized by the flat contradiction of poor Ng Tim, a humble, work-worn young Chinese peasant woman, by the famous female leader of French intellectual life, Simone de Beauvoir.

If you read Mme. de Beauvoir's glowing account of her Chinese journey, "The Long March," you cannot even believe in the existence of Ng Tim. Indeed, you can hardly believe in the existence of Ng Tim if you read the many other reports on China, which are not marked by Mme. de Beauvoir's exceptional combination of fatuous self-satisfaction, gross credulity, and complacent ignorance of China and the Chinese past. Where, then, does the truth lie?

All the scores of refugees I have talked to, and the great majority of the tens upon tens of thousands of refugees and escapees in this city of Hong Kong, come from only two Chinese provinces, Kwanktung and Fukien. Being just opposite Taiwan across the Formosa Strait, Fukien has to feed a very heavy concentration of the Chinese Communist Army. Kwangtung has to provide a larger part of Hong Kong's food, which is Communist China's biggest single hard currency port. Thus there is a case for the view that food requisitions in these two provinces are especially cruel. The fact must be noted, because this case is argued by intelligent observers.

Yet the case does not really stand up, so far as one can learn. On the one hand I should not have dared to present the evidence of the few scores of escapees I have interrogated myself, without checking to make sure that their evidence was broadly representative. It was possible to check, because machinery exists for systematic, continuous refugee interrogation on a big scale. I have been assured that my own results do not differ from the results obtained by this machinery.

On the other hand, while most of the refugees processed by this machinery come from Fukien and Kwangtung, some regularly come from other Chinese provinces, including even the northern provinces, though much less numerous, are significantly similar to the massive data from Fukien and Kwanktung. In short, where you would naturally look for evidence that the Kwangtung-Fukien conditions are exceptional, you find instead evidence that these conditions are general. In the circumstances, one must therefore conclude that the picture painted by these unhappy people here in Macao and Hong Kong, is the true picture of the present situation for all the hundreds of millions of people in rural China.

As to the contraction between this fearful picture and the picture painted by Mme. de Beauvoir, it should not trouble those who remember the recent past. The late Beatrice Webb, another intelligent female goose rather better equipped than Mme. de Beauvoir, made Stalin's Russia sound like a people's paradise at the very moment when Stalin was murdering 15,000,000 of his own people in cold blood. The Russian experience established the rule, "Believe only those who have gone through the wringer and got away to tell about it." It seems to me that this rule applies to China today.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

MURPHY — Veteran career diplomat Robert D. Murphy's decision to resign from the State Department in order to enter private business has tongues wagging in the capital.

Murphy refused to accept the United States ambassadorship to West Germany, and, in a talk with President Eisenhower, decided to leave diplomacy after serving in the government for 39 years.

At the time he quit he was the number three man in the department, ranked only by Secretary of State Christian Herter and Undersecretary Douglas Dillon. He had a most distinguished diplomatic record and served as a top troubleshooter during World War II and in the succeeding years.

There is no way to confirm this, but there is much speculation that Murphy decided to call it quits because he felt he was being eased out of his top policy-making position. His decision to leave is linked in this speculation with the return of Charles E. Bohlen to a position of policy making power in the department.

While not holding the title, Bohlen is slated to play an important role in the very work Murphy has been doing. The job he resigned from was Undersecretary of State for Political Affairs.

Follow-Up Care Needed In Rheumatic Fever

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

When John develops measles, he is rewarded with an everlasting immunity to the disease. But should he develop rheumatic fever, he becomes more susceptible to future attacks. This is serious because the disease affects the heart and each succeeding bout leaves its mark on the old ticker and reduces life expectancy.

We know how to prevent recurrences but many former rheumatic fever patients are not receiving the benefit of the program. It is a simple method in which the individual takes a penicillin tablet once or twice a day or a shot of penicillin once each month. A sulfonamide or another antibiotic may be substituted for penicillin.

What could be easier and why does it fail? Human frailty is the answer. Someone must be responsible for seeing that the medicine is taken regularly. Since most rheumatic fever patients are children, it becomes the responsibility of the parents. Here is the bottleneck, according to Dr. Benjamin B. Berman of Granite City, Ill.

He made a comparative study on a group of children who were on several of these prophylactic programs. There was a marked reduction in the recurrence rate of rheumatic fever among youngsters who received a monthly penicillin shot from the physician. This was not true of those who received the daily tablet of penicillin or one of the other antibiotics.

In some instances the parents forgot to give the tablet; others refused to follow directions because they failed to understand the necessity. Expense enters the picture for some although a daily sulfonamide or penicillin tablet is not expensive and costs less than the parents spend for cigarets or desserts. Families that cannot afford the drugs may obtain them free in most states.

The diagnosis of rheumatic fever should not be taken lightly, even though a youngster gets well quickly. A mild attack may be as serious as a marked attack because the heart is likely to be damaged in both instances. Prophylaxis is not necessary in adults because the chances of recurrences lessen with each succeeding year.

THE KING'S EVIL

M. L. D. writes: My 7 year old has tuberculosis of the neck glands. Is this a new form of tuberculosis?

REPLY

No. Scrofula goes back to medieval times and once was known as the king's evil The condition is not common today because we drink pasteurized milk and have eliminated tubercular cattle. The surgical treatment of this type of tuberculosis was popular years ago and many older persons have unsightly scars on the neck at the site where the infected glands were removed. The results now with isoniazid and PAS are so good, surgery is unnecessary.

ABDOMINAL PAIN

G. H. writes: How can lumbago in the abdomen be cured?

REPLY

Lumbago refers to pain in the back muscles. Abdominal pain has many origins, varying from so-called nervous stomach to appendicitis. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on abdominal pain.

HARDENED EYE ARTERIES

D. L. writes: Can anything be done for hardening of the arteries of the eyes?

REPLY

There is no cure but it may be possible to relieve symptoms. Hardening of the retinal arteries is common but only a small percentage of persons is bothered.

WANTS BIGGER DIMPLE

J. B. writes: I have a slight dimple in my chin. Can it be made larger through plastic surgery?

REPLY

Yes, but it won't be worth it, especially when you shave. Some people are never satisfied.

PARTITION OPENING

Mrs. G. T. writes: Do blue babies have a hole in the heart?

REPLY

Many have an opening in the partition between the ventricles, rather than in the wall of the heart.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Mark Twain, vacationing upstate, decided to take a drive one evening, but told the stable boy he did not have to wait up for him. "Just lock up," ordered Twain, "and put the key under this mat by the front door."

When the humorist returned home, however, there was no sign of the key. Exasperated, he woke up the stable boy who speedily reassured him. "Don't go losing your temper, Mr. Mark. I found a much better place to hide the key!"

A famous, egomaniacal film producer was holding forth on the futility of producing fantasies under prevailing market conditions. "The public won't go for that kind of stuff," he announced categorically. One intrepid listener demurred. "How about 'Here Comes Mr. Jordan'?" he said timidly. "That was pure fantasy—and it netted a clear profit of $600,000!"

"All right," conceded the producer, "it made $600,000. But if it hadn't been a fantasy it would have made six million!"

Rebuilt West Virginia School Is Termed Triumph For Democracy

By Drew Pearson

OSAGE, W. Va.—One year ago this week I stood before a gaping hole in the concrete floor of a schoolhouse in West Virginia. A bulge was punched into the ceiling above. Twisted school lockers, torn textbooks, broken plaster, splintered glass, desks and chairs were piled topsy-turvy.

A hate-monger had stolen into the school on a Sunday night, carefully placed a case of dynamite in the hall, meticulously run a wire through the gymnasium, over the transome of the gym door to a car outside. From its safety he had blown up the school.

In the months that passed, the man who wreaked vengeance on children was not caught. But in these months the people of Osage in Monongalia County have not been idle. From the rubble and ashes they have rebuilt the school. It had looked as if it could never be rebuilt, but they rebuilt it.

And last week, the boys and girls of the Osage school band, decked out in spic and span green and white uniforms, sat in that same gymnasium, once littered with broken glass and broken plaster, to play the Star-Spangled Banner during a ceremony rededicating the school.

History Is Made

Osage is not exactly a metropolis. It has a population of one thousand, most of them coal miners, and most of them out of work. It has seen tragedy before. It saw 57 bodies, wrapped in gunny sacks, carried out of the Christopher mine in 1942. And it has seen historic events. It saw John L. Lewis stand under a tree in 1922, long before the United Mine Workers were a power in the coal fields, and proclaim that labor had as much right to organize as banks and business had to join together to promote industry. Walter Hart, a young reporter, now editor of the Morgantown Dominion-News, had his notes seized by the district attorney when he reported that speech. The D. A. seriously considered whether John L. Lewis should be prosecuted for treason.

Tragedy and poverty are why the people of Osage long ago learned to live with each other. They learned, working underground that white coal miner has to rely on black, and vice versa, in a rescue operation. There is no color line underground. They learned also to govern their town by electing three Negro city councilmen and three white councilmen.

So when the Supreme Court ruled that Negro children had a right to study with white children, Osage, W. Va., had one of the first schools to integrate. There were 80 Negro children enrolled when the school was blown up one year ago.

American Defeats

Sitting in the gymnasium, as I did last week, listening to the very simple ceremony of rededicating the school, it seemed to me this was a historic occasion. It punctuated a period in American history when we suffered great setbacks, both at home and abroad. It was October 4, 1957, while U. S. troops were occupying Central High School in Little Rock, that Russia first occupied outer space. It was one year later, October 5, 1958, that the school house in Clinton, Tenn., was blown up. Four weeks later, the Osage school was shattered.

During this two-year period, 84 schools, churches, synagogues, or homes were dynamited in a war of hate. The Committee of Americans against Bombs of Bigotry, headed by Gov. Pat Brown of California and Charley Taft of Ohio began mobilizing public opinion against the outrages, tried to raise money to repair the damage. It was not easy. National organizations usually outgiving in generosity, shied away. Too much political bitterness was involved.

Meanwhile, in the race with Russia, we also fell behind. There was little cohesion in Washington, more concentration on budget-cutting than on progress-making. Instead of catching up in the conquest of outer space, we suffered defeat after defeat.

But in the little town of Osage there has been a historic victory. Thanks to the goading of editor Hart, the energy of school superintendent Charles Stevenson, and the vision of the county school board, the shattered school was rebuilt.

This week, after the rededication ceremony, a reception was given in the home economics room. One year ago, its electric ranges had been blown into chaos. But in the middle of the room, untouched by the dynamite's blast, was a plate of biscuits. A little girl had baked them on Friday before the hate-monger had come in to wreck the building, and they sat there, surrounded by wrecked china closets, fallen chandeliers, and shattered glass.

This week, instead of the biscuits, Mrs. Merle Miller presented me with a cake.

Last year I had picked up a book: "Our environment: How we use and control it," by Wood and Carpenter. The people of Osage had been trying to control their environment, and had made progress. But they had not been able to control hate.

On the wall, a year ago, hung a picture of Abraham Lincoln who once proclaimed a nation "dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal." He looked down from that picture on broken plaster, the twisted cinder block of a school where children had been studying as equals, but had been forced to disrupt that study by one who disagreed with Lincoln.

This week, Lincoln looked down on a different scene—a brightly painted, freshly repaired school, completed by citizens determined to carry out his declaration regardless of those who stalk in the night carrying dynamite and nursing hate.

Divided Europe

By Leslie Gould

The Swiss are concerned about the break-down, or more correctly, the division of Europe into three economic blocs:

The common market of six nations, the "outside" six industrial nations and the six less developed countries.

The common market — comprising West Germany, France, Holland, Belgium, Italy and Luxembourg — has 168 million population — roughly comparable to the U. S.

The "outside six industrial nations — Great Britain, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Austria and Switzerland—have 79 million.

The less developed six—Eire, Greece, Iceland, Portugal, Spain and Turkey — which becomes eight if Yugoslavia and Finland are included—have 76 million people.

All of the countries in the three economic groupings — except Spain, Finland and Yugoslavia—are members of the Organization for European Co-operation—the O. E. E. C.—which came into being in 1948. Spain has participated on an equal footing in the agricultural parts of the O.E.E.C. and Yugoslavia has had an observer at the meetings.

The greatest concern of the Swiss is the development of the Common Market, which hopes to expand from six countries to eight by the inclusion of Turkey and Spain.

As the Swiss see it—and this from a current study by one of their biggest and best banking concerns—Swiss Bank Corporation—the big obstacle to including other of the 18 O. E. E. C. nations into the common market is that:

The Common Market is not merely a customs union, but a political merger in process of formation.

Those countries that join, as the Swiss see it, will have to sacrifice a substantial part of their sovereignty. Ultimately, the whole area is to have a harmonized economic, fiscal, monetary, transport, social system and a common foreign policy.

The Swiss, however, see this an "undeniably" meaning "immensely greater political strength."

They add this significant observation:

"Encroachment from the East (the Communist world) could then be effectually barred."

The Swiss see the difficulty in this because "Both Switzerland and Austria believe themselves committed to a status of neutrality." Also that "other countries like Great Britain are indisposed to curtail their political independence."

The Swiss are missing two points:

1—In the next war, no country is going to be able to stay neutral as the Swiss and the Swedes did in the last two. If the next war comes it will be between two diametrically opposed systems—slavery of people and freedom for the people.

2—The Common Market can develop the present six countries into a trading area with an increasingly higher purchasing power, as has been developed by the U. S. The U. S. is the world's greatest consuming market.

If the Communist threat — military as well as economic—is to be met, the free world must unite and stay that way. India is now learning neutrality is no assurance of immunity from the Communists.

Keyser High School's hopes for obtaining a berth in the West Virginia Class AA championship playoffs were wiped out yesterday afternoon by Larry Burns, whose superlative quarterbacking led the Purple Panthers of Charles Town High School to a 19-13 victory over the Golden Tornado before a near-record crowd at Keyser's Stayman Field.

The long-awaited fray brought together two undefeated powerhouses whose successes this season have been attributed largely to their brilliant quarterbacks — Burns of Charles Town and Keyser's Gary Keedy. Keyser, prior to yesterday's loss, had swept past 14 consecutive opponents, including nine this season.

Keedy wasted little time in displaying his prowess to the throng by hauling in Tom Doyle's opening kickoff on his own 15-yard line and racing 85 yards for a touchdown that put the Keyser faithful in a frenzy and stunned the large delegation of Panther followers.

Sidley Recovers Fumble

Then after Francis Sidley recovered a fumble by Charles Jackson to end a Charles Town threat on the Keyser 30, it appeared as if the Tornado might turn the expectedly even contest into a rout.

Such was not the case however. Once Burns warmed to his task, the imaginative Charles Town eleven couldn't be contained. After downing Bob Shaw's punt on their own 16 yard line early in the second period, the Panthers, behind Burns, drove all the way for a tie-producing TD.

When, with fourth down and eight yards to go on the Keyser 13, it appeared that the rally would sputter short of the goal line, the Panthers pulled off a double reverse that caught the Tornado defenses napping and moved the visitors right back in the ball game.

Burns started the perfectly-executed maneuver by giving off to his right halfback, Bill Glaize. Glaize in turn handed to left halfback Bob Robinson, who carried over for the score. Tom Doyle booted the extra point to knot the score at 7-7, which is the way things stood at halftime. Doyle attempted a field goal from the 13-yard line shortly before intermission, but Jim Leatherman and Floyd "Corky" Wilt surged through to block the try.

Panthers Fired Up

The Panthers opened the second half with Robinson returning Sidley's kickoff to their own 36, and it was obvious that they were a fired-up crew of athletes. It took the boys from Jefferson County just seven plays to move the ball 64 yards into scoring territory.

Jackson paced the march by carrying for 44 yards in four tries, including a seven-yard slant off right tackle for the six-pointer. A jump pass by Burns just over the line to end Bob Spinks gained 14 yards and set the stage for Jackson's scoring thrust.

The final Charles Town TD was scored in similar fashion. Starting on their own 21 after taking over on downs, the Panthers marched to a touchdown in nine plays, foremost of which was a run by Burns, who rolled out to his left, then cut back and raced 31 yards before being tackled by Keedy at the Keyser 45. Robinson capped the drive by taking a handoff from Burns and driving over from the 11 for his second touchdown of the afternoon.

Keyser scored late in the fourth period, but unfortunately for the Tornado, it was too late. After moving all the way to the Charles Town 20, Keyser lost the ball when Tom Kisner intercepted a pass by Keedy at the 18. On the ensuing play, however, Jim Mann pounced on a fumble by Jackson to regain possession for the Tornado at the Panther 20.

Keedy Sneaks Over

A 19-yard aerial from Keedy to Chidester and a one-yard quarterback sneak by Keedy gave Keyser a touchdown with about a minute left in the game. Sidley attempted an onside kick, but Harold Gray, Charles Town guard, fell on it at the Panther 47, and Burns proceeded to run out the clock.

Burns, who hails from Cumberland, was injured slightly on a play late in the third quarter. At the time, it looked as if he may have been seriously hurt, and Charles Town's outlook took a momentary turn for the worse. But the rugged signal-caller returned to the lineup several moments later, and led his mates to their final touchdown.

The statistics of yesterday's game were even more decisive than the score. Charles Town racked up 18 first downs and picked up a net yardage total of 373 yards. Keyser registered 13 first downs and gained an aggregate of 178 yards, 80 of them on passes.

Panthers 10-0 For Season

Charles Town's victory was the first over Keyser after seven straight reverses. The triumph gave the Jefferson County Purple Panthers, coached by Richard Harmison, a 10-0 record for the season.

Gary Keedy, Keyser quarterback, chalked up a pair of touchdowns against Charles Town yesterday and moved into first place among the football scorers in the tri-state area with a total of 96 points.

Keedy wound up his senior year with a total of 16 touchdowns.

Larry Jones, of West Virginia School for the Deaf, his closest competitor, has finished his season with 88 points on 13 touchdowns and ten conversions.

Bob Gaffney, of Allegany, who occupies third place with 12 touchdowns and 72 points, has one more game to play on Thanksgiving Day.

Billy Sherman, of Moorefield, with 68 points on 10 tds and extra points, is fourth. The Yellowjackets have ended their season.

Win Soccer Crown

ELIZABETHTOWN, Pa. (UPI) —Center-forward Bill Hoar scored three goals Friday to lead Elizabethtown (Pa.) College to a 6-1 win over Washington College for the Middle Atlantic Conference soccer championship.

Displaying superb pass work, the Elizabethtown attack completely outmaneuvered the Chestertown, Md., squad to extend the former's undefeated streak to 15 games.

Allegany Has 12-16-3 Thanksgiving Record

Fort Hill Leads Holiday Series, 12-9-2; Tide Turned In 1946; Lattimer Makes Bow

Allegany High School will participate in its thirty-second Thanksgiving Day football game against a local opponent when it faces Fort Hill High School eleven next Thursday at 1:30 p.m., in the Greenway Avenue bowl.

In the 31 games in which the Campers have participated since 1928 they have finished on the short end 16 times while winning 12 and playing three tie contests.

Allegany has played Fort Hill 23 times on the holiday and has won nine while losing 12. The 1948 and 1953 contests were ties. Allegany's last victory was in 1945. The Campers enjoyed a five-game winning streak at Fort Hill's expense from 1941 through 1945 but the Sentinels by winning last year's game increased their victory string to five games. Since 1945, Fort Hill has won 11 games while two ended in ties. From 1936 when the Allegany-Fort Hill series opened through 1945, the Campers held a 9-1 lead in a series. This will be the 24th meeting of Allegany and Fort Hill on Thanksgiving.

Bill Hahn, who left Fort Hill this year to take over the coaching reins at Wheaton High School, saw his Fort Hill teams beat Allegany 11 times while losing once and playing two ties. Charley Lattimer will be leading Fort Hill for the first time into a Turkey Day game next week. This is Ed Schwarz's second year at Allegany.

Herman Ball's Allegany teams won six out of seven holiday games with Fort Hill while Camper elevens coached by Walter L. Bowers turned in a 5-3-1 record against LaSalle, Penn Avenue and Fort Hill. Bowers' record against Fort Hill on Thanksgiving is 3-0.

Explorers Are 8-4-1 Against Beall But Lost Last Three; Harden In Debut

LaSalle High School will be playing in a Thanksgiving Day football game for the 27th time when it tackles Beall High School in the 14th game of their series next Thursday at 1:30 p.m., in the Mountain City.

The record of Explorer elevens in holiday contests now stands at 14 wins, 10 losses and two tie games.

LaSalle leads in the Beall series, eight wins against four losses and one tie contest, but has dropped the last three games to the Mountaineers, two by the margin of single points and one by a touchdown.

LaSalle came into the football picture in 1928 and has played five different schools on Turkey Day.

Beall elevens coached by Joseph Hoopengardner had a 1-4-1 record against LaSalle while J. Ray Hull's Mountaineers dropped four in a row. In 1956 Coach Jim Manges' Mountain City team edged LaSalle and Jerry Calhoun's teams have beaten the Explorers the last two years.

Don Harden is the LaSalle coach this year and he will be sending his first team against the Frostburg school. The teams of Norman F. Geatz, Jr., his predecessor, had a 4-3-1 mark against Beall.

Reds Obtain Frank House

Trade Tom Acker For A's Catcher

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds opened the new inter-league trading period by acquiring catcher Frank House from the Kansas City Athletics Friday night in exchange for relief pitcher Tom Acker.

Inter-league trades without the necessity of obtaining waivers will be permitted from Nov. 21 to Dec. 15 and although this one between the Reds and As was announced Friday night, the papers announcing the deal will be dated Nov. 21.

House, a 29-year-old left-handed hitter who originally was signed by Detroit for a reported $75,000 bonus, appeared in 98 games for Kansas City this year, batting .236 and driving in 30 runs.

Acker, a 29-year-old right-handed fastballer, has been with the Reds since 1956. He enjoyed his best year in 1957 when he won 10 games and lost five. The six-foot four-inch Paterson, N. J., native appeared in 37 games for Cincinnati this year and compiled a 1-2 record.

Tunney Predicts Good Offer Would Bring Back Marciano

Rocky's Bout With Johansson Natural, Former Champ Says

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gene Tunney predicted Friday night that Rocky Marciano will return to the ring for a great "natural" fight with Ingemar Johansson if he gets a good offer.

Tunney, former heavyweight champion and close friend of Marciano, stressed: "That's purely my personal opinion, of course. But I can see the battle lights in his eyes."

The "big fight" now would be between Johansson and Marciano, Gene declared.

"Patterson's performance against Johansson in June was a disgrace," he said, "and he must rehabilitate himself in other matches before the public will have confidence in him as a challenger for Johansson."

Tunney, who twice defeated Jack Dempsey in title fights, said Patterson "fought like an amateur" while losing his heavyweight crown to Johansson at Yankee Stadium.

"His peek-a-boo style kept Patterson's hands out of position to punch," Gene explained. "And when he was knocked down he lost his head completely. Why, he even turned his back on Ingemar once when he got up."

Toweel Given Split Decision Over Matthews

Willie Survives Two Knockdowns

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Willie Toweel, of Johannesburg, South Africa, a master boxer fighting for survival after two knockdowns in the eighth round, won a split decision over Philadelphia's Len Matthews Friday night in a rousing 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Toweel weighed 139¼, Matthews 136½.

Toweel, former British Empire lightweight champion, turned in a beautiful job of counter punching against an ever-charging opponent who packed more thunder in his punches.

Floored by a left hook early in the eighth round and dropped again from another furious barrage of punches, Toweel barely made the bell in that round. He was wandering wearily under heavy punishment when the gong sounded.

It was a thrilling fight that had the small crowd of about 2,500 on its feet and cheering wildly as it ended with Toweel fighting back brilliantly.

Matthews chased him all night long but usually it was Toweel who got in the first punch. He showed a fine overhand right and a stinging jab.

Referee Harry Ebbets voted for Toweel 5-4-1 and Judge Artie Aidala had it 6-3-1 in favor of Toweel. Judge Ray Kozak scored it even in rounds 5-5 with Matthews on top by points 9-5.

Matthews had been a 9 to 5 favorite to spoil Toweel's U.S. debut.

Bald Eagle Heads Field At Aqueduct

Gallant Fox Victor To Receive $55,505

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cain Hoy Stable's Bald Eagle, winner of the $100,000 Washington, D.C. International at Laurel on Veterans Day, Friday headed a field of 12 entered for Saturday's running of the $75,000-added Gallant Fox Handicap at Aqueduct.

Bald Eagle carries high weight of 126 pounds in the mile and five-eighths race and looms as a stout favorite to pick up a winner's purse of $55,505.

Ycaza Will Ride

Manny Ycaza, who rode Bald Eagle to his easy victory against the best horses from nine nations, again handles the son of Nasrullah who also won the Suburban and Saratoga handicaps this season.

Another son of Nasrullah, The Irishman, appears to be the strongest challenger in the 21st running of the Gallant Fox. In his last start, The Irishman set a track record while winning the Idlewild Handicap for the Wheatley Stable.

Won Sysonby 'Cap

Bobby Ussery rides The Irishman who earlier in the year won the Sysonby Handicap. The brown colt carries second high weight of 119 pounds.

Connors Gives Up As Stars Director

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television actor Chuck Connors announced that he is severing his connection as a director of the Los Angeles Stars of the proposed new Continental Baseball League.

Connors, star of "The Rifleman" on TV and a former major and minor league ball player, expressed doubt that the new league "will ever get off the ground" for operation.

He was one of several TV personalities named as directors of the club.

No Wrong Numbers
Fort Hill Is 82.4
Days Of Keyser Prep
Is Smelser Best?

By C. V. BURNS

HERMAN BALL, offensive line coach of the Baltimore Colts, says it's impossible to get a wrong number on his telephone line.

The one-time Ridgeley and Allegany high school coach, who is serving his 16th year as a N.F.L. mentor, and Charlie Winner, defensive backfield coach, handle the phones in the press box when the Colts play.

Facilities for phone operators are not uniform in every stadium and Herman and Charlie wind up in some strange places.

They work in press boxes surrounded by writers, in mezzanine boxes with spectators and, on occasions, with disabled members of the opposing teams in isolated boxes and right out in the open stadium, virtually in the fans' laps.

Herman says last year at Bufalo the location was good but their phones were grounded by a downpour. At the Cotton Bowl in Dallas they took up posts in a 6 by 6 feet glass enclosed booth. It was 92 degrees outside and inside it was hotter.

Prior to a game at Hershey, Pa., they found their booth already occupied by a customer who had spread refreshments on the table and was all set for a picnic. Needless to say, he was reluctant to leave.

They worked among the spectators at Los Angeles Coliseum, too. A few years ago they not only were drenched but were targets for a peanut barrage by anti-Colt fans.

"But we never get a wrong number," Herman says.

FORT HILL High School will windup its 24th football season Thanksgiving Day.

The Sentinels since 1936 have engaged in 219 games and have won 169, lost 36 and played 14 ties for the amazing winning percentage of 82.4.

Fort Hill has not lost a game in three seasons and faces Allegany with a 25-0-2 mark for that period.

POTOMAC STATE College will honor Dana "Horse" Lough today but we wonder how many can remember back to the days when Potomac State was Keyser Prep.

In 1919 and 1920 Allegany's football team played Keyser Prep and the next five years played Potomac State's Reserves.

Among the standout athletes in the early days at Potomac State were Andy Henderson and Leo Skidmore, the baseball pitchers; Paul Heydrick, the "one-man track team" and Johnny Janewitz, an all-around star.

Bushrod "Jack" Grimes was the athletic director in those days and George Parrish and Blake G. "Spooks" Lytle were the coaches.

HERE ARE the season records of some nearby Pennsylvania high school football teams:

Johnstown High Trojans (10-0) (they have a string of 21 wins now); Richland Township 9-0, Somerset 7-2-1, Bedford 7-2, Everett Southern 6-3, Berlin-Brothersvalley 4-3-1, Windber 5-2-1, Shade Central 4-5, Ferndale 4-5, Johnstown Catholic 3-6-1, Meyersdale 2-7, Chestnut Ridge 1-7-1 and Westmont 1-7-1.

BERKELEY SPRINGS and Elk Garden finished ninth and tenth, respectively, in the second annual West Virginia University cross country invitational meet Saturday at the Morgantown Country Club.

Pittsburgh Catholic Central defended its championship with a low of 31 points.

Uniontown, Morgantown, Huntington East, Charleston, Aliquippa, Hopewell, Dunbar, Berkeley and Elk Garden were in that order back of the leader.

Joe Thomas, Uniontown, led the 2.2 mile race in 9.54.

FRANK NORTHCUTT is being heralded as the winningest apprentice rider since the late Jack Westrope rode 300 winners as a rookie in 1933.

Northcutt, who hails from Kentucky, is now at Pimlico and had ridden 238 winners through yesterday.

Willie Shoemaker is the current leader with more than 300 winners.

Northcutt rode his first winner at Charles Town last December. In the spring he led the riders at Ascot Park, Ohio, and the past summer he had 76 winners in 54 days at Charles Town.

COACH HERB RUBY, of Westminster High School's Owls, says that "pound for pound there is not a better football player in the state than Mike Smelser," his backfield ace.

There is only one thing that might prevent Smelser from becoming a standout player for any college team and that's his lack of size. Mike scales about 155.

PENNSYLVANIA'S bear season opens Monday and lasts six days.

Bear hunting results have been recorded for 43 years and the grand total adds up to 18,431 legal bears harvested.

Last year's kill of 439 was high. The largest bear of record killed in the Keystone State weighed 633 pounds before it was hog dressed.

"CHILLY" DOYLE, 75, who died the other day at Warren, Pa., was the third widely known sports writer to pass away this year.

Jesse Linthicum, 67, sports editor of the Baltimore Sun for 30 years, died May 12 and Rodger Pippen, 71, retired sports editor of the Baltimore News-Post, was called by death in June after 50 years of newspaper work.

Doyle, who wrote the "Chilly Sauce" column in the Sun-Tele covered the Pirates for 42 years, 1915 through 1957.

TEN THOUSAND fans are expected to gather at South High Stadium, Pittsburgh, tonight, to witness the football game between Boys Town (Neb.) Cowboys and North Catholic High.

The noted traveling Cowboys from Nebraska are 8-1-1 for the season. Their only loss was at Sioux City, Iowa, 14-12.

Mullens, Mt. Hope Expected To Play For State Crown

CHARLESTON, W. Va., (UPI)—Keyser High School's defeat at the hands of Charles Town High School today made it appear that Mt. Hope High School and Mullens High School will play for the West Virginia Class AA football championship.

Mullens defeated Mt. Hope during the regular season, 14-0.

Charles Town, which finished with an unbeaten record in 10 games, apparently does not have enough rating points to get into the playoff clash. Keyser had a chance until defeated today.

The Board of Appeals of the state secondary schools will meet in Charleston Saturday to make final arrangements for the playoff game.

Celtics Defeat Syracuse, 114-101

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Celtics halted Syracuse's five-game winning streak Friday night, outscoring the Nationals, 114-101, in a National Basketball Association battle at the Garden.

Bill Sharman led Boston scoring with 25 points while his backcourt teammate, Bob Cousy, tallied 19.

Miami Tops Spartans In 18-13 Battle

Hurricanes Move Within One Win Of Bowl Invitation

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Little Fran Curci led a fired-up Miami football team Friday night to an 18-13 victory over Michigan State that put the Hurricanes within one victory of an Orange Bowl invitation.

Miami now can take the Orange Bowl berth with a win next week in its closing game with Florida. Michigan State's rose Bowl hopes were dimmed by the loss. The Spartans can win the Big Ten title only if Northwestern and Wisconsin lose or tie in games Saturday. The three teams are tied for the Big Ten lead.

A crowd of 40,870 braved showers to see the fabulous 152-pound Curci guide the Hurricanes to their smashing upset.

On Curci's passes and smashing runs by Jim Vollenweider, Frank Bouffard and Bob Rosbaugh, Miami surged to an 18-6 lead in the third period, then held off a furious comeback by the Spartans in the final quarter.

An eight-yard touchdown run by Bouffard and a field goal by Al Dangel built a 10-0 lead for Miami before Dean Look's nine-yard touchdown pass to Herb Adderley cut the margin to 10-6 at halftime.

Curci put on a great one-man exhibition at the opening of the second half as Miami roared 80 yards to score in 13 plays and go ahead 18-6. Curci completed four straight passes for 48 yards, got the touchdown on a two-yard run, then passed to Vollenweider for two points.

State's Gary Ballman returned an intercepted pass 51 yards, then raced 10 yards to a last-quarter touchdown.

McBride Rejects Los Angeles Job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Frank Leahy said Friday Bob McBride has changed his mind about taking over the head coaching job with the Los Angeles Chargers in the new American Professional Football League.

A spokesman for Leahy, general manager of the Chargers, said Leahy has released McBride from his agreement. He said the action was taken with deep regret on both sides.

Thursday Leahy announced appointment of McBride, his one-time assistant at Notre Dame.

Furman Whips Davidson, 35-7

GREENVILLE, S. C. (UPI) — Sophomore Quarterback Billy Cantey threw two touchdown passes and directed another scoring drive as Furman overwhelmed Davidson here Friday 35-7 before a disappointing crowd of 2,000.

Furman's aerial attack exploded during the second half and Davidson's vaunted passing attack fizzled as Furman defenders intercepted four and allowed the Wildcats only 76 yards through the air.

By TED TROXELL

Keyser High School's hopes for obtaining a berth in the West Virginia Class AA championship playoffs were wiped out yesterday afternoon by Larry Burns, whose superlative quarterbacking led the Purple Panthers of Charles Town High School to a 19-13 victory over the Golden Tornado before a near-record crowd at Keyser's Stayman Field.

The long-awaited fray brought together two undefeated powerhouses whose successes this season have been attributed largely to their brilliant quarterbacks — Burns of Charles Town and Keyser's Gary Keedy. Keyser, prior to yesterday's loss, had swept past 14 consecutive opponents, including nine this season.

Keedy wasted little time in displaying his prowess to the throng by hauling in Tom Doyle's opening kickoff on his own 15-yard line and racing 85 yards for a touchdown that put the Keyser faithful in a frenzy and stunned the large delegation of Panther followers.

Sidley Recovers Fumble

Then after Francis Sidley recovered a fumble by Charles Jackson to end a Charles Town threat on the Keyser 30, it appeared as if the Tornado might turn the expectedly even contest into a rout.

Such was not the case however. Once Burns warmed to his task, the imaginative Charles Town eleven couldn't be contained. After downing Bob Shaw's punt on their own 16 yard line early in the second period, the Panthers, behind Burns, drove all the way for a tie-producing TD.

When, with fourth down and eight yards to go on the Keyser 13, it appeared that the rally would sputter short of the goal line, the Panthers pulled off a double reverse that caught the Tornado defenses napping and moved the visitors right back in the ball game.

Burns started the perfectly-executed maneuver by giving off to his right halfback, Bill Glaize. Glaize in turn handed to left halfback Bob Robinson, who carried over for the score. Tom Doyle booted the extra point to knot the score at 7-7, which is the way things stood at halftime. Doyle attempted a field goal from the 13-yard line shortly before intermission, but Jim Leatherman and Floyd "Corky" Wilt surged through to block the try.

Panthers Fired Up

The Panthers opened the second half with Robinson returning Sidley's kickoff to their own 36, and it was obvious that they were a fired-up crew of athletes. It took the boys from Jefferson County just seven plays to move the ball 64 yards into scoring territory.

Jackson paced the march by carrying for 44 yards in four tries, including a seven-yard slant off right tackle for the six-pointer. A jump pass by Burns just over the line to end Bob Spinks gained 14 yards and set the stage for Jackson's scoring thrust.

The final Charles Town TD was scored in similar fashion. Starting on their own 21 after taking over on downs, the Panthers marched to a touchdown in nine plays, foremost of which was a run by Burns, who rolled out to his left, then cut back and raced 31 yards before being tackled by Keedy at the Keyser 45. Robinson capped the drive by taking a handoff from Burns and driving over from the 11 for his second touchdown of the afternoon.

Keyser scored late in the fourth period, but unfortunately for the Tornado, it was too late. After moving all the way to the Charles Town 20, Keyser lost the ball when Tom Kisner intercepted a pass by Keedy at the 18. On the ensuing play, however, Jim Mann pounced on a fumble by Jackson to regain possession for the Tornado at the Panther 20.

Keedy Sneaks Over

A 19-yard aerial from Keedy to Chidester and a one-yard quarterback sneak by Keedy gave Keyser a touchdown with about a minute left in the game. Sidley attempted an onside kick, but Harold Gray, Charles Town guard, fell on it at the Panther 47, and Burns proceeded to run out the clock.

Burns, who hails from Cumberland, was injured slightly on a play late in the third quarter. At the time, it looked as if he may have been seriously hurt, and Charles Town's outlook took a momentary turn for the worse. But the rugged signal-caller returned to the lineup several moments later, and led his mates to their final touchdown.

The statistics of yesterday's game were even more decisive than the score. Charles Town racked up 18 first downs and picked up a net yardage total of 373 yards. Keyser registered 13 first downs and gained an aggregate of 178 yards, 80 of them on passes.

Panthers 10-0 For Season

Charles Town's victory was the first over Keyser after seven straight reverses. The triumph gave the Jefferson County Purple Panthers, coached by Richard Harmison, a 10-0 record for the season.

Allegany Has 12-16-3 Thanksgiving Record

Fort Hill Leads Holiday Series, 12-9-2; Tide Turned In 1946; Lattimer Makes Bow

Allegany High School will participate in its thirty-second Thanksgiving Day football game against a local opponent when it faces Fort Hill High School eleven next Thursday at 1:30 p.m., in the Greenway Avenue bowl.

In the 31 games in which the Campers have participated since 1928 they have finished on the short end 16 times while winning 12 and playing three tie contests.

Allegany has played Fort Hill 23 times on the holiday and has won nine while losing 12. The 1948 and 1953 contests were ties. Allegany's last victory was in 1945. The Campers enjoyed a five-game winning streak at Fort Hill's expense from 1941 through 1945 but the Sentinels by winning last year's game increased their victory string to five games. Since 1945, Fort Hill has won 11 games while two ended in ties. From 1936 when the Allegany-Fort Hill series opened through 1945, the Campers held a 9-1 lead in a series. This will be the 24th meeting of Allegany and Fort Hill on Thanksgiving.

Bill Hahn, who left Fort Hill this year to take over the coaching reins at Wheaton High School, saw his Fort Hill teams beat Allegany 11 times while losing once and playing two ties. Charley Lattimer will be leading Fort Hill for the first time into a Turkey Day game next week. This is Ed Schwarz's second year at Allegany.

Herman Ball's Allegany teams won six out of seven holiday games with Fort Hill while Camper elevens coached by Walter L. Bowers turned in a 5-3-1 record against LaSalle, Penn Avenue and Fort Hill. Bowers' record against Fort Hill on Thanksgiving is 3-0.

Explorers Are 8-4-1 Against Beall But Lost Last Three; Harden In Debut

LaSalle High School will be playing in a Thanksgiving Day football game for the 27th time when it tackles Beall High School in the 14th game of their series next Thursday at 1:30 p.m., in the Mountain City.

The record of Explorer elevens in holiday contests now stands at 14 wins, 10 losses and two tie games.

LaSalle leads in the Beall series, eight wins against four losses and one tie contest, but has dropped the last three games to the Mountaineers, two by the margin of single points and one by a touchdown.

LaSalle came into the football picture in 1928 and has played five different schools on Turkey Day.

Beall elevens coached by Joseph Hoopengardner had a 1-4-1 record against LaSalle while J. Ray Hull's Mountaineers dropped four in a row. In 1956 Coach Jim Manges' Mountain City team edged LaSalle and Jerry Calhoun's teams have beaten the Explorers the last two years.

Don Harden is the LaSalle coach this year and he will be sending his first team against the Frostburg school. The teams of Norman F. Geatz, Jr., his predecessor, had a 4-3-1 mark against Beall.

Reds Obtain Frank House

Trade Tom Acker For A's Catcher

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds opened the new inter-league trading period by acquiring catcher Frank House from the Kansas City Athletics Friday night in exchange for relief pitcher Tom Acker.

Inter-league trades without the necessity of obtaining waivers will be permitted from Nov. 21 to Dec. 15 and although this one between the Reds and As was announced Friday night, the papers announcing the deal will be dated Nov. 21.

House, a 29-year-old left-handed hitter who originally was signed by Detroit for a reported $75,000 bonus, appeared in 98 games for Kansas City this year, batting .236 and driving in 30 runs.

Acker, a 29-year-old right-handed fastballer, has been with the Reds since 1956. He enjoyed his best year in 1957 when he won 10 games and lost five. The six-foot four-inch Paterson, N. J., native appeared in 37 games for Cincinnati this year and compiled a 1-2 record.

Tunney Predicts Good Offer Would Bring Back Marciano

Rocky's Bout With Johansson Natural, Former Champ Says

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gene Tunney predicted Friday night that Rocky Marciano will return to the ring for a great "natural" fight with Ingemar Johansson if he gets a good offer.

Tunney, former heavyweight champion and close friend of Marciano, stressed: "That's purely my personal opinion, of course. But I can see the battle lights in his eyes."

The "big fight" now would be between Johansson and Marciano, Gene declared.

"Patterson's performance against Johansson in June was a disgrace," he said, "and he must rehabilitate himself in other matches before the public will have confidence in him as a challenger for Johansson."

Tunney, who twice defeated Jack Dempsey in title fights, said Patterson "fought like an amateur" while losing his heavyweight crown to Johansson at Yankee Stadium.

"His peek-a-boo style kept Patterson's hands out of position to punch," Gene explained. "And when he was knocked down he lost his head completely. Why, he even turned his back on Ingemar once when he got up."

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Giants will go on a post-season tour of Japan after the 1960 schedule, vice president Chub Feeney announced Friday.

Toweel Given Split Decision Over Matthews

Willie Survives Two Knockdowns

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Willie Toweel, of Johannesburg, South Africa, a master boxer fighting for survival after two knockdowns in the eighth round, won a split decision over Philadelphia's Len Matthews Friday night in a rousing 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Toweel weighed 139¼, Matthews 136½.

Toweel, former British Empire lightweight champion, turned in a beautiful job of counter punching against an ever-charging opponent who packed more thunder in his punches.

Floored by a left hook early in the eighth round and dropped again from another furious barrage of punches, Toweel barely made the bell in that round. He was wandering wearily under heavy punishment when the gong sounded.

It was a thrilling fight that had the small crowd of about 2,500 on its feet and cheering wildly as it ended with Toweel fighting back brilliantly.

Matthews chased him all night long but usually it was Toweel who got in the first punch. He showed a fine overhand right and a stinging jab.

Referee Harry Ebbets voted for Toweel 5-4-1 and Judge Artie Aidala had it 6-3-1 in favor of Toweel. Judge Ray Kozak scored it even in rounds 5-5 with Matthews on top by points 9-5.

Matthews had been a 9 to 5 favorite to spoil Toweel's U.S. debut.

Bald Eagle Heads Field At Aqueduct

Gallant Fox Victor To Receive $55,505

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cain Hoy Stable's Bald Eagle, winner of the $100,000 Washington, D.C. International at Laurel on Veterans Day, Friday headed a field of 12 entered for Saturday's running of the $75,000-added Gallant Fox Handicap at Aqueduct.

Bald Eagle carries high weight of 126 pounds in the mile and five-eighths race and looms as a stout favorite to pick up a winner's purse of $55,505.

Ycaza Will Ride

Manny Ycaza, who rode Bald Eagle to his easy victory against the best horses from nine nations, again handles the son of Nasrullah who also won the Suburban and Saratoga handicaps this season.

Another son of Nasrullah, The Irishman, appears to be the strongest challenger in the 21st running of the Gallant Fox. In his last start, The Irishman set a track record while winning the Idlewild Handicap for the Wheatley Stable.

Won Sysonby 'Cap

Bobby Ussery rides The Irishman who earlier in the year won the Sysonby Handicap. The brown colt carries second high weight of 119 pounds.

Connors Gives Up As Stars Director

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television actor Chuck Connors announced that he is severing his connection as a director of the Los Angeles Stars of the proposed new Continental Baseball League.

Connors, star of "The Rifleman" on TV and a former major and minor league ball player, expressed doubt that the new league "will ever get off the ground" for operation.

He was one of several TV personalities named as directors of the club.

No Wrong Numbers — Fort Hill Is 82.4 — Days Of Keyser Prep — Is Smelser Best?

By C. V. BURNS

HERMAN BALL, offensive line coach of the Baltimore Colts, says it's impossible to get a wrong number on his telephone line.

The one-time Ridgeley and Allegany high school coach, who is serving his 16th year as a N.F.L. mentor, and Charlie Winner, defensive backfield coach, handle the phones in the press box when the Colts play.

Facilities for phone operators are not uniform in every stadium and Herman and Charlie wind up in some strange places.

They work in press boxes surrounded by writers, in mezzanine boxes with spectators and, on occasions, with disabled members of the opposing teams in isolated boxes and right out in the open stadium, virtually in the fans' laps.

Herman says last year at Buffalo the location was good but their phones were grounded by a downpour. At the Cotton Bowl in Dallas they took up posts in a 6 by 6 feet glass enclosed booth. It was 92 degrees outside and inside it was hotter.

Prior to a game at Hershey, Pa., they found their booth already occupied by a customer who had spread refreshments on the table and was all set for a picnic. Needless to say, he was reluctant to leave.

They worked among the spectators at Los Angeles Coliseum, too. A few years ago they not only were drenched but were targets for a peanut barrage by anti-Colt fans.

"But we never get a wrong number," Herman says.

FORT HILL High School will windup its 24th football season Thanksgiving Day.

The Sentinels since 1936 have engaged in 219 games and have won 169, lost 36 and played 14 ties for the amazing winning percentage of 82.4.

Fort Hill has not lost a game in three seasons and faces Allegany with a 25-0-2 mark for that period.

POTOMAC STATE College will honor Dana "Horse" Lough today but we wonder how many can remember back to the days when Potomac State was Keyser Prep.

In 1919 and 1920 Allegany's football team played Keyser Prep and the next five years played Potomac State's Reserves.

Among the standout athletes in the early days at Potomac State were Andy Henderson and Leo Skidmore, the baseball pitchers; Paul Heydrick, the "one-man track team" and Johnny Janewitz, an all-around star.

Bushrod "Jack" Grimes was the athletic director in those days and George Parrish and Blake G. "Spooks" Lytle were the coaches.

HERE ARE the season records of some nearby Pennsylvania high school football teams:

Johnstown High Trojans (10-0) (they have a string of 21 wins now); Richland Township 9-0, Somerset 7-2-1, Bedford 7-2, Everett Southern 6-3, Berlin-Brothersvalley 4-3-1, Windber 5-2-1, Shade Central 4-5, Ferndale 4-5, Johnstown Catholic 3-6-1, Meyersdale 2-7, Chestnut Ridge 1-7-1 and Westmont 1-7-1.

BERKELEY SPRINGS and Elk Garden finished ninth and tenth, respectively, in the second annual West Virginia University cross country invitational meet Saturday at the Morgantown Country Club.

Pittsburgh Catholic Central defended its championship with a low of 31 points.

Uniontown, Morgantown, Huntington East, Charleston, Aliquippa, Hopewell, Dunbar, Berkeley and Elk Garden were in that order back of the leader.

Joe Thomas, Uniontown, led the 2.2 mile race in 9.54.

FRANK NORTHCUTT is being heralded as the winningest apprentice rider since the late Jack Westrope rode 300 winners as a rookie in 1933.

Northcutt, who hails from Kentucky, is now at Pimlico and had ridden 238 winners through yesterday.

Willie Shoemaker is the current leader with more than 300 winners.

Northcutt rode his first winner at Charles Town last December. In the spring he led the riders at Ascot Park, Ohio, and the past summer he had 76 winners in 54 days at Charles Town.

COACH HERB RUBY, of Westminster High School's Owls, says that "pound for pound there is not a better football player in the state than Mike Smelser," his backfield ace.

There is only one thing that might prevent Smelser from becoming a standout player for any college team and that's his lack of size. Mike scales about 155.

PENNSYLVANIA'S bear season opens Monday and lasts six days.

Bear hunting results have been recorded for 43 years and the grand total adds up to 18,431 legal bears harvested.

Last year's kill of 439 was high. The largest bear of record killed in the Keystone State weighed 633 pounds before it was hog dressed.

"CHILLY" DOYLE, 75, who died the other day at Warren, Pa., was the third widely known sports writer to pass away this year.

Jesse Linthicum, 67, sports editor of the Baltimore Sun for 30 years, died May 12 and Rodger Pippen, 71, retired sports editor of the Baltimore News-Post, was called by death in June after 50 years of newspaper work.

Doyle, who wrote the "Chilly Sauce" column in the Sun-Tele covered the Pirates for 42 years, 1915 through 1957.

TEN THOUSAND fans are expected to gather at South High Stadium, Pittsburgh, tonight, to witness the football game between Boys Town (Neb.) Cowboys and North Catholic High.

The noted traveling Cowboys from Nebraska are 8-1-1 for the season. Their only loss was at Sioux City, Iowa, 14-12.

Mullens, Mt. Hope Expected To Play For State Crown

CHARLESTON, W. Va., (UPI)—Keyser High School's defeat at the hands of Charles Town High School today made it appear that Mt. Hope High School and Mullens High School will play for the West Virginia Class AA football championship.

Mullens defeated Mt. Hope during the regular season, 14-0.

Charles Town, which finished with an unbeaten record in 10 games, apparently does not have enough rating points to get into the playoff clash. Keyser had a chance until defeated today.

The Board of Appeals of the state secondary schools will meet in Charleston Saturday to make final arrangements for the playoff game.

Celtics Defeat Syracuse, 114-101

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Celtics halted Syracuse's five-game winning streak Friday night, outscoring the Nationals, 114-101, in a National Basketball Association battle at the Garden.

Bill Sharman led Boston scoring with 25 points while his backcourt teammate, Bob Cousy, tallied 19.

DeMolay To Practice

The DeMolay basketball team of the Rec High School League will hold practice today at 1 p.m., at St. Luke's Church, Columbia Street.

All players interested are requested to report.

Hurricanes Move Within One Win Of Bowl Invitation

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Little Fran Curci led a fired-up Miami football team Friday night to an 18-13 victory over Michigan State that put the Hurricanes within one victory of an Orange Bowl invitation.

Miami now can take the Orange Bowl berth with a win next week in its closing game with Florida. Michigan State's rose Bowl hopes were dimmed by the loss. The Spartans can win the Big Ten title only if Northwestern and Wisconsin lose or tie in games Saturday. The three teams are tied for the Big Ten lead.

A crowd of 40,870 braved showers to see the fabulous 152-pound Curci guide the Hurricanes to their smashing upset.

On Curci's passes and smashing runs by Jim Vollenweider, Frank Bouffard and Bob Rosbaugh, Miami surged to an 18-6 lead in the third period, then held off a furious comeback by the Spartans in the final quarter.

An eight-yard touchdown run by Bouffard and a field goal by Al Dangel built a 10-0 lead for Miami before Dean Look's nine-yard touchdown pass to Herb Adderley cut the margin to 10-6 at halftime.

Curci put on a great one-man exhibition at the opening of the second half as Miami roared 80 yards to score in 13 plays and go ahead 18-6. Curci completed four straight passes for 48 yards, got the touchdown on a two-yard run, then passed to Vollenweider for two points.

State's Gary Ballman returned an intercepted pass 51 yards, then raced 10 yards to a last-quarter touchdown.

McBride Rejects Los Angeles Job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Frank Leahy said Friday Bob McBride has changed his mind about taking over the head coaching job with the Los Angeles Chargers in the new American Professional Football League.

A spokesman for Leahy, general manager of the Chargers, said Leahy has released McBride from his agreement. He said the action was taken with deep regret on both sides.

Thursday Leahy announced appointment of McBride, his one-time assistant at Notre Dame.

Furman Whips Davidson, 35-7

GREENVILLE, S. C. (UPI) — Sophomore Quarterback Billy Cantey threw two touchdown passes and directed another scoring drive as Furman overwhelmed Davidson here Friday 35-7 before a disappointing crowd of 2,000.

Furman's aerial attack exploded during the second half and Davidson's vaunted passing attack fizzled as Furman defenders intercepted four and allowed the Wildcats only 76 yards through the air.

57,500 Fans Will Attend Sunday Game

Cleveland Favored By 9, Giants Made 5½ Point Choice

By United Press International

The Baltimore Colts, Cleveland Browns, New York Giants and Philadelphia Eagles are favored in Sunday's top National Football League games.

Baltimore's defending league champions (5-3) trail the first-place San Francisco Forty-Niners (6-2) by one game. The Colts are seven-point favorites to whip the visiting Forty-Niners and pull even in the Western Division race. A sellout crowd of 57,557 will watch the game.

Cleveland and New York (each 6-2) are tied for the Eastern lead and Philadelphia (5-3) is a game behind them. Cleveland is a nine-point choice to defeat the visiting Pittsburgh Steelers (3-4-1) while New York is a 5 1-2 point favorite to down the Chicago Cardinals (2-6) at Minneapolis. The Eagles are favored over the visiting Los Angeles Rams (2-6) by 3 1-2 points.

The Chicago Bears (4-4) are favored over the Lions (2-5-1) by five points at Detroit. The Bears will only be a game out of first place in the West if they win and Baltimore defeats San Francisco.

In Sunday's other game, the Packers (3-5) are favored over the Washington Redskins (3-5) at Green Bay.

Boston Will Open At Capital Apr. 18

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Senators announced Friday they will entertain the Boston Red Sox in the traditional American League opener next April 18.

The six other clubs will start their 1960 campaigns the following day.

The President of the United States usually attends the traditional American League opener at Griffith Stadium. Next year's contest will mark the 15th time the Red Sox have helped the Senators to open a season.

The American League set back its openers to the usual starting dates in 160 after experimenting with earlier ones this year. The Senators opened their 1959 campaign April 9 with a 9-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Fitzsimmons Will Coach A's Hurlers

Freddie Is Named To Succeed Sain

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The Kansas City Athletics dipped into the National League Friday to hire Fred Fitzsimmons, former manager of the Philadelphia Phillies, as pitching coach.

The veteran righthander agreed to a one-year contract at an undisclosed sum to succeed Johnny Sain who quit late last season. Sain complained he couldn't get cooperation from A's management.

The 58-year - old Fitzsimmons was the personal choice of Kansas City's new manager, Bob Elliott, who was named Wednesday to head the seventh-place team.

A native of Indiana, Fitzsimmons hurled from 1925 through 1943 for the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers. He posted a mark of 217 National League victories.

He was a Giant pitching coach from 1949 through 1955 and managed the Phillies from 1943 through 1945.

Fitzsimmons has been a pitching coach for the Chicago Cubs the past three seasons.

Rich Pimlico Futurity Draws Field Of Eleven

Calumet Stable Pair Is Favored In $117,820 Race

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — Calumet Farm, which hasn't won a $100,000 race since Bardstown won the Widener Handicap nine months ago, sends a pair of promising young colts after the $117,820 Pimlico Futurity Saturday.

Calumet's Pied D'Or and Keenation are favored to win the mile and one-sixteenth race which Friday drew a field of 11 for its 37th running. Steve Brooks was named as jockey for both.

Won Last In 1940

Fitzsimmons seeks his first win since Bold Irishman scored in 1940 with Progressing, a promising youngster which thus far has failed to live up to expectations. Wheatley Stable owned Bold Irishman and also has Progressing. Hedley Woodhouse rides.

Shoemaker rides All Hands for the Cain Hoy Stable whose regular rider, Manny Ycaza, rides Bald Eagle for Harry F. Guggenheim's outfit in the Gallant Fox Handicap at Aqeuduct.

Shoemaker Returns

Shoemaker back in action after a 10-day suspension, won the Pimlico Futurity two years ago with Jewel's Reward and last season with Intentionally.

Rounding out the field were One Sub (Joe Culmone); Count Amber (Pete Anderson), Catapult (Howard Grant); Moslem Chief (Eugene Monacelli), Billy Bluejay (Nick Shuk) and Cannibal (Arnold Kirkland).

All carry 122 pounds and shoot for a net winners purse of $71,960.50. It is the third richest running of the race.

Casper, Gustin Move To Front On Mobile Open

Tie At Halfway Mark With 139s

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — National Open champion Bill Casper Jr. and newcomer Jon Gustin shot 4-under-par 68s Friday and moved out in front at the halfway mark of the Mobile Open Golf Tournament.

Both had opened with 71s Thursday, giving them a 139 deadlock after 36 holes.

Gay Brewer Jr., of Crystal River, Fla., shot the best round of the day—a 34-33—67 over the 6,383-yard Mobile Municipal Golf Course. Par is 36-36—72.

The round moved Brewer, who had started with a 73, into a tie at 140 with six other players, including Arnold Palmer and Walter Burkemo.

In addition to the 68s by Casper, of Apple Valley, Calif., and Gustin, a Birmingham, Ala., youth playing out of Gladwyne, Pa., other 4-under-par rounds were turned in by Palmer, Ligonier, Pa.; Pat Schwab, Pensacola, Fla.; and Gene Lesch, Prairie View, Ill.

Palmer and Schwab climbed into the 140 bracket with five others. Lesch and four others were a stroke back.

13 Top Bowl Invitations On Line In Today's Games

Important Contests On Tap In Big Ten And Pacific Coast

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

There are six major conference titles and 13 top bowl invitations on the line Saturday as the 1959 college football season begins its slowing process — schedule-wise only.

The intensity of the conference and bowl races is reflected in the triple tie for first place in the Big Ten between Wisconsin, Northwestern and Michigan State, one of whom will wind up in the Rose Bowl. All have 4-2 conference marks. The host team in the granddaddy of the bowls could be decided if Washington beats Washington State.

But these are only 4 of 17 teams involved in conference titles, with 11 considered as possible contestants in the Sugar, Cotton, Orange, Gator, Liberty and Blue Bonnet bowls.

Accept Bowl Bid

Top-ranked Syracuse, No. 1 for the second straight week in the Associated Press poll, and Arkansas are the only ones assured of a bowl. The Orange accepted the visitor's spot in the Cotton Bowl last week.

Arkansas has accepted a spot in the Gator Bowl, but can withdraw if it wins the Southwest Conference title outright and gets the host invitation to the Cotton Bowl

Syracuse (8-0) plays tricky Boston University (4-4) Saturday, then has a week off until it ends the regular season at UCLA Dec. 5.

Wisconsin (No. 9) supposedly has an easier task that Northwestern (No. 8). The Badgers face lowly Minnesota (2-6) while the Wildcats must battle a tough Illinois (4-3-1) team that upset Wisconsin last week. Michigan State ended its Big Ten season last Saturday. A loss by both Wisconsin and Northwestern would give Michigan State the title and Rose Bowl trip.

Will Televise Game

The Wisconsin-Minnesota game will be televised nationally (NBC) at 2:30 p.m. EST.

Washington's Huskies, second to unbeaten Southern California in the Far West Five, are being dogged by independent Oregon. Both have 8-1 over - all records. Southern Cal is under suspension by the NCAA and can't go to the Rose Bowl. It's 8-0 record is matched only by Syracuse, and victory No. 9, by the fourth-ranked Trojans may come Saturday against cross - town rival UCLA.

A Washington loss to Washington State and a win by Oregon over Oregon State would throw the Rose Bowl spot to a vote of the old Pacific Coast Conference members, five of whom comprise the Far West Five.

Southwest Conference leader Arkanses (5-1) meets nonconference Texas Tech. Third - place Texas Christian (No. 10) faces Rice and a victory ties it with runner-up Texas (4-1).

The Longhorns (No. 5) could get the Cotton Bowl's host spot if they beat Texas A&M on Thanksgiving. They would be SWC co-champion with Arkansas, but have been away longer from the bowl.

All three teams are considered prime bowl possibilities elsewhere if they continue to win.

Georgia (No. 6) won the Southeastern Conference title last week and does not play until a week from Saturday when it meets Georgia Tech. But other SEC members are battling for bowl spots.

LSU Battles Tulane

Third - ranked Louisiana State (8-1) faces Tulane and may wind up in the Sugar or Blue Bonnet Bowl. Second-ranked Mississippi is idle but is also a candidate for the same bowls, while unranked Tennessee and Alabama, meeting Kentucky and Memphis State, respectively, hope to improve their bowl status.

Seventh - ranked Penn State (8-1), about to officially accept a Liberty Bowl bid, winds up its season against Pittsburgh (5-4).

Elsewhere, in the conferences, the Big Eight's fight for second place is tied right to the Orange Bowl's host spot. Oklahoma, the leader, can't return to defend its crown, but could crush Iowa State's hopes with a victory over the Cyclones. Kansas and Missouri, also tied with Iowa State for second, play each other.

Clemson Seeks Title

Clemson can nail down its second-straight Atlantic Coast Conference crown, and open itself to bowl bids, with a victory over Wake Forest.

Other top games:

EAST: Delaware at Bucknell; Rutgers at Columbia; Lafayette at Lehigh, Dartmouth at Princeton, Harvard at Yale.

SOUTH: The Citadel at West Virginia; Florida State at Florida; Mississippi Southern at Auburn; Virginia at Maryland; North Carolina State at South Caroline.

MIDWEST: Notre Dame at Iowa; Purdue at Indiana; Holy Cross at Marquette; Ohio State at Michigan; Villanova at Detroit-Nebraska at Kansas State.

SOUTHWEST: Hardin-Simmons at Arizona State; SMU at Baylor; West Texas at New Mexico State; Texas Western at Arizona; New Mexico at Air Force.

FAR WEST: California at Stanford; Montana at Idaho; Colorado State at Brigham Young; Utah State at Utah.

EXPLAIN IT IF YOU CAN, but two college teams, with very tarnished records, meet in a BIG game Saturday, November 21, and the crowd is expected to hit 100,000.

That would be the annual meeting of Ohio State and Michigan in Michigan's fine Bowl at Ann Arbor and behind the scenes is the rivalry which now reaches 56 games.

And, for the first time in many years, the game will not have a bearing on the Big Ten title. In 41 games played between the two since Ohio State entered the Big Ten, the Big Ten crown, or a share of it, has hinged on this game 18 times.

HOW OHIO STATE continues to draw those 80,000 crowds in its own stadium every week amazes one and all and yet the Buckeyes, located in a town which is football crazy, do. There are angles, of course, for Ohio State has a big enrollment and students from Ohio State and the competing school take up quite a section of the seats.

Ohio State, under Woody Hayes, a most controversial figure but a great coach, has had a fine record in recent years and over the many years it has been playing football the fans have jammed the concrete horseshoe despite the attraction.

Statistics on Ohio State crowds are awesome. In 202 games in the Ohio stadium since 1922 the average is 55,451! And, in 317 games at home and away the Bucks have averaged 52,071 per game!

Michigan stadium . . . It seats 101,001

Ohio State's 10 largest crowds away from home include seven at Michigan, which is another example of the draw of these two teams.

OHIO STATE goes into the Michigan game with a poor (for the Bucks) mark of 3-4-1 and Michigan sports another mediocre record of 3-5. And yet the crowd will be there because these meetings always are tough, hard battles with the season records meaning little or nothing.

For the first time in many, many years, a familiar coaching figure at Michigan won't be on the field for this one. Bennie Oosterbaan, Michigan's three-time All-American, gave up the coaching reins after last season and Chalmers (Bump) Elliott replaced him. Bennie will be at the game, however, broadcasting over a Detroit radio station.

In the series overall, Michigan has won 34 games with Ohio State taking 17 and four ending in ties.

Aussies Retain Lead In Canada CupTournament

Canadians Second, U.S. Out Of Running

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

MELBOURNE (AP) — The Australian team of Peter Thomson and Kel Nagle started the final round of the Canada Cup International golf competition Saturday with the championship virtually in its pocket, and with Thomson leading in the individual competition.

"They have got it,' said Sam Snead, veteran American pro, "unless they collapse completely."

With Thompson shooting his third straight sub-par round, a 2-under-par 68, and Nagle carding a 76 the Australians held the seven-stroke lead they have enjoyed since the first round.

Canadians Second

They have an aggregate of 420 strokes for the first three rounds, with the Canadian team of Stan Leonard and Al Balding in second with 427.

Snead and his partner, Cary Middlecoff, shot themselves out of contention Friday with cards of 73 and 75, respectively. The Yanks started the final round in a deadlock for third place with South Africa's' Gary Player and Harold Henning. Each team had a 433 total.

Thomson Sets Pace

Thomson enjoyed a one - stroke lead for individual honors with a three-round total of 204. Leonard shot a third-round 69 and now is pressing Thomson with a 205 total. Snead is third at 211, with Player at 215 and Nagle at 216.

The Royal Melbournes' 6,853 yards, glassy greens and tree-guarded fairways, combined with scorching heat and high humidity, also wrecked the faint remaining chances of Wales, Japan, Spain and England. The defending champion Irish team had long since been eliminated from the title picture.

Both Snead and Middlecoff left the course in a huff, still bitter at the decision of officials that kept them in Sydney last weekend even though they were not entered in a tournament there. The Americans had wanted to come here and practice.

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sports of all sorts:

General Manager George Weiss of the New York Yankees says American League player traders can forget about trying to hornswoggle their National League counterparts — and vice versa— during the three weeks of inter-league swapping starting Saturday.

"I've talked to all National League clubs," says Weiss, "and they know as much about our personnel as do other clubs in our league. They can put their finger right now on the players who may have outlived their usefulness as Yankees — but could help them."

The city of New York, hopeful of landing the Navy-Air Force game in 1960, will go after Army-Syracuse, too. . ."But not until after Army ends its season with Navy on Nov. 28," said city official Bill Tackmann "They asked us to sit tight until then."

Seems everyone at West Point, top to bottom, is too busy fretting about Navy next Saturday to think about next year.

Start A Fad

Louisiana State started the ball rolling last season by naming its defensive unit the "Chinese Bandits" . . . Syracuse this year has its "Sizeable Seven," The pro Giants have "Landry's Legions," Iowa State's small but hard-nosed squad is called the "Dirty Thirty" — presumably because its uniforms get that way and not because of foul play — and way down in the small college ranks Lebanon Valley has its "Rinky Dinks."

Boom in swimming pools for private homes has made business executives out of Esther Williams, Gertrude Ederle, Eleanor Holm, Johnny Weismuller and Buster Crabbe, all former olympic swimmers. . . They'll be on hand for a sales convention in the big town Dec. 12-15.

Final Game Saturday

Purdue, which played the dedication game in Indiana's Memorial Stadium 34 years ago, is the final Hoosier foe at the old field Saturday. . .Indiana switches to its new stadium next season.

Red Schoendienst, honorary chairman of the Christmas Seals drive, reports several other athletes are working for the tuberculosis fund this year. . ."Phil Rizzuto is chairman in his New Jersey county, Otto Graham is working in Connecticut and Bobby Richardson of the Yankees is operating in South Carolina," says Red. "Bill Veeck," he added, "is on the Chicago committee."

Rip Engle of Penn State fears Pittsburgh Saturday largely because of all the "bowl talk" surrounding his team. . .reminded his lads three of those four Pitt defeats were by top-ranked Syracuse, second-ranked Southern California and Texas Christian, winner over Texas last week.

College tub-thumpers, who have been known to wax lyrical in their press releases whether they win or lose, have a new record for brevity to shoot at. . .this one arrived from Dallas State (Colo.) early this month:

"Alamosa, Colo. — Adams State 8, Colorado College 47. What can you say when you take a beating like that?

"Nothing."

Colts Are 7-Point Favorites Over San Francisco

57,500 Fans Will Attend Sunday Game

Cleveland Favored By 9, Giants Made 5½ Point Choice

By United Press International

The Baltimore Colts, Cleveland Browns, New York Giants and Philadelphia Eagles are favored in Sunday's top National Football League games.

Baltimore's defending league champions (5-3) trail the first-place San Francisco Forty-Niners (6-2) by one game. The Colts are seven-point favorites to whip the visiting Forty-Niners and pull even in the Western Division race. A sellout crowd of 57,557 will watch the game.

Cleveland and New York (each 6-2) are tied for the Eastern lead and Philadelphia (5-3) is a game behind them. Cleveland is a nine-point choice to defeat the visiting Pittsburgh Steelers (3-4-1) while New York is a 5 1-2 point favorite to down the Chicago Cardinals (2-6) at Minneapolis. The Eagles are favored over the visiting Los Angeles Rams (2-6) by 3 1-2 points.

The Chicago Bears (4-4) are favored over the Lions (2-5-1) by five points at Detroit. The Bears will only be a game out of first place in the West if they win and Baltimore defeats San Francisco.

In Sunday's other game, the Packers (3-5) are favored over the Washington Redskins (3-5) at Green Bay.

Boston Will Open At Capital Apr. 18

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Senators announced Friday they will entertain the Boston Red Sox in the traditional American League opener next April 18.

The six other clubs will start their 1960 campaigns the following day.

The President of the United States usually attends the traditional American League opener at Griffith Stadium. Next year's contest will mark the 15th time the Red Sox have helped the Senators to open a season.

The American League set back its openers to the usual starting dates in 160 after experimenting with earlier ones this year. The Senators opened their 1959 campaign April 9 with a 9-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Fitzsimmons Will Coach A's Hurlers

Freddie Is Named To Succeed Sain

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The Kansas City Athletics dipped into the National League Friday to hire Fred Fitzsimmons, former manager of the Philadelphia Phillies, as pitching coach.

The veteran righthander agreed to a one-year contract at an undisclosed sum to succeed Johnny Sain who quit late last season. Sain complained he couldn't get cooperation from A's management.

The 58-year - old Fitzsimmons was the personal choice of Kansas City's new manager, Bob Elliott, who was named Wednesday to head the seventh-place team.

A native of Indiana, Fitzsimmons hurled from 1925 through 1943 for the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers. He posted a mark of 217 National League victories.

He was a Giant pitching coach from 1949 through 1955 and manager of the Phillies from 1943 through 1945.

Fitzsimmons has been a pitching coach for the Chicago Cubs the past three seasons.

Rich Pimlico Futurity Draws Field Of Eleven

Calumet Stable Pair Is Favored In $117,820 Race

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — Calumet Farm, which hasn't won a $100,000 race since Bardstown won the Widener Handicap nine months ago, sends a pair of promising young colts after the $117,820 Pimlico Futurity Saturday.

Calumet's Pied D'Or and Keenation are favored to win the mile and one-sixteenth race which Friday drew a field of 11 for its 37th running. Steve Brooks was named as jockey for both.

Won Last In 1940

Fitzsimmons seeks his first win since Bold Irishman scored in 1940 with Progressing, a promising youngster which thus far has failed to live up to expectations. Wheatley Stable owned Bold Irishman and also has Progressing. Hedley Woodhouse rides.

Shoemaker rides All Hands for the Cain Hoy Stable whose regular rider, Manny Ycaza, rides Bald Eagle for Harry F. Guggenheim's outfit in the Gallant Fox Handicap at Aqeuduct.

Shoemaker Returns

Shoemaker back in action after a 10-day suspension, won the Pimlico Futurity two years ago with Jewel's Reward and last season with Intentionally.

Rounding out the field were One Sub (Joe Culmone); Count Amber (Pete Anderson), Catapult (Howard Grant); Moslem Chief (Eugene Monacelli), Billy Bluejay (Nick Shuk) and Cannibal (Arnold Kirkland).

All carry 122 pounds and shoot for a net winners purse of $71,960.50. It is the third richest running of the race.

Casper, Gustin Move To Front On Mobile Open

Tie At Halfway Mark With 139s

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — National Open champion Bill Casper Jr. and newcomer Jon Gustin shot 4-under-par 68s Friday and moved out in front at the halfway mark of the Mobile Open Golf Tournament.

Both had opened with 71s Thursday, giving them a 139 deadlock after 36 holes.

Gay Brewer Jr., of Crystal River, Fla., shot the best round of the day—a 34-33—67 over the 6,383-yard Mobile Municipal Golf Course. Par is 36-36—72.

The round moved Brewer, who had started with a 73, into a tie at 140 with six other players, including Arnold Palmer and Walter Burkemo.

In addition to the 68s by Casper, of Apple Valley, Calif., and Gustin, a Birmingham, Ala., youth playing out of Gladwyne, Pa., other 4-under-par rounds were turned in by Palmer, Ligonier, Pa.; Pat Schwab, Pensacola, Fla.; and Gene Lesch, Prairie View, Ill.

Palmer and Schwab climbed into the 140 bracket with five others. Lesch and four others were a stroke back.

13 Top Bowl Invitations On Line In Today's Games

Important Contests On Tap In Big Ten And Pacific Coast

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

There are six major conference titles and 13 top bowl invitations on the line Saturday as the 1959 college football season begins its slowing process — schedule-wise only.

The intensity of the conference and bowl races is reflected in the triple tie for first place in the Big Ten between Wisconsin, Northwestern and Michigan State, one of whom will wind up in the Rose Bowl. All have 4-2 conference marks. The host team in the granddaddy of the bowls could be decided if Washington beats Washington State.

But these are only 4 of 17 teams involved in conference titles, with 11 considered as possible contestants in the Sugar, Cotton, Orange, Gator, Liberty and Blue Bonnet bowls.

Accept Bowl Bid

Top-ranked Syracuse, No. 1 for the second straight week in the Associated Press poll, and Arkansas are the only ones assured of a bowl. The Orange accepted the visitor's spot in the Cotton Bowl last week.

Arkansas has accepted a spot in the Gator Bowl, but can withdraw if it wins the Southwest Conference title outright and gets the host invitation to the Cotton Bowl.

Syracuse (8-0) plays tricky Boston University (4 - 4) Saturday, then has a week off until it ends the regular season at UCLA Dec. 5.

Wisconsin (No. 9) supposedly has an easier task that Northwestern (No. 8). The Badgers face lowly Minnesota (2-6) while the Wildcats must battle a tough Illinois (4 - 3 - 1) team that upset Wisconsin last week. Michigan State ended its Big Ten season last Saturday. A loss by both Wisconsin and Northwestern would give Michigan State the title and Rose Bowl trip.

Will Televise Game

The Wisconsin-Minnesota game will be televised nationally (NBC) at 2:30 p.m. EST.

Washington's Huskies, second to unbeaten Southern California in the Far West Five, are being dogged by independent Oregon. Both have 8-1 over - all records. Southern Cal is under suspension by the NCAA and can't go to the Rose Bowl. It's 8-0 record is matched only by Syracuse, and victory No. 9, by the fourth-ranked Trojans may come Saturday against cross - town rival UCLA.

A Washington loss to Washington State and a win by Oregon over Oregon State would throw the Rose Bowl spot to a vote of the old Pacific Coast Conference members, five of whom comprise the Far West Five.

Southwest Conference leader Arkanses (5-1) meets nonconference Texas Tech. Third - place Texas Christian (No. 10) faces Rice and a victory ties it with runner-up Texas (4-1).

The Longhorns (No. 5) could get the Cotton Bowl's host spot if they beat Texas A&M on Thanksgiving. They would be SWC co-champion with Arkansas, but have been away longer from the bowl.

All three teams are considered prime bowl possibilities elsewhere if they continue to win.

Georgia (No. 6) won the Southeastern Conference title last week and does not play until a week from Saturday when it meets Georgia Tech. But other SEC members are battling for bowl spots.

LSU Battles Tulane

Third - ranked Louisiana State (8-1) faces Tulane and may wind up in the Sugar or Blue Bonnet Bowl. Second-ranked Mississippi is idle but is also a candidate for the same bowls, while unranked Tennessee and Alabama, meeting Kentucky and Memphis State, respectively, hope to improve their bowl status.

Seventh - ranked Penn State (8-1), about to officially accept a Liberty Bowl bid, winds up its season against Pittsburgh (5-4).

Elsewhere, in the conferences, the Big Eight's fight for second place is tied right to the Orange Bowl's host spot. Oklahoma, the leader, can't return to defend its crown, but could crush Iowa State's hopes with a victory over the Cyclones. Kansas and Missouri, also tied with Iowa State for second, play each other.

Clemson Seeks Title

Clemson can nail down its second-straight Atlantic Coast Conference crown, and open itself to bowl bids, with a victory over Wake Forest.

Other top games:

EAST: Delaware at Bucknell; Rutgers at Columbia; Lafayette at Lehigh, Dartmouth at Princeton, Harvard at Yale.

SOUTH: The Citadel at West Virginia; Florida State at Florida; Mississippi Southern at Auburn; Virginia at Maryland; North Carolina State at South Caroline.

MIDWEST: Notre Dame at Iowa; Purdue at Indiana; Holy Cross at Marquette; Ohio State at Michigan; Villanova at Detroit-Nebraska at Kansas State.

SOUTHWEST: Hardin-Simmons at Arizona State; SMU at Baylor; West Texas at New Mexico State; Texas Western at Arizona; New Mexico at Air Force.

FAR WEST: California at Stanford; Montana at Idaho; Colorado State at Brigham Young; Utah State at Utah.

EXPLAIN IT IF YOU CAN, but two college teams, with very tarnished records, meet in a BIG game Saturday, November 21, and the crowd is expected to hit 100,000.

That would be the annual meeting of Ohio State and Michigan in Michigan's fine Bowl at Ann Arbor and behind the scenes is the rivalry which now reaches 56 games.

And, for the first time in many years, the game will not have a bearing on the Big Ten title. In 41 games played between the two since Ohio State entered the Big Ten, the Big Ten crown, or a share of it, has hinged on this game 18 times.

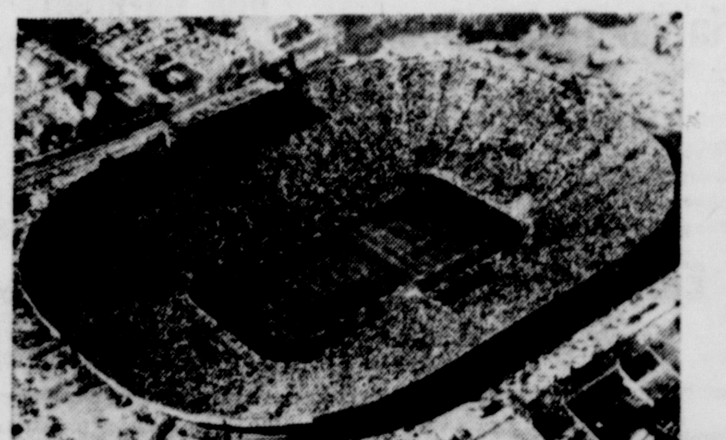
HOW OHIO STATE continues to draw those 80,000 crowds in its own stadium every week amazes one and all and yet the Buckeyes, located in a town which is football crazy, do. There are angles, of course, for Ohio State has a big enrollment and students from Ohio State and the competing school take up quite a section of the seats.

Ohio State, under Woody Hayes, a most controversial figure but a great coach, has had a fine record in recent years and over the many years it has been playing football the fans have jammed the concrete horseshoe despite the attraction.

Statistics on Ohio State crowds are awesome. In 202 games in the Ohio stadium since 1922 the average is 55,451!



Michigan stadium . . . It seats 101,001

And, in 317 games at home and away the Bucks have averaged 52,071 per game!

Ohio State's 10 largest crowds away from home include seven at Michigan, which is another example of the draw of these two teams.

OHIO STATE goes into the Michigan game with a poor (for the Bucks) mark of 3-4-1 and Michigan sports another mediocre record of 3-5. And yet the crowd will be there because these meetings always are tough, hard battles with the season records meaning little or nothing.

For the first time in many, many years, a familiar coaching figure at Michigan won't be on the field for this one. Bennie Oosterbaan, Michigan's three-time All-American, gave up the coaching reins after last season and Chalmers (Bump) Elliott replaced him. Bennie will be at the game, however, broadcasting over a Detroit radio station.

In the series overall, Michigan has won 34 games with Ohio State taking 17 and four ending in ties.

Aussies Retain Lead In Canada Cup Tournament

Canadians Second, U.S. Out Of Running

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

MELBOURNE (AP) — The Australian team of Peter Thomson and Kel Nagle started the final round of the Canada Cup International golf competition Saturday with the championship virtually in its pocket, and with Thomson leading in the individual competition.

"They have got it,' said Sam Snead, veteran American pro, "unless they collapse completely."

With Thompson shooting his third straight sub-par round, a 2-under-par 68, and Nagle carding a 76 the Australians held the seven-stroke lead they have enjoyed since the first round.

Canadians Second

They have an aggregate of 420 strokes for the first three rounds, with the Canadian team of Stan Leonard and Al Balding in second with 427.

Snead and his partner, Cary Middlecoff, shot themselves out of contention Friday with cards of 73 and 75, respectively. The Yanks started the final round in a deadlock for third place with South Africa's' Gary Player and Harold Henning. Each team had a 433 total.

Thomson Sets Pace

Thomson enjoyed a one - stroke lead for individual honors with a three-round total of 204. Leonard shot a third-round 69 and now is pressing Thomson with a 205 total. Snead is third at 211, with Player at 215 and Nagle at 216.

The Royal Melbournes' 6,853 yards, glassy greens and tree-guarded fairways, combined with scorching heat and high humidity, also wrecked the faint remaining chances of Wales, Japan, Spain and England. The defending champion Irish team had long since been eliminated from the title picture.

Both Snead and Middlecoff left the course in a huff, still bitter at the decision of officials that kept them in Sydney last weekend even though they were not entered in a tournament there. The Americans had wanted to come here and practice.

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sports of all sorts:

General Manager George Weiss of the New York Yankees says American League player traders can forget about trying to hornswoggle their National League counterparts — and vice versa—during the three weeks of inter-league swapping starting Saturday.

"I've talked to all National League clubs," says Weiss, "and they know as much about our personnel as do other clubs in our league. They can put their finger right now on the players who may have outlived their usefulness as Yankees — but could help them."

The city of New York, hopeful of landing the Navy-Air Force game in 1960, will go after Army-Syracuse, too. . ."But not until after Army ends its season with Navy on Nov. 28," said city official Bill Tackmann "They asked us to sit tight until then."

Seems everyone at West Point, top to bottom, is too busy fretting about Navy next Saturday to think about next year.

Start A Fad

Louisiana State started the ball rolling last season by naming its defensive unit the "Chinese Bandits" . . . Syracuse this year has its "Sizeable Seven," The pro Giants have "Landry's Legions," Iowa State's small but hard-nosed squad is called the "Dirty Thirty" — presumably because its uniforms get that way and not because of foul play — and way down in the small college ranks Lebanon Valley has its "Rinky Dinks."

Boom in swimming pools for private homes has made business executives out of Esther Williams, Gertrude Ederle, Eleanor Holm, Johnny Weismuller and Buster Crabbe, all former olympic swimmers. . . They'll be on hand for a sales convention in the big town Dec. 12-15.

Final Game Saturday

Purdue, which played the dedication game in Indiana's Memorial Stadium 34 years ago, is the final Hoosier foe at the old field Saturday. . .Indiana switches to its new stadium next season.

Red Schoendienst, honorary chairman of the Christmas Seals drive, reports several other athletes are working for the tuberculosis fund this year. . ."Phil Rizzuto is chairman in his New Jersey county, Otto Graham is working in Connecticut and Bobby Richardson of the Yankees is operating in South Carolina," says Red. "Bill Veeck," he added, "is on the Chicago committee."

Rip Engle of Penn State fears Pittsburgh Saturday largely because of all the "bowl talk" surrounding his team. . .reminded his lads three of those four Pitt defeats were by top-ranked Syracuse, second-ranked Southern California and Texas Christian, winner over Texas last week.

College tub-thumpers, who have been known to wax lyrical in their press releases whether they win or lose, have a new record for brevity to shoot at. . .this one arrived from Dallas State (Colo.) early this month:

"Alamosa, Colo. — Adams State 8, Colorado College 47. What can you say when you take a beating like that?

"Nothing."

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: My sister has two children, a boy two and a girl three. She bathes them together in the bathtub. I think this is disgraceful and have told her so. She has asked me to mind my own business.

What is your opinion of such goings on? My sister always was a hardheaded mule. Just because she took a course in psychology she thinks she knows it all. No one can tell her anything. Maybe you can set her straight.—BV

DEAR BV: Authorities believe it is emotionally healthy for very young children to mingle in the unclothed state.

So — I suggest you take your sister's advice and mind your own business.

DEAR ANN: I'm a college freshman. A certain fellow has been taking all my time. We're not going steady but neither of us goes with anyone else.

Bill never calls in advance for a date, even for the big parties—he just assumes I'm available. This makes me mad and he knows it. Please tell me (and hundreds of other girls who have this problem) what to do about it.

I've asked Bill a dozen times to give me a little notice, especially for the dressy affairs, but he still calls me in the morning and says "Tonight is the big dance. I'll pick you up at 8." What to do? —ZERO HOUR

DEAR ZERO HOUR: You are being taken for granted and it's your fault. Circulate a bit and make other friends. Surely there must be one or two other fellows who would take you out.

The Big Change will come about the morning Bill phones to tell you he'll be by to pick you up for the party and you say "Sorry, friend, I've got a date. Next time please give me a little notice, will you?"

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have read a few newspaper articles about you and was interested in the fact that you seem to have an unusual faculty for remembering people's names.

You must meet a great many people in your work and travels. Will you tell me if you have any little secret formula? I have had trouble remembering names all my life and it has caused me a lot of embarrassment.—BLANKETL BLANK

DEAR BLANK: Yes, there is a little "secret" attached to remembering names. First—when you are introduced GET THE NAME. So often people mumble introductions and the name is never heard. If you don't get it, ASK. No one will feel offended if you say "I'm sorry I didn't get your name."

Then, use that person's name immediately. Say "So nice to meet you, Mrs. Wentworth" — and pronounce the name again within the next few moments: "You have a point, Mrs. Wentworth." After that, it's easy, unless the next person you meet is Mrs. Bentworth, in which case you're on your own.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DISCOURAGED: The time to have thought about your grades was three years ago. There are many excellent small schools that are looking for students. Forget about the Ivy League and ask your counselor to suggest something within your academic reach.

POOR FISH: Try it and see. Maybe you'll make it by the skin of your fin. Good luck and let me know the results.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Touching All Bases

For a good many years now, nuns have been hot box office. Just put Audrey Hepburn in a habit and get Gregory Peck, as the unbeliever who sees the light in the last few minutes and you can hardly miss. And, going right along with the nun cycle, has been the children cycle. You can barely enter a Broadway theater without discovering the stage hip-deep in childhood. At "Music Man" you find little Paul O'Keefe and at "The Miracle Worker" you find Patty Duke and a passel of blind children, and at "Gypsy" the air quivers with the happy cries of the little darlings.

And that brings us to "The Sound of Music" which has both children and nuns. This is what is known as touching all the bases. Oh, brother, did they ever touch all the bases. Not only have they got children in Sound of Music" but children of all ages from six to sixteen, even of 'em. This is really touching all the bases, all seven bases. And nuns, too. And Mary Martin, on top of that.

In "Sound of Music," Mary Martin is first a nun (or rather a novitiate but she's surrounded by the real articles) and then she is the mother of seven children. All I can say is that I'm happy I'm not a theater critic. In the first place, you can't possibly say anything unkind about Mary Martin, ever. You would be considered subversive. But to cast a vote against Mary Martin playing, first a nun and then a mother—well, you'd be deported. Naturally. Can't have people like that in this country. And to come out against the seven ages of childhood, and motherhood, and nuns—well, you'd probably be hung first and then deported. As I say, I'm glad it's not my problem.

But out in the crowd at intermission, I did hear someone mutter: "It's 'Little Women' with chocolate marshmallow sauce." But I didn't say it! Somebody else said it! They can't hang that on me!

Actually, I enjoyed "Sound of Music" very much. Cried in all the right places and everything. But then I've been trained in the toughest school of all—television. Anyone who has sat through as many domestic situation comedies as I have can absorb seven little dumplings, twinkling their roguish smiles, romping around in their nighties, being afraid of thunder and all that—and Mary Martin too.

We've been through it all with Robert Young. Many times. The times I've seen Robert Young drape his arm around his son's shoulders, the son sitting there, eyes downcast wondering Why He Did It, and listening to Young say: "Son, we've all been tempted. We've all had our little slips. So you told Clarabelle that you're seventeen when you're only sixteen. Well, it's a lie. You shouldn't have done it. I'm not condemning it, you understand. But perhaps, having done it and confessed your crime, you'll emerge a stronger, truer, decenter, more upright, more humble, more loving human being and I just want you to know that, while I don't forgive it, I do understand it." After enough of that sort of dialogue, a fellow can take "Sound of Music" in his stride.

Hell, I sat up with Desi Arnaz, that symbol of happy family life, when he and Lucy had their first child practically on camera. I was right there, sobbing my eyes out, when Little Beaver ran away from home the first time. I was around, clutching at my heartstrings when Patty Duke looked up at Christopher Plummer in "Prince and the Pauper" and cried: "Are you a real king?" I was right there, tearing my hankie to shreds, when the children came pelting out of the forest and scampered back to their mommies' arms in "The Pied Piper of Hamelin." (I know that's not in the original story, but on television we handle things differently).

Oh, I've been well trained all right. But what I want to know, Mannie, is where do we go from here? How do we top "The Sound of Music"? We mustn't despair; we must push forward. Now, how does this sound to you, Mannie—understand, I'm just spitballing —suppose we had a hunchback who rings the bells in the cathedral—if we play our cards right we can get Bing Crosby for the hunchback—and high up in the tower he is hiding this little girl, Patty Duke, who is taking care of her baby brother. We got a brand new twist there, Mannie—the baby brother. Well, now, get this—little Patty Duke is feeding the baby brother his bottle—rolling her eyes in terror because she's afraid of the dark—and listening to the bells when she is discovered by the Mother Superior, Helen Hayes, of course . . . I can't go on. Already, I'm crying my eyes out.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

It's not a horseshoe but a work formula that brings success.

A Beauty Formula To Success

It's not a matter of luck, when one girl spirals to success in business or social life, while another plunges to failure.

According to statistics, the so-called "lucky" people are, nine times out of ten, just plain hard workers who have cultivated their skills, not only in work but in personality as well. They are people who set up a goal, seek the formula for attaining it, then carry it out.

A poll of 10 top-notch Powers Girls reveals four points which should be included in your formula for success in either business or social life.

1. Physical fitness. Make every effort to keep your general health, weight and carriage in top form at all times. If there is any doubt in your mind about any phase of your physical well-being, act promptly. Take your serious problems to a physician. Keep posted on modern health and beauty routines.

2. Perfect your type. Don't make the mistake of trying to change it. Just be yourself, but make sure that it's your best self. Wear the clothes, make-up and colors that suit you individually. Wear them with immaculate precision. And always wear that famous talisman of good luck, your charm.

3. Learn something new: To keep your interests healthy, and to whet others' interest in you, put those after-work hours to use. If you are in business, prepare yourself for something better.

If the home is your forte, get out into civic or club work. Attend an adult school. Develop some hidden talent. You'll be more attractive to others and happier with yourself.

4. Make life easier for yourself and everybody: Treat your friends like your family — and your family like your friends!

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — "I have read the scenario based on my novel 'Back Street and written Ross Hunter to reconsider 'gilding-up the plain Americana of my story, thus obscuring the values that made it famous,' writes Fannie Hurst. "I think I can say without ego that 'Back Street' has become a small American classic. Now the new generation will view it in the version you described in your column as one that I, the author of the book, would not recognize.

"Ross Hunter will no doubt, do a good job according to his lights as he is a gifted fellow. He certainly produced a successful 'Imitation of Life.' But I do not think 'Back Street' transferred to foreign soil will be an imitation of the life my book depicted."

Fannie writes further: "I do not mind so much that my contracts for both 'Imitation of Life' and 'Back Street' preclude me from one penny of the re-do profits. I have only my lack of business acumen to thank for that. But this version of 'Back Street, no matter what its ultimate success, is a dish of anguish to the author."

I hear through the grapevine that Ross is in a spot because the only way he can get Susan Hayward is to make 'Back Street' in Europe.

Richard Zanuck verified that he and Zanuck productions have been named leading defendants in a suit brought by Nathan Leopold. The Zanucks are being sued for a quarter of a million dollars. Every individual theatre in Illinois (Leopold's home state) where the movie "Compulsion" was shown are also subject to the suit, as well as the stage play in New York, and Meyer Levin, author of both the play and the book.

As an outsider, it would seem to me that Leopold was ill-advised to bring such action. He's on parole, and whether this could affect his parole, no one knows. He served 33 years in prison for his crime, became a humanitarian behind those prison walls, and later took a job as laboratory technician at $10 a month at a mission hospital in Puerto Rico. He comes from a wealthy family, and certainly doesn't need the money. So why drag out his horrible case again — it only looks bad for him.

The biggest rival Gary Cooper had in Russia, Rocky tells me, was a 1960 powder blue Ford station wagon. She said when they came out of the Metropole Hotel in Moscow there were crowds and crowds of people who had come to look at this new car which had just arrived. Said Rocky, "I sent Henry Ford a post card to tell him.'

"It was a fascinating trip," Rocky said. "What we saw of the Kremlin was beautifully furnished from the time of the Czars. Our trip was under the sponsorship of the Minister of Culture so that we saw things that the average tourist doesn't see. The American Ambassador, Lewellyn Thompson, and Mrs. Thompson gave a dinner and reception for us."

Rocky said the rooms in the hotel were a shock they were so dirty, but the train they were on was very clean even though they have nothing like our pullmans.

Early in the morning after the premiere of "Ben Hur" in New York, Haya Harareet telephoned to tell me that it was the most exciting night of her life. She said, "because the picture is so great."

"Then what?" I asked her.

"I am going to ask MGM to let me play a modern character—something glamorous. The role of Esther was a great experience but I don't want to become a typed actress."

MGM has worked miracles with the Israeli - born actress who emerges as a fashion plate. When I interviewed her she had not yet undergone the glamour treatment.

What a wonderful gesture in the name of art famed French director Jean Renoir is making. Renoir, probably the highest priced film director in his native land, arrives soon after the first of the year to teach drama at the University of California at Berkeley for a professor's salary!

In this day of too few motion pictures for children, I am very happy to report on an hour-long film "A study in Greatness," the life of Abraham Lincoln. This is both educational and interesting and made by the little known Francis Raymond Line films of Los Angeles.

Particularly interesting is that Marvin Miller, who is the narrator, also speaks as Lincoln.

Lincoln is never shown except through his statues. When the Lincoln speeches are read, Marvin just changes his voice to sound as he supposed Lincoln would have spoken. According to historians, Lincoln had a midwestern, rather high pitched voice, and this Marvin does with great effect.

Speaking of the Miller family, Elizabeth (Mrs. M.) is in Sydney, Australia, with Mrs. Robert Mitchum, visiting the locationing Bob who is there making "The Sundowners."

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: My sister has two children, a boy two and a girl three. She bathes them together in the bathtub. I think this is disgraceful and have told her so. She has asked me to mind my own business.

What is your opinion of such goings on? My sister always was a hardheaded mule. Just because she took a course in psychology she thinks she knows it all. No one can tell her anything. Maybe you can set her straight.—BV

DEAR BV: Authorities believe it is emotionally healthy for very young children to mingle in the unclothed state.

So — I suggest you take your sister's advice and mind your own business.

DEAR ANN: I'm a college freshman. A certain fellow has been taking all my time. We're not going steady but neither of us goes with anyone else.

Bill never calls in advance for a date, even for the big parties—he just assumes I'm available. This makes me mad and he knows it. Please tell me (and hundreds of other girls who have this problem) what to do about it.

I've asked Bill a dozen times to give me a little notice, especially for the dressy affairs, but he still calls me in the morning and says "Tonight is the big dance. I'll pick you up at 8." What to do? —ZERO HOUR

DEAR ZERO HOUR: You are being taken for granted and it's your fault. Circulate a bit and make other friends. Surely there must be one or two other fellows who would take you out.

The Big Change will come about the morning Bill phones to tell you he'll be by to pick you up for the party and you say "Sorry, friend, I've got a date. Next time please give me a little notice, will you?"

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have read a few newspaper articles about you and was interested in the fact that you seem to have an unusual faculty for remembering people's names.

You must meet a great many people in your work and travels. Will you tell me if you have any little secret formula? I have had trouble remembering names all my life and it has caused me a lot of embarrassment.—BLANKETL BLANK

DEAR BLANK: Yes, there is a little "secret" attached to remembering names. First—when you are introduced GET THE NAME. So often people mumble introductions and the name is never heard. If you don't get it, ASK. No one will feel offended if you say "I'm sorry I didn't get your name."

Then, use that person's name immediately. Say "So nice to meet you, Mrs. Wentworth" —and pronounce the name again within the next few moments: "You have a point, Mrs. Wentworth." After that, it's easy, unless, the next person you meet is Mrs. Bentworth, in which case you're on your own.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DISCOURAGED: The time to have thought about your grades was three years ago. There are many excellent small schools that are looking for students. Forget about the Ivy League and ask your counselor to suggest something within your academic reach.

POOR FISH: Try it and see. Maybe you'll make it by the skin of your fin. Good luck and let me know the results.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Touching All Bases

For a good many years now, nuns have been hot box office. Just put Audrey Hepburn in a habit and get Gregory Peck, as the unbeliever who sees the light in the last few minutes and you can hardly miss. And, going right along with the nun cycle, has been the children cycle. You can barely enter a Broadway theater without discovering the stage hip-deep in childhood. At "Music Man" you find little Paul O'Keefe and at "The Miracle Worker" you find Patty Duke and a passel of blind children, and at "Gypsy" the air quivers with the happy cries of the little darlings.

And that brings us to "The Sound of Music" which has both children and nuns. This is what is known as touching all the bases. Oh, brother, did they ever touch all the bases. Not only have they got children in Sound of Music" but children of all ages from six to sixteen, even of 'em. This is really touching all the bases, all seven bases. And nuns, too. And Mary Martin, on top of that.

In "Sound of Music," Mary Martin is first a nun (or rather a novitiate but she's surrounded by the real articles) and then she is the mother of seven children. All I can say is that I'm happy I'm not a theater critic. In the first place, you can't possibly say anything unkind about Mary Martin, ever. You would be considered subversive. But to cast a vote against Mary Martin playing, first a nun and then a mother—well, you'd be deported. Naturally. Can't have people like that in this country. And to come out against the seven ages of childhood, and motherhood, and nuns—well, you'd probably be hung first and then deported. As I say, I'm glad it's not my problem.

But out in the crowd at intermission, I did hear someone mutter: "It's 'Little Women' with chocolate marshmallow sauce." But I didn't say it! Somebody else said it! They can't hang that on me!

Actually, I enjoyed "Sound of Music" very much. Cried in all the right places and everything. But then I've been trained in the toughest school of all—television. Anyone who has sat through as many domestic situation comedies as I have can absorb seven little dumplings, twinkling their roguish smiles, romping around in their nighties, being afraid of thunder and all that—and Mary Martin too.

We've been through it all with Robert Young. Many times. The times I've seen Robert Young drape his arm around his son's shoulders, the son sitting there, eyes downcast wondering Why He Did It, and listening to Young say: "Son, we've all been tempted. We've all had our little slips. So you told Clarabelle that you're seventeen when you're only sixteen. Well, it's a lie. You shouldn't have done it. I'm not condemning it, you understand. But perhaps, having done it and confessed your crime, you'll emerge a stronger, truer, decenter, more upright, more humble, more loving human being and I just want you to know that, while I don't forgive it, I do understand it." After enough of that sort of dialogue, a fellow can take "Sound of Music" in his stride.

Hell, I sat up with Desi Arnaz, that symbol of happy family life, when he and Lucy had their first child practically on camera. I was right there, sobbing my eyes out, when Little Beaver ran away from home the first time. I was around, clutching at my heartstrings when Patty Duke looked up at Christopher Plummer in "Prince and the Pauper" and cried: "Are you a real king?" I was right there, tearing my hankie to shreds, when the children came pelting out of the forest and scampered back to their mommies' arms in "The Pied Piper of Hamelin." (I know that's not in the original story, but on television we handle things differently).

Oh, I've been well trained all right. But what I want to know, Mannie, is where do we go from here? How do we top "The Sound of Music"? We mustn't despair; we must push forward. Now, how does this sound to you, Mannie—understand, I'm just spitballing—suppose we had a hunchback who rings the bells in the cathedral—if we play our cards right we can get Bing Crosby for the hunchback—and high up in the tower he is hiding this little girl, Patty Duke, who is taking care of her baby brother. We got a brand new twist there, Mannie—the baby brother. Well, now, get this—little Patty Duke is feeding the baby brother his bottle—rolling her eyes in terror because she's afraid of the dark—and listening to the bells when she is discovered by the Mother Superior, Helen Hayes, of course . . . I can't go on. Already, I'm crying my eyes out.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

It's not a horseshoe but a work formula that brings success.

A Beauty Formula To Success

It's not a matter of luck, when one girl spirals to success in business or social life, while another plunges to failure.

According to statistics, the so-called "lucky" people are, nine times out of ten, just plain hard workers who have cultivated their skills, not only in work but in personality as well. They are people who set up a goal, seek the formula for attaining it, then carry it out.

A poll of 10 top-notch Powers Girls reveals four points which should be included in your formula for success in either business or social life.

1. Physical fitness. Make every effort to keep your general health, weight and carriage in top form at all times. If there is any doubt in your mind about any phase of your physical wellbeing, act promptly. Take your serious problems to a physician. Keep posted on modern health and beauty routines.

2. Perfect your type. Don't make the mistake of trying to change it. Just be yourself, but make sure that it's your best self. Wear the clothes, make-up and colors that suit you individually. Wear them with immaculate precision. And always wear that famous talisman of good luck, your charm.

3. Learn something new: To keep your interests healthy, and to whet others' interest in you, put those after-work hours to use. If you are in business, prepare yourself for something better.

If the home is your forte, get out into civic or club work. Attend an adult school. Develop some hidden talent. You'll be more attractive to others and happier with yourself.

4. Make life easier for yourself and everybody: Treat your friends like your family — and your family like your friends!

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — "I have read the scenario based on my novel 'Back Street and written Ross Hunter to reconsider 'gilding-up' the plain Americana of my story, thus obscuring the values that made it famous,' writes Fannie Hurst. "I think I can say without ego that 'Back Street' has become a small American classic. Now the new generation will view it in the version you described in your column as one that I, the author of the book, would not recognize.

"Ross Hunter will no doubt, do a good job according to his lights as he is a gifted fellow. He certainly produced a successful 'Imitation of Life.' But I do not think 'Back Street' transferred to foreign soil will be an imitation of the life my book depicted."

Fannie writes further: "I do not mind so much that my contracts for both 'Imitation of Life' and 'Back Street' preclude me from one penny of the re-do profits. I have only my lack of business acumen to thank for that. But this version of 'Back Street,' no matter what its ultimate success, is a dish of anguish to the author."

I hear through the grapevine that Ross is in a spot because the only way he can get Susan Hayward is to make 'Back Street' in Europe.

Richard Zanuck verified that he and Zanuck productions have been named leading defendants in a suit brought by Nathan Leopold. The Zanucks are being sued for a quarter of a million dollars. Every individual theatre in Illinois (Leopold's home state) where the movie "Compulsion" was shown are also subject to the suit, as well as the stage play in New York, and Meyer Levin, author of both the play and the book.

As an outsider, it would seem to me that Leopold was ill-advised to bring such action. He's on parole, and whether this could affect his parole, no one knows. He served 33 years in prison for his crime, became a humanitarian behind those prison walls, and later took a job as laboratory technician at $10 a month at a mission hospital in Puerto Rico. He comes from a wealthy family, and certainly doesn't need the money. So why drag out his horrible case again — it only looks bad for him.

The biggest rival Gary Cooper had in Russia, Rocky tells me, was a 1960 powder blue Ford station wagon. She said when they came out of the Metropole Hotel in Moscow there were crowds and crowds of people who had come to look at this new car which had just arrived. Said Rocky, "I sent Henry Ford a post card to tell him.'

"It was a fascinating trip," Rocky said. "What we saw of the Kremlin was beautifully furnished from the time of the Czars. Our trip was under the sponsorship of the Minister of Culture so that we saw things that the average tourist doesn't see. The American Ambassador, Lewellyn Thompson, and Mrs. Thompson gave a dinner and reception for us."

Rocky said the rooms in the hotel were a shock they were so dirty, but the train they were on was very clean even though they have nothing like our pullmans.

Early in the morning after the premiere of "Ben Hur" in New York, Haya Harareet telephoned to tell me that it was the most exciting night of her life. She said, "because the picture is so great."

"Then what?" I asked her.

"I am going to ask MGM to let me play a modern character—something glamorous. The role of Esther was a great experience but I don't want to become a typed actress."

MGM has worked miracles with the Israeli - born actress who emerges as a fashion plate. When I interviewed her she had not yet undergone the glamour treatment.

What a wonderful gesture in the name of art famed French director Jean Renoir is making. Renoir, probably the highest priced film director in his native land, arrives soon after the first of the year to teach drama at the University of California at Berkeley for a professor's salary!

In this day of too few motion pictures for children, I am very happy to report on an hour-long film "A study in Greatness," the life of Abraham Lincoln. This is both educational and interesting and made by the little known Francis Raymond Line films of Los Angeles.

Particularly interesting is that Marvin Miller, who is the narrator, also speaks as Lincoln.

Lincoln is never shown except through his statues. When the Lincoln speeches are read, Marvin just changes his voice to sound as he supposed Lincoln would have spoken. According to historians, Lincoln had a midwestern, rather high pitched voice, and this Marvin does with great effect.

Speaking of the Miller family, Elizabeth (Mrs. M.) is in Sydney, Australia, with Mrs. Robert Mitchum, visiting the locationing Bob who is there making "The Sundowners."

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved father, husband and grandfather, James O. Gordon who died 1 year ago today, November 21, 1958.
God took him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts we love him still,
His memory is as dear today
As in the hour he passed away.
We often sit and think of him,
When we are all alone.
For memory is the only friend,
That grief can call its own.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved father, husband and grandfather, James O. Gordon who died 1 year ago today, November 21, 1958.

God took him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts we love him still.
His memory is as dear today
As in the hour he passed away.
We often sit and think of him,
When we are all alone.
For memory is the only friend,
That grief can call its own.

WIFE, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

Two Men Shot, Third Beaten In Argument

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two men were shot and a third was badly beaten Friday in what police described as an argument between owners of a downtown Baltimore shoe store.

Morton Schott, 42, and Yonnie Kirson, 40, both were shot and wounded by a .32 caliber pistol, police said. Robert Cogan, 61, suffered severe head and face injuries.

The three men were owners of Clark's Shoe Store on North Howard street, in the center of the city's retail business section. The store and sidewalk were spattered with blood.

The three men were reported in fair condition at Maryland General Hospitals. No charges were filed immediately.

The disturbance attracted hundreds of shoppers and onlookers and tied up traffic on the busy street for more than a half hour.

Lewis Gold, the store manager, said the three owners spent most of the morning discussing business in a back room. He said he heard shooting from the back room early in the afternoon, then saw one of the men run through the front of the store and into the street.

Patrolman Elmer Weber was directing traffic at a nearby corner at the time. He said he saw a man stagger towards him calling for help and leaving a trail of blood.

Weber raced into the shoe store with his gun drawn. When he entered the back room, he said, he found the other two men and immediately threw his gun away. The officer explained that he was afraid the wounded men might try to take the weapon away from him and start shooting.

The men surrendered and Weber called for an ambulance.

He said that one of the owners apparently shot the other two owners. The two wounded men then picked up a board and attacked the other man.

Club Thanks Board For Road Work

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday received a letter of thanks from Thomas C. Cutchall, of the South End Rod and Gun Club, for repairs to a road leading off Oldtown Road adjacent to the club's property.

The board also delivered a deed to the old Hammond Street School in Westernport to Horace P. Whitworth Jr. and George R. Failing. The two men submitted the highest bid for the property last Tuesday. The county sold the building for $3,000.

Two Men Shot, Third Beaten In Argument

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two men were shot and a third was badly beaten Friday in what police described as an argument between owners of a downtown Baltimore shoe store.

Morton Schott, 42, and Yonnie Kirson, 40, both were shot and wounded by a .32 caliber pistol, police said. Robert Cogan, 61, suffered severe head and face injuries.

The three men were owners of Clark's Shoe Store on North Howard street, in the center of the city's retail business section. The store and sidewalk were spattered with blood.

The three men were reported in fair condition at Maryland General Hospitals. No charges were filed immediately.

The disturbance attracted hundreds of shoppers and onlookers and tied up traffic on the busy street for more than a half hour.

Lewis Gold, the store manager, said the three owners spent most of the morning discussing business in a back room. He said he heard shooting from the back room early in the afternoon, then saw one of the men run through the front of the store and into the street.

Patrolman Elmer Weber was directing traffic at a nearby corner at the time. He said he saw a man stagger towards him calling for help and leaving a trail of blood.

Weber raced into the shoe store with his gun drawn. When he entered the back room, he said, he found the other two men and immediately threw his gun away. The officer explained that he was afraid the wounded men might try to take the weapon away from him and start shooting.

The men surrendered and Weber called for an ambulance.

He said that one of the owners apparently shot the other two owners. The two wounded men then picked up a board and attacked the other man.

Electronics Rally Helps Market To Close Higher

NEW YORK (UPI)—Electronics rallied in the final hour on a burst of buy orders and the stock market closed on a note of strength.

Support spread to other sections of the list, but the gains in the electronics by far were the most spectacular.

Ampex, which climbed slowly in a session marked by generally routine trading, soared in the closing minutes. It finished the day at 134⅞ up 12⅛.

Other good gains in the electronics appeared in Texas Instruments up 7½ to 192½ and Zenith up 5 to 120. Varian and Motorola jumped more than 3 each.

Trading slipped somewhat to 2,960,000 shares from 3,230,000 shares the day before. The tape broadened to 1,240 issues, 40 more than previously and of these 506 advanced, 501 declined and 233 held unchanged. New lows for the year outnumbered new highs 47 to 25.

American Motors was the most active issue of the day with 42,500 shares. It closed at 86⅜ off ⅝. Rounding out the top five were Jersey Standard, Electric & Musica, Allegheny Corp., and El Paso Natural Gas.

Steels were ragged. U.S. Steel fell ⅞ to 96. Carpenter dropped 6⅛ to 50⅜. Youngstown eased to 125.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Liquidation and stop-loss selling weakened most grain futures prices Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was unchanged to off 1; corn off ½ to 1⅛; oats off ½ to up ⅛; rye off 1 to up ⅛; soybeans off ¾ to 1.

Nearby wheat closed with losses of a cent. Early selling disclosed a lack of demand, and prices fell as much as 2 cents on short covering. Profit-taking brought a small rally. On the decline an export house took December. Scattered commission houses bought deferred contracts.

There was moderate spreading of December to March at around 4½ cents difference.

Corn was also weak. The market met early general selling, with small buying on resting orders. Commercial houses sold March. Some March and May was sold against purchases of December. Export subsidies were granted on 573,000 bushels of corn.

Oats declined under commission house selling and stop-loss orders.

Rye was irregular, with a strong Winnipeg market lending support to local trading.

Soybeans also were weak. There was heavy liquidation by longs early. A demand appeared for January at $2.20, March at $2.23 and May at $2.25. Meals were higher.

Export circles reported Japan took 12,000 tons of soybeans and Pakistan bought a cargo of white wheat.

Outside markets were mixed.

Electronics Rally Helps Market To Close Higher

NEW YORK (UPI)—Electronics rallied in the final hour on a burst of buy orders and the stock market closed on a note of strength.

Support spread to other sections of the list, but the gains in the electronics by far were the most spectacular.

Ampex, which climbed slowly in a session marked by generally routine trading, soared in the closing minutes. It finished the day at 134⅞ up 12⅛.

Other good gains in the electronics appeared in Texas Instruments up 7½ to 192½ and Zenith up 5 to 120. Varian and Motorola jumped more than 3 each.

Trading slipped somewhat to 2,960,000 shares from 3,230,000 shares the day before. The tape broadened to 1,240 issues, 40 more than previously and of these 506 advanced, 501 declined and 233 held unchanged. New lows for the year outnumbered new highs 47 to 25.

American Motors was the most active issue of the day with 42,500 shares. It closed at 86⅜ off ⅝. Rounding out the top five were Jersey Standard, Electric & Musical, Allegheny Corp., and El Paso Natural Gas.

Ford, which announced it is dropping its Edsel line, lost more than 1. Chrysler firmed, while GM eased.

Steels were ragged. U.S. Steel fell ⅞ to 96. Carpenter dropped 6⅛ to 50⅜. Youngstown eased to 125.

Stocks moved generally higher in continued active dealings on the American Exchange Friday.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Liquidation and stop-loss selling weakened most grain futures prices Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was unchanged to off 1; corn off ½ to 1⅛; oats off ½ to up ⅛; rye off 1 to up ⅛; soybeans off ¾ to 1.

Nearby wheat closed with losses of a cent. Early selling disclosed a lack of demand, and prices fell as much as 2 cents on short covering. Profit-taking brought a small rally. On the decline an export house took December. Scattered commission houses bought deferred contracts.

There was moderate spreading of December to March at around 4½ cents difference.

Corn was also weak. The market met early general selling, with small buying on resting orders. Commercial houses sold March. Some March and May was sold against purchases of December. Export subsidies were granted on 573,000 bushels of corn.

Oats declined under commission house selling and stop-loss orders.

Rye was irregular, with a strong Winnipeg market lending support to local trading.

Soybeans also were weak. There was heavy liquidation by longs early. A demand appeared for January at $2.20, March at $2.23 and May at $2.25. Meals were higher.

Export circles reported Japan took 12,000 tons of soybeans and Pakistan bought a cargo of white wheat.

Outside markets were mixed.

City Officials Ask Cost Data On Street Plan

Package Program Is Asked Of Engineers

The Mayor and Council last night asked its three engineering aides to work out cost estimates for the first year of a street construction and maintenance program.

The action was taken at a discussion meeting after reports by C. R. Nuzum, city engineer; Franklin J. Blaney, assistant engineer for water and sewage, and Carl G. Rickard Jr., assistant engineer—streets, parks and planning.

Projects adopted for the first-year plan would include urgent street construction work, resurfacing of streets which need attention to preserve the city's investment, and the installation of storm and sanitary sewers and water lines needed to put the streets in top condition.

Cost To Be High

Mr. Nuzum had prepared a five-year plan for street construction, and a similar plan for resurfacing was suggested by Mr. Rickard.

By any estimate the work ahead will be formidable and costly, officials agreed.

For instance, Mr. Rickard reported 11½ miles of streets built 30 or more years ago must be resurfaced if the original base is to be preserved.

Mayor Keech asked the engineers to provide the figures on the total job.

Street Commissioner John J. Long urged prompt action, saying the city should be ready to move when the construction season begins next March.

One of the major problems will be financing. No decision has been made, but all officials seem to agree that the city will pay about 32 cents on the dollar, based on 25 per cent of the cost to abutting property owners and seven per cent for entirely-city-financed street and alley intersections.

Interest Costs High

There was some sentiment expressed for a large bond issue to finance the program extending over several years.

It also appeared that high interest costs, which resulted in a decision to keep the Thruway bond issue down to $350,000, will plague any long-range financing.

Preliminary discussions were also held on plans to relocate the city tax and engineering departments and on the city scales, which were condemned last week and must be replaced, repaired or abandoned.

Vets To Mark Anniversary

The second anniversary party of Cumberland Barracks 1125, World War One Veterans, and the auxiliary unit will be celebrated this evening with a chicken dinner beginning at 7 o'clock at the home of Henry Hart Post 1411, VFW.

Howard Loughrie, in charge of arrangements, said all members and their wives are invited to attend.

Invited guests include Sam Cohen of Hagerstown, department commander of Maryland, and other department officers; Mrs. Gertrude Carter of Dundalk, who heads the Auxiliary department officers, who are also expected to attend.

Sam Weston, manager of the Veterans Administration office here, has been invited to attend. After the dinner, a program of entertainment will be presented.

The meal will be prepared by the men and will be served by the auxiliary members.

TB Association Gets $3,649.70 In First Week

A first weekly report (November 16-20) shows that $3,649.70 was received at the local office of the Allegany-Garrett Tuberculosis Association which launched its annual Christmas Seal Drive recently.

During the first week of last year's drive, $4,444.60 was received. A breakdown of the $3,649.70 figure shows that $3,156.70 was received in the mail from residents of Allegany County.

Garrett countians thus far have contributed $493 of the total. Recently 28,126 letters were mailed to residents of the two counties.

The annual seal sale is conducted to raise funds to support the year-round program of the TB Association. The program includes free chest X-rays, free clothing for patients, mental therapy, physical therapy, medical research and education.

Pullen Agrees:

School Financing Proposal Needs Some Sort Of Limit

By GORDON BEARD

BALTIMORE (AP) — The state superintendent of schools expressed a willingness Friday to put some sort of limit on what has been described as a "bold, imaginative plan" to increase state aid to education.

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr. admitted the State Department of Education "expects a limit on state participation" after Del. Blair Lee III (D-Montgomery) expressed concern over the ultimate cost to the state.

Lee, one of the General Assembly's leading authorities on state finances, raised the point at one of the discussion groups of the Maryland State Conference on Education.

An ambitious plan, which would cost the state an estimated 57 million dollars in new spending over a five-year period, was presented Thursday to community leaders attending the conference. It was based on enrollment increases of the past five years and on salaries now received by school teachers.

Two-Year Study

Pullen told Lee the Legislature could place a limit on "the things which would be included in the state-supported portion of the plan. "All above that," Pullen said, "would be paid by the counties."

The program, drawn up by staff members of the State Department of Education and local superintendents after a two-year study, calls for the state to contribute about 45 per cent of the total cost of public education throughout Maryland instead of the current 36 per cent average.

Local contributions would vary on an "ability to pay" basis, ranging from 73 per cent in Baltimore City to 20 per cent in Calvert County.

Noting that Baltimore and each of the counties would submit an education budget, De. Lee said he feared the General Assembly would relinquish its control over education budget, Del. Lee said he merely a rubber stamp for the subdivisions.

Pullen said that wasn't possible because the legislators could exclude whatever they wanted from the program, or even abolish the entire plan.

Would Go Up Each Year

Under the plan, state aid would be increased $10,158,300 for each of the five years. But school officials pointed out that an estimated $6,302,000 would be added to the state burden annually anyway because of increased enrollment.

That means the accumulative normal increase for the five years would be about 95 million dollars, and the increase as a result of the proposed plan about 57 million dollars.

William J. Schmidt, superintendent of Prince Georges County schools, told convention delegates Friday the plan was needed to keep pace with a fast-changing, dynamic society.

"We cannot educate children in terms of when we were young," he said at a luncheon which ended the two-day conference. He said the plan would enable educators to meet the demands of the 1960s and 1970s.

Ready By 1961?

Pullen said the program probably wouldn't be ready for introduction at the 1960 Legislature, but indicated 1961 would be a likely target date.

Meanwhile, community leaders who attended the conference were expected to present and discuss

State's Share Would Go Up $29 Per Pupil

BALTIMORE (AP) — Here's how the cost of state aid to education would be affected under a plan proposed by the State Department of Education:

The state-supported minimum during the 1958-59 school year amounted to $229 per pupil, of which $113 was paid by the state and $116 by the counties and Baltimore City. The various subdivisions paid an additional $87 per pupil over and above the state minimum.

In other words the total cost per pupil was $316, with $113 contributed by the state.

Under the proposed plan, and based on the same $316 total cost per pupil, the state would pay $142 and the counties $173.

The state also is responsible for retirement and social security benefits.

Former County Man Is Killed Near Essex

William G. House, 23, whose mother, Mrs. Madge House, resides in Frostburg, was killed Thursday night in a one-car accident near Essex in Baltimore County.

A few hours after the accident, James W. Muir, also of Essex, who was the driver of the auto, was arrested and charged with assaulting two policemen who had arrived to apprehend him on a manslaughter charge.

Muir was treated for cuts and bruises at City Hospitals in Baltimore. He was released on $1,000 bond for a hearing December 28.

The car which Muir was driving and in which House was a passenger failed to make a sharp curve, shot off the road, hit a tree and overturned several times, police said.

Police added that when they went to arrest Muir, he fought with them, but was subdued and was charged with assault.

House was the son of Mrs. Madge House, Frostburg, and the late Joseph House.

He was a veteran of the Korean war and had lived since last summer in Baltimore, where he had gone for employment.

He was married and the father of an infant daughter.

Surviving in addition to his mother, widow and child, are four brothers, Edward House of Frostburg; Carl House of Fort Bragg, N. C.; Curtis House of Baltimore; George House of Frostburg; four sisters, Mrs. George Sagal of Klondyke; Mrs. Donna Allen of Baltimore; Mrs. Betty Hawkins of Grahamtown; and Mrs. Peggy Walker of Frostburg. A number of half brothers and half-sisters also survive, including Vernon Drummond of Frostburg.

The body is to be sent to the Hafer Funeral Home in Frostburg.

Yule Display Completion Set This Weekend

Ceremony To Mark Opening Of Season

Brief ceremonies will be held here next Friday, November 27, by the Retail Merchants Association to mark the opening of the Christmas shopping season in the Cumberland area.

During the program, Santa Claus will turn on the colorful Christmas lighting system which is being installed on Baltimore Street and parts of North Centre and North Mechanic streets.

Most of the decorations were installed last Sunday by Hare's Neon Service, which expects to complete the job tomorrow. The Potomac Edison Company, which strung cables for the light-studded wire frames, will complete electrical connections next week.

New Designs Added

S. Louis Curl, lighting chairman for the association, said most of the problems caused by the razing of downtown buildings have been solved.

Cumberland's Christmas lighting system, considered one of the best in this area, is similar to lights used some years ago to decorate New York's Chinatown for the Chinese New Year.

Lights were hung on local side streets, officials said, as merchants in the shopping area promised to boost their contributions.

Lighted bells and spheres are being used this year to replace Santa Claus figures.

Adopt Yule Schedule

Starting that night stores will be open on Monday and Friday nights until 9 p.m. Then on Monday, December 14, the stores will stay open every night except Saturday until 9 p.m. Stores will close on Saturdays at 5 or 6 p.m., depending on the store schedule.

During Christmas week, starting Monday, December 21, stores will be open until 9 p.m. with the exception of Christmas Eve, December 24, when they will close at 5 p.m.

Expert Will Help Set Up City Wage Classification

The City of Cumberland will get some free and expert help on its wage classification program.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, finance commissioner and staunch advocate of the program, said a University of Maryland consultant is scheduled to be here next Tuesday.

He will consult with City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson and City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery, who were recently asked by the Mayor and Council to prepare tentative figures for consideration of city officials.

Local 489 Begins Nominating Officers

Shortly after Mayor Lee Beachy made the first call through the new equipment yesterday, other Grantsville residents began trying out the new system to the tune of 1,800 calls in the first hour of service. The Grantsville exchange is now TWinoaks 5.

Shoe Plant May Locate In Hyndman

Labor Pool Survey To Be Conducted

A shoe manufacturer, who now maintains six plants has indicated interest in locating a seventh plant in the Hyndman, Pa., area, a spokesman for the recently-organized Hyndman-Londonderry Industrial Association said last night.

A labor pool survey will be made immediately, according to the spokesman, who said applications for potential employes at the plant will be available at Hyndman and in Cumberland.

These applications will be available at the Hyndman-Londonderry High School Monday and Tuesday from 9 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. and applicants will be assisted by students in the commercial class at the school.

Quick Answer Sought

In Cumberland, applications will be available at the Chamber of Commerce, Liberty Trust Building, on Monday and also on the same day at the office of the Maryland Department of Employment Security, 239 North Mechanic Street.

Applications are to be completed at the two local offices by Monday. The spokesman for the association said the shoe manufacturer wants to know by Wednesday the results of the survey.

Thursday evening quite a few residents of the Hyndman area turned out for a meeting at the high school at which time the location of industries in the community area was discussed.

John Harrington, a representative of the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce, was on hand to answer questions relating to the state's responsibility in industrial development.

Meanwhile the committee got in touch with the shoe manufacturer who has shown interest in locating in the Hyndman area.

The proposed building would cost about $200,000, according to the spokesman, who said the Hyndman - Londonderry investment would be about $40,000, the remainder being investments of the state and banking or financial agencies.

Would Employ 200 At Start

The initial number of persons who would be employed at the plant would be about 200. Eventually, from 400 to 500 persons would be employed, about 60 per cent of them women and 40 per cent men.

The proposed plant would be a complete shoe operation including stamping, cutting, sewing and boxing.

Civic leaders of the Hyndman-Londonderry Industrial Association include Dayton Harold Jr., chairman; Harvey Zeigler, executive vice president; Ross Harclerode, vice president; Harry Ritchie, secretary, and Harry Ahlburn, treasurer.

City Officials Ask Cost Data On Street Plan

Package Program Is Asked Of Engineers

The Mayor and Council last night asked its three engineering aides to work out cost estimates for the first year of a street construction and maintenance program.

The action was taken at a discussion meeting after reports by C. R. Nuzum, city engineer; Franklin J. Blaney, assistant engineer for water and sewage, and Carl G. Rickard Jr., assistant engineer—streets, parks and planning.

Projects adopted for the first-year plan would include urgent street construction work, resurfacing of streets which need attention to preserve the city's investment, and the installation of storm and sanitary sewers and water lines needed to put the streets in top condition.

Cost To Be High

Mr. Nuzum had prepared a five-year plan for street construction, and a similar plan for resurfacing was suggested by Mr. Rickard.

By any estimate the work ahead will be formidable and costly, officials agreed.

For instance, Mr. Rickard reported 11½ miles of streets built 30 or more years ago must be resurfaced if the original base is to be preserved.

Mayor Keech asked the engineers to provide the figures on the total job.

Street Commissioner John J. Long urged prompt action, saying the city should be ready to move when the construction season begins next March.

One of the major problems will be financing. No decision has been made, but all officials seem to agree that the city will pay about 32 cents on the dollar, based on 25 per cent of the cost to abutting property owners and seven per cent for entirely-city-financed street and alley intersections.

Interest Costs High

There was some sentiment expressed for a large bond issue to finance the program extending over several years.

It also appeared that high interest costs, which resulted in a decision to keep the Thruway bond issue down to $350,000, will plague any long-range financing.

Preliminary discussions were also held on plans to relocate the city tax and engineering departments and on the city scales, which were condemned last week and must be replaced, repaired or abandoned.

Vets To Mark Anniversary

Invited guests include Sam Cohen of Hagerstown, department commander of Maryland, and other department officers; Mrs. Gertrude Carter of Dundalk, who heads the Auxiliary department officers, who are also expected to attend.

Sam Weston, manager of the Veterans Administration office here, has been invited to attend. After the dinner, a program of entertainment will be presented.

The meal will be prepared by the men and will be served by the auxiliary members.

Pullen Agrees:

School Financing Proposal Needs Some Sort Of Limit

By GORDON BEARD

BALTIMORE (AP) — The state superintendent of schools expressed a willingness Friday to put some sort of limit on what has been described as a "bold, imaginative plan" to increase state aid to education.

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr. admitted the State Department of Education "expects a limit on state participation" after Del. Blair Lee III (D-Montgomery) expressed concern over the ultimate cost to the state.

Lee, one of the General Assembly's leading authorities on state finances, raised the point at one of the discussion groups of the Maryland State Conference on Education.

An ambitious plan, which would cost the state an estimated 57 million dollars in new spending over a five-year period, was presented Thursday to community leaders attending the conference. It was based on enrollment increases of the past five years and on salaries now received by school teachers.

Two-Year Study

Pullen told Lee the Legislature 'could place a limit on "the things which would be included in the state-supported portion of the plan. "All above that," Pullen said, "would be paid by the counties."

The program, drawn up by staff members of the State Department of Education and local superintendents after a two-year study, calls for the state to contribute about 45 per cent of the total cost of public education throughout Maryland instead of the current 36 per cent average.

Local contributions would vary on an "ability to pay" basis, ranging from 73 per cent in Baltimore City to 20 per cent in Calvert County.

Noting that Baltimore and each of the counties would submit an education budget, De. Lee said he feared the General Assembly would relinquish its control over education budget, Del. Lee said he merely a rubber stamp for the subdivisions.

Pullen said that wasn't possible because the legislators could exclude whatever they wanted from the program, or even abolish the entire plan.

Would Go Up Each Year

Under the plan, state aid would be increased $10,158,300 for each of the five years. But school officials pointed out that an estimated $6,302,000 would be added to the state burden annually anyway because of increased enrollment.

That means the accumulative normal increase for the five years would be about 95 million dollars, and the increase as a result of the proposed plan about 57 million dollars.

William J. Schmidt, superintendent of Prince Georges County schools, told convention delegates Friday the plan was needed to keep pace with a fast-changing, dynamic society.

"We cannot educate children in terms of when we were young," he said at a luncheon which ended the two-day conference. He said the plan would enable educators to meet the demands of the 1960s and 1970s.

Ready By 1961?

Pullen said the program probably wouldn't be ready for introduction at the 1960 Legislature, but indicated 1961 would be a likely target date.

Meanwhile, community leaders who attended the conference were expected to present and discuss

State's Share Would Go Up $29 Per Pupil

BALTIMORE (AP) — Here's how the cost of state aid to education would be affected under a plan proposed by the State Department of Education:

The state-supported minimum during the 1958-59 school year amounted to $229 per pupil, of which $113 was paid by the state and $116 by the counties and Baltimore City. The various subdivisions paid an additional $87 per pupil over and above the state minimum.

In other words the total cost per pupil was $316, with $113 contributed by the state.

Under the proposed plan, and based on the same $316 total cost per pupil, the state would pay $142 and the counties $173.

The state also is responsible for retirement and social security benefits.

Former County Man Is Killed Near Essex

William G. House, 23, whose mother, Mrs. Madge House, resides in Frostburg, was killed Thursday night in a one-car accident near Essex in Baltimore County.

A few hours after the accident, James W. Muir, also of Essex, who was the driver of the auto, was arrested and charged with assaulting two policemen who had arrived to apprehend him on a manslaughter charge.

Muir was treated for cuts and bruises at City Hospitals in Baltimore. He was released on $1,000 bond for a hearing December 28.

The car which Muir was driving and in which House was a passenger failed to make a sharp curve, shot off the road, hit a tree and overturned several times, police said.

Police added that when they went to arrest Muir, he fought with them, but was subdued and was charged with assault.

House was the son of Mrs. Madge House, Frostburg, and the late Joseph House.

He was a veteran of the Korean war and had lived since last summer in Baltimore, where he had gone for employment.

He was married and the father of an infant daughter.

Yule Display Completion Set This Weekend

Ceremony To Mark Opening Of Season

Brief ceremonies will be held here next Friday, November 27, by the Retail Merchants Association to mark the opening of the Christmas shopping season in the Cumberland area.

During the program, Santa Claus will turn on the colorful Christmas lighting system which is being installed on Baltimore Street and parts of North Centre and North Mechanic streets.

Most of the decorations were installed last Sunday by Hare's Neon Service, which expects to complete the job tomorrow. The Potomac Edison Company, which strung cables for the light-studded wire frames, will complete electrical connections next week.

New Designs Added

S. Louis Curl, lighting chairman for the association, said most of the problems caused by the razing of downtown buildings have been solved.

Cumberland's Christmas lighting system, considered one of the best in this area, is similar to lights used some years ago to decorate New York's Chinatown for the Chinese New Year.

Lights were hung on local side streets, officials said, as merchants in the shopping area promised to boost their contributions.

Lighted bells and spheres are being used this year to replace Santa Claus figures.

Adopt Yule Schedule

Starting that night stores will be open on Monday and Friday nights until 9 p.m. Then on Monday, December 14, the stores will stay open every night except Saturday until 9 p.m. Stores will close on Saturdays at 5 or 6 p.m., depending on the store schedule.
